BARKLEY MADE '32 KEYNOTER BY DEMOCRATS

Shouse Is Recommended for Permanent Chairman of Convention.

SELECTION IS RESULT OF FACTION ACCORD

Roosevelt Is Pleased With Kentuckian as Temporary Head of Session.

Chicago, April 4 (A.P.).—The Democratic arrangements committee for the national convention selected temporary and permanent chairmen today for the June 27 meeting in a compromise between the militant supporters of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and their opponents on the committee.

Senator A. W. Barkley, of Kentucky, backed by the Roosevelt forces, was the committee's recommendation for temporary chairman and keynoter.

Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee, and regarded as the keynoter candidate of the anti-Roosevelt faction, was recommended as permanent chairman of the convention.

Shouse Announces Selections.

The announcement of the committee's choices was made in a brief typewritten statement by Mr. Shouse, who presided over the gathering. While the session lasted all day and apparently there had been spirited debate, Mr. Shouse said that harmony had prevailed and that the actions of the committee were unanimous.

Today's selections will be recommended for action to the full national committee, which in turn will communicate them to the convention. Rarely is there controversy over the selection of the temporary chairman, but there has been fireworks in the ultimate election of a permanent chairman.

Nomination by the committee of a permanent chairman came as a distinct surprise. It has not been a precedent for the arrangements committee to recommend a permanent chairman, and all preliminary announcements indicated that the temporary chairmanship was the only question at issue.

Roosevelt Forces Confer.

For two hours the committee's session, after the luncheon recess, was held up while Roosevelt forces informally caucused in the suite of James A. Farley, one of the New York chief executive's field generals.

Mr. Farley, although not a member of the arrangements group, had hurried here from New York and was present in the committee anteroom much of the day. He left for New York before the session ended.

Five subcommittees were named to take care of different convention activities and the preliminary plans for seating and other arrangements at the Chicago Stadium, where both Republican and Democratic nominating gatherings will be held, were tentatively approved after consultation with Ralph Williams, of Oregon, vice chairman of the Republican national committee.

Subcommittees' List.

The Democratic subcommittees are:

Personnel—Robert Jackson, of New Hampshire; Harry F. Byrd, former Governor of Virginia; W. T. Kemper, of Missouri, and Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, of Wyoming.

Distribution of tickets—Arthur F. Mullen, of Nebraska; Thomas D. Taggart, of Indiana; Mrs. Bernice S. Pyke, of Ohio; Mrs. John C. Greenway, of Arizona; Mr. Shouse, Vincent M. Miles, of Arkansas, and Mrs. Clara D. Sevier, of Texas.

Seating of delegates and alternates—Frank Hague, of New Jersey; J. Bruce Kremer, of Montana; Mr. Mullen, Mrs. Sevier, and Mrs. Florence G. Farley, of Kansas.

Invitations, singers, and all similar matters—Mr. Shouse Mrs. Ross, and Mr. Jackson.

Mr. Shouse and Mr. Jackson were

Chinese Lose Northern City After Hot Battle

Tokyo (Tuesday), April 5 (A.P.).—A dispatch to the Rengo News Agency from Harbin, Manchuria, said today that Japanese troops had entered Fangcheng after a fierce battle in which Chinese rebels against the new Manchurian regime were routed.

Another dispatch from Antung to the newspaper Asahi said a Japanese expedition, advancing along the coast to drive Chinese irregulars from Chwangho, dispersed a strong enemy force near Taingchuitse, 75 miles southwest of Antung, after a stubborn two-hour battle. The Chinese left more than 60 bodies behind.

Darrow Loses Point At Fortescue Trial

Honolulu Judge Bars Question of Guilt or Innocence of Kahahawai; Selection of Jury Expected to Require Week.

Honolulu, April 4 (A.P.).—The question of the guilt or innocence of an alleged Hawaiian woman attacker today was barred from the trial of Mrs. Granville Fortescue, society woman, and her three naval co-defendants, charged with the second-degree murder of the islander.

An attempt by Clarence Darrow, famous Chicago criminal attorney, to inject the question into the examination of jurors at the first day of the trial session failed when Judge Charles S. Davis ruled against the action. Darrow heads the defense counsel.

The ruling was interpreted as a serious defeat for the vigorous-appearing 74-year-old court veteran, and was hailed as a victory for John C. Kelley, young and relentless prosecutor.

Mrs. Fortescue, well known in New York and Washington society, is on trial with Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, her son-in-law, and E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, enlisted men of the Navy. They are charged with kidnaping and shooting to death Joseph Kahahawai, accused attacker of Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of the naval officer, and daughter of Mrs. Fortescue.

Six men were temporarily accepted as jurors by the gray-haired defense counsel and Prosecutor Kelley when Judge Davis adjourned court for the day.

Questioning of the panel indicated Darrow would pay strong attention to obtaining a jury which would be unbiased despite the widespread discussion of the case.

Early questioning of jurors brought up the question of whether Kahahawai was guilty or innocent of the attack on Mrs. Massie last September. Prosecutor Kelley insisted it had no bearing in the case, but Darrow argued that it might have a great deal of bearing.

Kahahawai and three others had been tried for the attack, but were freed on bail when a jury was un-

PROGRESS REPORTED IN EUROPEAN PARLEY

Four Nations Will Confer on Economic and Political Crises Tomorrow.

London, April 4 (U.P.).—Progress toward an accord on Europe's more troublesome political and economic problems was reported tonight after Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald and French Premier Andre Tardieu had concluded a two-day series of conferences in London.

The conversations, which were concerned officially with Central Europe, but also involved informal discussion of war debts and reparations, were the first of a series designed to lead to closer collaboration among all European nations.

The British government was careful to emphasize the necessity for a general agreement "of an international character" as the best means of starting toward economic recovery.

Mr. MacDonald said that both British and French ministers were pleased with the method of informally exchanging viewpoints and added that it was agreed that such informal meetings should be held from time to time in the coming months to examine problems facing Europe.

He expressed hope that the four-power conference, in which Italy and Germany will participate, in London, beginning Wednesday, would lead to an agreement permitting the Danubian states to proceed with formation of the proposed economic union, designed to alleviate the present Central European crisis.

Mr. MacDonald indicated that there was need for haste in carrying out the plan, as grave results might be expected if there should be a long delay.

On the other hand, the French delegation, which had been anxious for a close understanding with Britain as a preliminary to the four-power conference, indicated that it was delighted with the results of the conversations, which exceeded expectations.

A communique issued by both delegations at No. 10 Downing street, said:

"The conversations were chiefly regarding the economic and financial difficulties with which the Danubian states are faced.

"The ministers of the two countries are of the opinion that the problems they examined can only be solved by a general agreement of an international character, and for this purpose close and cordial collaboration is essential among the four powers who meet Wednesday.

"In view of the impending meeting, this conference did not attempt to reach any conclusions, but the ministers are convinced that this comparison of their views will facilitate the work of the conference. The British and French governments share the hope that it may be possible speedily to concert measures which, while respecting the legitimate interest of third parties, will render possible the economic rapprochement of the Danubian states and facilitate establishment of conditions calculated to restore equilibrium and stability in this part of Europe."

Head of West Point Will Retire April 30

(Associated Press.)

Special War Department orders yesterday directed the retirement of Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of West Point, who reaches the statutory age limit of 64 years on April 30. Maj. Gen. William D. Connor, commandant of the Army War College, will replace Gen. Smith.

Gen. Smith's home is in Nashville. Mrs. Connor formerly was Elsa Van Vleet, of Memphis.

STIMSON DISCOUNTS EUROPE'S DEBT TALK

Will Hold at Geneva That Allies Must First Put Own House in Order.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Secretary Stimson will unfold some new suggestions to the General Disarmament Conference at Geneva, but if and when any one mentions debts, he will revert to the old policy of this Government in waiting until Europe first sets her own house in order, it was learned here yesterday.

The fear of imminent debt conversations in Europe refused to be quieted, despite stout protestations from responsible authorities in the State Department that there "was nothing to the debt reports." As if to cover up any intimation that debt developments were in the wake of the Secretary of State's trip to Geneva at this time, most ample details of the American disarmament program were made available.

Ambassadorial visits and diplomatic conferences were the order of the day in the State Department. The British, the French, the Italian and the Japanese Ambassadors were all closeted at various times with the Secretary or with Undersecretary William R. Castle, jr.

In the morning Col. Stimson reviewed some aspects of the disarmament program with Norman H. Davis, the American member of the delegation. He also called in Assistant Secretary James Grafton Rogers and the two experts of the department, Pierre deL. Boal and Pierrepont Moffat. In the afternoon some purely technical features of the disarmament program were discussed by Mr. Davis and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, and Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations.

The American position on the question of intergovernmental debt has not changed since the last memorandum on that subject dispatched to all American Ambassadors last December. These instructions reviewed the action of Congress in approving the Hoover moratorium and gave very special emphasis to the action of the legislative body in attaching to the approval definite reservations limiting further concessions or favors to Europe in the shape of either moratoria or reductions.

$40,000 Rum Cargo And Vessel Seized

Machine Gunfire Riddles Speedboat as Crew Makes Escape.

Westport, Mass., April 4 (A.P.).—A Coast Guard boat captured the speedboat Yvette June early today with nearly 1,000 cases of liquor which police valued at $40,000, after the stern of the craft had been riddled by machine gunfire and her crew had beached the craft and fled.

Westport police, who were cooperating with the Coast Guard today in trying to float the boat, said the Yvette June had been ordered to halt and when she failed to obey the command, the Government boat opened fire with a machine gun. The police said there was no evidence that any one aboard the boat had been injured.

The career of the Yvette June has been short but eventful. On her maiden voyage last fall she was fired upon by the Coast Guard and sunk. Later, she was raised and placed in commission again.

COL. LINDBERGH CIRCLES ISLAND IN SECRET HOP

Breckinridge Is With Him in Maneuvers Off New England.

TWO LAND IN JERSEY, AGAIN DISAPPEARING

Hopewell, N. J., April 4 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took to the air today in a spectacular move to regain his kidnaped son.

Swiftly and silently, he and his attorney and most intimate friend, Col. Henry Breckinridge, entered Newark about 3:30 p. m. by climbing over a back fence. From there they took off in the plane which the colonel obtained from an aircraft company to fly home from Vancouver, B. C., after his flight to the Orient last year. This fleet ship has been held in readiness since the kidnaping, March 1.

About 5 p. m. a plane, identified by its number (NC-49-M) as the colonel's was observed over Marthas Vineyard Island, off the Massachusetts coast, near the scene of an unexplained flight by an amphibian plane yesterday. From all indications, today's plane did not land, but circled the island three times.

The colonel and a companion, presumably Col. Breckinridge, then reappeared at Teterboro Airport, Hasbrouck Heights, in northern New Jersey, where Lindbergh landed at 6:20 p. m.

Returning to Hopewell.

They drove off in an automobile without disclosing their destination. After several contrary reports had been investigated it was believed they were returning here, a trip which would require several hours by automobile during the heavy early evening traffic.

Driving his own car, Col. Lindbergh returned to his country home at midnight. He approached the house over the same unfrequented back road that he had used last night. He was alone and there was no explanation as to the whereabouts of Col. Breckinridge or why the drive from Teterboro airport required more than double the normal driving time. The Colonel stopped only long enough to speak briefly to the police sentry near his house.

Sensational conjectures sprang from the fact that Lindbergh and Breckinridge carried a suit case and a

BIG HOUSE VOTE BACKS LIBERTY OF PHILIPPINES

Hare Bill Is Passed After 40 Minutes' Debate, 306 to 47.

SENATE AGREEMENT APPEARS PROBABLE

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The question of freeing the Philippine Islands, an American possession for 32 years, was disposed of by the House of Representatives yesterday in less than two hours.

By the overwhelming vote of 306 to 47—which was better than 6 to 1—the House passed the Hare bill, granting independence to the Philippines eight years after they have set up a Commonwealth government of their own.

The islands, Spanish property until Admiral Dewey steamed into Manila Bay in 1898, would be proclaimed independent on a Fourth of July, America's own natal day.

Senate Likely to Concur.

The Hare bill now goes to the Senate where it, or a substitute bill, seems assured of passage.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, whose department has jurisdiction over the islands, said late yesterday that the House had simply given "President Hoover something else to veto." Hurley had just talked to Hoover.

Asked specifically whether he thought the President would veto the bill, Hurley said it was "very hard to determine what the President will do."

Earlier in the day the views of another of the President's Cabinet, Secretary of State Stimson, became known when a letter he had written to Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, was made public.

Stimson Forecasts 'Chaos.'

Stimson, at one time governor general of the islands, said that if the United States should withdraw now, "economic chaos and political and social anarchy would result, followed ultimately by a domination of the Philippines by some foreign power, probably either China or Japan."

Stimson's statement was based on the issue of "immediate independ-

Used Harness on Her, Woman Says of Mate

Buffalo, N. Y., April 4 (A.P.).—John Bartz, a farmer, was accused at his trial for assault today of forcing his wife to wear a padlocked leather and canvas harness for twenty years as part of a regimen of cruelty.

Mrs. Bartz testified before a jury that her husband had clamped a leather riveting device on her dress to prevent her from moving her head and had lashed her with a strap on several occasions.

Throwing Money Away In Washington

—By WILLIAM P. HELM—

World War Handy Explanation for Increase in Public Extravagance; How Ordinary Expenses Have Risen Since Then.

Back in the dimming days of the World War, the French had a favorite expression, "C'est la guerre!" No matter what went wrong—"C'est la guerre!" Poor food, worse housing, wretched transportation, inordinate taxes, everything, thus was explained. It was the war, and the French, with a shrug, let it go at that.

We have stolen that expression from the French. The American Nation, from the man in the streets to nine out of every ten so-called financial experts, thus explains our high cost of Government at Washington. The World War was a handy goat to saddle for the joy-ride of public extravagance which has induced our present headache. The only difficulty about the explanation is that it simply is not true.

During the last fiscal year of the World War, the United States spent $15,365,362,741, exclusive of public debt issues and retirements. It was and is an all-time record. Among the items were these purely military expenditures:

Shipping Board	$1,871,201,577
Military establishment	9,208,534,279
Naval establishment	2,009,272,388
War Finance Corporation	295,000,000
Total military spendings	$13,384,008,244

Deduct those military expenditures from the total spendings of the year, and the remainder, $1,981,358,497, represents spendings for ordinary Government affairs.

Such is the Treasury showing. Turning now to the fiscal year 1931, the records show spendings of $3,987,148,134. In that total likewise are purely military spendings. Three items found in the 1918 bill: Army, Navy and (as an outgrowth of the war) Shipping Board. Under those headings the Government spent $704,119,135 last year. Deduct them from the total, and the remainder, $3,283,028,999, represents normal, peace-time spendings in 1931.

Fiscal year 1931	$3,283,028,999
Increase in 1931	$1,301,675,502

The rise is more than 60 per cent. It approximates the huge total Congress now seeks to raise by higher taxes. Conversely, it follows that had we continued the extravagant Government spendings of 1918-19, content to remain on that basis, we now would have no need to raise $1,300,000,000 by taxation. National spendings for peace-time routine, even on

HOOVER ECONOMY PLEA STIRS SENATE DEBATE; PAY RISE BAN DROPPED

House Group Agrees on 3 Minor Bills; Delays Salary Cut Action

TRANSPORT SERVICE WOULD BE ABOLISHED

Plans for Auxiliary Heating Plant Also Opposed by Committee.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Driven by the demand for Federal retrenchment, the House Democratic economy committee yesterday brought forth the first fruit of six weeks' labor—three minor bills for consolidation, eliminations and funds curtailment.

Threatened Federal pay-cut action failed to materialize at the four-hour session, despite renewed salary slash agitation in the Senate, where Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Arkansas, Democratic leader, urged pay reduction for "moral effect."

At the same time House and Senate conferees on the agriculture appropriations bill agreed to throw out bans on pay increases and promotions, retaining a modified nonfilling of vacancy clause. This action sets a precedent for every other appropriations bill.

Report Likely Today.

The three economy bills agreed to by the House committee probably will be reported today. They provide for abolition of the Army and Navy transport service, elimination of plans for a $750,000 auxiliary heating plant in Northwest Washington and merging of the International Water Commission between the United States and Mexico with the International Boundary Commission.

The economy group has not buried pay cut plans, members insisted, however. Whatever bill is reported will be offered as a rider to the legislative appropriations measure. Appropriations Chairman Joseph W. Byrns said the House may pass the balance of this week on independent office supplies, with the legislative bill the next in line for report.

Economy Chairman John McDuffie was unable to estimate the total amount of savings to be effected under the three bills agreed to yesterday. Abolition of the Army and Navy Transport service would save nearly $1,000,000 in the War Department alone, he said.

Heating Plant Plans Out.

The committee decided to drop plans for the heating plant, an auxiliary to the $5,000,000 central heating plant now being constructed by the Treasury, after Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and public parks, said existing facilities would suffice, after repairs.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley has been called before the group to-

Hitler Promises Women Ease in Finding Mates

Berlin, April 4 (A.P.).—Hundreds of women cheered Adolf Hitler at an open air meeting in the Lustgarten today when the Fascist leader promised that his "third Reich" would make it easier for all German maidens to find homes and husbands to support them.

Hitler, who is the National Socialist candidate for president of Germany in the election next Sunday, addressed the women in a whirlwind campaign, in which he is setting a record of four speeches daily.

Two Army Fliers Survive Collision

Crashing in Midair, One Lands Plane; Other Leaps to Safety.

Lieut. Ronald C. McLaughlin, 24, reserve officer, of Evanston, Ill., took to his parachute over Utica, 10 miles west of here, when his ship struck a downward current and swung into the path of a plane piloted by Second Lieut. Jesse Auton, 27, regular Army pilot, of De Moasville, Ky. The tail of McLaughlin's plane was sheared off. Lieut. Auton brought his badly damaged plane to the field safely. Lieut. McLaughlin landed safely near Utica. His plane was wrecked.

Text of Hoover's Plea For Gaining Economies

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I have in various messages to the Congress over the past three years referred to the necessity of organized effort to effect far-reaching reduction of governmental expenditures.

To balance the budget for the year beginning July 1 next, the revenue bill passed by the House of Representatives on April 1 necessitates that there shall be a further reduction of expenditures for the next year of about $200,000,000 in addition to the reduction of $369,000,000 in expenditures already made in the budget recommendations which I transmitted to the Congress on December 9.

It is essential in the interest of the taxpayer and the country that it should be done. It is my belief that still more drastic economy than this additional $200,000,000 can be accomplished. Such a sum can only be obtained, however, by a definite national legislative program of economy which will authorize the consolidation of governmental bureaus and independent establishments, and beyond this, which will permit the removal of long-established methods which lead to waste; the elimination of the less necessary functions, and the suspension of activities and com-

JURORS WILL PROBE CAPONE'S VOTE RULE

Charge of Terroristic Tactics to Control Primary Is to Be Sifted.

Chicago, April 4 (A.P.).—A special grand jury to investigate charges that Capone and his hoodlums are using terrorist tactics to control next week's primary was ordered today by Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg, a candidate for State's attorney nomination on the Republican ticket.

State Attorney John A. Swanson, seeking reelection, objected to the order, saying that because Feinberg was a candidate he was disqualified from calling the special jury.

"I do not wish to hear from you in this court," Judge Feinberg told Swanson. "You are speaking for the opposition; I might just as well hear from the gangsters against which this order is directed as hear from you."

To Swanson's complaint that "that remark is not in order," Feinberg's only comment was, "Court's adjourned."

The order, directing Frank J. Loesch, veteran crime fighter, to head the special grand jury, included in the charges to be investigated besides Capone terrorism: Alleged mishandling of receiverships, bombings, labor union terrorism and padding of public pay rolls.

Last week State Attorney Swanson in a letter to the Chicago Bar Association, charged Judge Feinberg with mishandling receiverships, handing them out to personal and political friends and relatives.

The petition for the special grand jury was filed by Mrs. Wallace Kirk, society matron, and Richard Prendergast, candidate for ward committeeman in the Forty-second Ward. This ward includes the Gold Coast.

Mrs. Kirk and Prendergast set out seventeen acts of alleged Capone terrorism. They also said Capone, now in the county jail awaiting a journey to Leavenworth to serve a Federal sentence for income tax violations, wanted to control next Tuesday's primary to elect ward committeemen to work for his pardon.

Virginia District G.O.P. Elects Rival Delegates

Richmond, Va., April 4 (A.P.).—Rival groups of delegates to the national convention, electors and district committeemen were named at a gathering of Third District Republicans here today at which it was indicated the fight between the "old guard" and so-called progressive faction would be carried to the Chicago convention for settlement.

The progressive group also indorsed Col. Henry W. Anderson for national committeeman to succeed C. Bascom Slemp and nominated John D. Peake, Richmond insurance man, for Congress to oppose Andrew Jackson Montague, Democratic incumbent. The rival faction insisted that the meeting today was not qualified to act on these matters which would have to await a later session called by Cyrus W. Beale, district chairman.

Creation of Commission on Budget Balancing Urged in Message.

HOUSE GROUP FIGURES CALLED EXAGGERATED

Robinson Charges President Is Seeking to Evade His Own Responsibility.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

President Hoover, in a special message to Congress yesterday, demanded economics in Federal expenditures and proposed creation of a special economy commission to be composed of members of the House and Senate and designated officials of the executive branch of the Government.

The President emphasized that, despite the passage by the House of the billion-dollar tax bill last week, the Federal budget could not be balanced in the next fiscal year, unless savings of more than $200,000,000 are made in Federal expenditures.

He said claims of the Democratic-controlled House appropriations committee that $113,000,000 had been pared from the estimates as he submitted them to Congress for approval were exaggerated. The maximum of real reductions, he said, would be about $35,000,000. His figures coincided with those presented to the House last week by Representative Robert G. Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska.

Receipt of the message precipitated a debate in the Senate in the course of which Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, charged that the President was seeking to evade his own responsibility.

Asks New Budget Figures.

Senator Robinson demanded that if the budget submitted by the President for the approval of Congress was an exhorbitant one it was the duty of the President to recall the budget and reduce it to meet the exigencies of the national Treasury.

The Republican "big guns" probably will swing into action today or tomorrow, but yesterday they were noticeable for their oratorical silence. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, took up cudgels in behalf of the President, but wasn't very effective.

The debate ran the gamut of popular nostrums. Senator Robinson capped his patriotic speech with a declaration about Government employes. He had spoken for some time about his willingness to have the Government personnel reduced, then he said that employes who were secure in their jobs ought to be willing to accept a slash in their pay.

Senator James Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, took the floor and said the proposal to slash the pay of Government employes was a scheme fostered by big business executives to justify their own actions.

Harrison Joins Debate.

Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat) of Mississippi, joined in the debate. Senator Harrison is the light cavalry of the Senate Democrats. He is quick of tongue and ready of phrase. Unquestionably he is an idol among those born-Democrats who gather at the Four Corners grocery store and chortle about what he says about the rich Reupblicans.

But Senator Harrison didn't fare so well yesterday. Neither did Senator Robinson, so far as that goes, if one is to think of the Democratic party as the champion of the poor against the oppression of the rich.

The debate found a Republican

HAWAIIAN REFORMS URGED IN CONGRESS

Justice Inquisitors Report "Extreme Laxity" in Law Enforcement.

(Associated Press.)

Far-reaching changes in Hawaii's system of administering justice were proposed in Congress yesterday after Justice Department investigators had reported "extreme laxity" in the enforcement of law there.

The inquiry was made in response to a Senate resolution adopted after Mrs. Granville Fortescue, New York and Washington society leader, and others were charged with murdering a native accused of attacking her daughter.

The trial of Mrs. Fortescue, her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas Massie, and two Navy enlisted men began in Honolulu at almost the exact moment the report was received at the Capitol.

The report, submitted by Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson, who conducted the investigation, was a bulky document of many thousands of words.

No Criminal Rackets.

In a summary of it, which was all that was made public, Richardson said he found no "criminal rackets" in Hawaii and reported that "sex crime" seemed far less than reported from many cities and localities of similar population in the mainland.

Criticizing local officials for inefficiency and playing politics, he recommended that the Federal Government "assume closer responsibility" for law and order.

Chairman Bingham, of the Senate insular affairs committee, immediately introduced seven bills recommended in Richardson's report for improving conditions in the islands.

They provide for appointment by the President of a "high sheriff" for the islands to have control of all police forces; presidential appointment of the attorney general; reorganization of the court system and other judicial changes.

Abolition of District Courts.

The sheriff and attorney general would have to be American citizens, but not citizens of Hawaii, as at present.

The District Court of Hawaii would be abolished and its duties transferred to the Circuit Courts. Jurisdiction of the Ninth Circuit Court would be transferred to the Hawaiian Supreme Court.

The Governor of Hawaii would be given authority to remove his appointees without consent of the Senate.

The present law, providing that two jury disagreements constitute acquittal would be repealed.

Judges would be empowered to "comment on evidence and express the opinion of the court on facts."

Finally a reapportionment of the Hawaiian House prior to January 1, 1933, would be provided.

Richardson's report was received with varied comment at the Capitol Bingham praised it highly, though he said he did not agree with all its findings.

Attack Recommendation.

Neither Chairman Sumners of the judiciary committee, nor Representative Dyer, of Missouri, ranking Republican member, agreed with the recommendation for closer Federal responsibility for law and order.

Sumners, a Texas Democrat, said he would reserve final judgment until further study, but expressed the view that if the people had even a latent capacity for self government it should be encouraged.

Dyer held out no hope for adequate law and order until repeal of the prohibition law.

Senator McKellar presented to the Senate a letter from Rudolph Bukeley, a member of the Fortescue grand jury, charging Judge Cristy, who presided, with "illegal and intimidating acts."

Bukeley said he expected Richardson to ignore his accusations. He said the Assistant Attorney General had not given him a chance to present them to him, but had turned him over to an assistant.

Restricted Grand Jury.

"Judge Cristy," Bukeley said, "took it upon himself to decide and order that we could not consider the question of manslaughter. In other words, without having heard the evidence in the case he illegally restricted the grand jury as to the form of indictment which it should be permitted to consider."

In his report Richardson said he found "a condition of inefficiency in the administration of justice which in effect constituted an invitation to the commission of crime and which had largely destroyed the morale of the law-enforcement agencies, with a resulting loss of public confidence.

"We found that such conditions had given rise to a feeling of personal unsafety among the substantial portion of the citizens," he added. "We therefore believe that the unusual conditions of race, society, and industry in the Territory make a continuance of such laxity fraught with much social and political danger."

Politics Chief Concern.

The report said Honolulu's police administration was "impotent, undisciplined, neglectful and unintelligent, with its chief concern political activity."

"The enforcement of the prohibition law," he said, "compared favorably with conditions on the mainland. There seemed to be no organized liquor traffic, no large importations and no criminal liquor rackets.

"We do not think the public reports with respect to alleged proclivity of members of the Hawaiian race in sexual crime is substantiated by the facts.

"The investigation which we made, and the crime tabulations which we prepared, do not show that the crime, including sexual crime, in the islands can properly be laid at the door of the Hawaiian.

"He has his place in the picture, of course, but there are other races in the Territory which give more trouble in that regard.

Service Conditions Normal.

"We found Army and Navy conditions normal. We found no particular racial resentment between the service units and the island population."

Bingham said he would ask his committee to consider the bills as soon as the department's report has been printed.

He characterized the report as "a very extraordinary piece of work."

"It shows to my mind," he said, "the advantage of having investigations carried out by departments trained in the particular subject, rather than by overworked senators."

The report, Bingham added, "will serve as a basis for very useful legislation."

2 School Girls Pen Notes And Leave to Seek Riches

Seniors of Central High Determined to Succeed or Not Return.

Tired of Washington and determined to face the world in an effort to seek their own fortunes, two young girls, companions since childhood and both members of the senior class at Central High School, disappeared from their homes yesterday with avowed intentions of not returning until "completing their careers."

The girls, Adele Holober, 16 years old, of 1116 Seventh street northwest, and Fay Epstein, 15 years old, of 1132 Seventh street northwest, left their homes as usual yesterday to attend school. When they failed to appear for classes, officials at Central notified their parents.

No action was taken immediately, as both families thought perhaps the spring weather had prompted the pair to play "hookey."

Shortly before 5 o'clock Adele softly opened the front door of her home and tip-toed to her room. She emerged a few minutes later carrying a brown paper bag. Her mother's maid inquired where she was going.

"I am running away from home with Fay," Adele replied, "but don't tell mother." She repeated the same declaration to her brother, Edward, whom she met as she left the house. He only laughed.

A little later Mrs. Holober found a note from her daughter on a bedroom table. It read:

"I am tired of Washington and am going away to seek my fortune. Don't worry."

A similar note from Faye was found in the Epstein home. According to relatives the girls had about 50 cents between them, although Adele told her brother she had saved some money just for the occasion.

Some weeks ago the girls told companions that they were going to leave home and go "to Florida or California." Both had perfect records in school and their sudden desire to roam is a mystery to friends.

REPORT CRITICIZED BY HONOLULU PRESS

Fight on Bingham Bills to Carry Out Proposals Is Indicated.

Honolulu, April 4 (A.P.).—Comment varying from cautious remarks from legislative quarters to caustic newspaper criticism was Honolulu's greeting to the report of Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson, submitted to Congress today, which charges extreme laxity in law enforcement here.

Some quarters indicated a determination to fight enactment of seven bills introduced by Chairman Bingham, of the Senate insular affairs committee, designed to carry out Richardson's recommendations.

Richardson's most caustic critic was the Star-Bulletin, a Honolulu daily published by former Gov. Wallace R. Farrington. The paper, in a two column editorial, said the report "would reduce Hawaii to the status of a British colonial possession and its citizens to class as a subject people."

Referring to Richardson as a "North Dakota attorney," the paper said he "proposes to take away completely and absolutely from the people of Hawaii two of the most important functions of government," by placing prosecution and enforcement of laws in the hands of an appointive attorney general and chief of police.

"One of the most significant features of Mr. Richardson's report," the newspaper commented, "was that it found conditions here no better or worse than in most American communities. But he wouldn't concede to the people of Hawaii the same ability, the same patriotism or the same rights as he would to the people of North Dakota. He would, instead, treat us as the British treat the people of India or Egypt."

Cheap Wheat Bars Upturn, Editor Says

"The present financial structure can not be kept alive with 60-cent wheat," in the opinion of Robert Cromie, editor and publisher of the Vancouver Sun; "nor will such low commodity prices allow the public to pay interest on the huge pile of provincial, State and Federal debts which our Western capitalistic world has allowed itself to accumulate."

Mr. Cromie, who is visiting the city, said: "Our governments at Ottawa and Washington must fearlessly tell our financial and business men that the bonds and securities they now hold are headed for the same delation that our commodity prices have just gone through. Or else our governments must quickly make such reflationary moves as will bring commodity prices into line with our interest rate and capital structure.

"Until the investors and security holders in Canada and the United States are definitely told that, like the farmer and producer, their product, money, will be likewise deflated, there can be no feeling of security, and, therefore, no possible return of prosperity."

SALVADOREAN JUNTA ACCUSES U. S. ENVOY

San Salvador, El Salvador, April 4 (A.P.).—The patriotic junta of the Republic of Salvador authorized its secretary today to inform Secretary of State Stimson that William J. McCafferty, American charge d'affaires here, was mixing in its internal affairs.

The secretary was authorized, after an extraordinary session of the organization, to send the following message to the American Secretary of State:

"In the name of the patriotic junta, which represents the opinion of the Salvadorean people, we assert that Mr. McCafferty, representative of the American Government, is mixing in the internal affairs of our country, gravely menacing the peace and good will of Central America."

The reason for the criticism of Mr. McCafferty was unexplained. Salvador has been ruled by a military junta, headed by Gen. Maximiliano Martinez, since the overthrow of former President Araujo by a coup last December.

The United States Government has refused to recognize the revolutionary regime of President Martinez on the ground that it had not been constitutionally reorganized. It was added that even if the government had been constitutionally reorganized, President Martinez could not be recognized under a clause of the Central American treaty of 1923 barring from the presidency persons who had held office in the previous government.

The revolution of November 2 was followed by uprisings attributed to Communists, which caused the United States and Great Britain to send warships to protect foreign interests.

(United Press.)

State Department officials last night said they had received a message from Rochao Velado, secretary of the Salvador patriotic committee in San Salvador, protesting against the activities of W. J. McCafferty, American charge d'affaires there. They declined to comment.

Representatives of the old regime, headed by President Arturo Araujo, still are regarded by State Department as official representatives of the Republic.

Brooklyn Woman Hurt In Capital Auto Crash

A Brooklyn visitor to Washington was badly cut on the nose yesterday when the automobile in which she was a passenger ran into the rear of another machine, which in turn crashed a third at Rhode Island avenue and Ninth street northwest. Miss Rose Schwartz, 43 years old, the New Yorker, was taken to Emergency Hospital, where four stitches were taken to close the gash across her nose.

Miss Schwartz was riding with her sister, Mrs. Mary N. Kay, 44 years old, of Bayonne, N. J. Miss Schwartz went to the Harrington Hotel after being treated at Emergency Hospital.

U. S. LANDS OPENED TO OIL PROSPECTORS

Any Pool Discovered Must Be Operated as Single Unit, Wilbur Decrees.

(Associated Press.)

The public domin was thrown open to oil prospectors yesterday on condition that if petroleum is found any pool discovered must be operated as a single unit.

An order to that effect was sent to the General Land Office by Secretary Wilbur. It went into force immediately, permitting oil prospecting on public lands for the first time since March 13, 1929.

Authority to require that drilling in Government-owned lands be under the unit operation plan was given the Interior Department by the last Congress. Under it the output of a field is divided in proportion to holding.

"Unit operation of the oil pools," said Secretary Wilbur, "offers the most substantial reliable basis yet developed for constructive handling of oil conservation."

Two Years of Experience.

The department has had two years of experience with unit operation in Kettleman Hills, Calif., where one of the richest oil fields in the world was discovered about three years ago. As the Government owned approximately 65 per cent of the area the Interior Department entered into an agreement with other owners for unit operation.

Secretary Wilbur said that "while there are opportunities for constructive legislation in regard to State compacts and pro rata agreements, if the principle of unit operation can be established, that principle will be more effective than any other measure in conserving the national resources in oil and gas."

The object of Secretary Wilbur's order was described as to protect the rights of all with permits through requiring the operation of fields as units.

Under the stipulations that go with the order, Secretary Wilbur said, the bona fide prospector will find no difficulty but the speculator will receive little encouragement.

Equal Opportunities.

"The plan will also insure that every permittee on a structure have an equal opportunity to recover the oil and gas underneath his land under conditions which will protect the Government and will insure against wasteful methods and overproduction with its unnecessary losses," he said."

In his order to the land office, Secretary Wilbur provided that a 60-day preference period be given permittees and applicants whose claims were pending on March 13, 1929, and were rejected.

One of President Hoover's first official acts was to order public lands closed to oil prospecting. Later the Interior Department rejected about 5,000 applications which were pending at the time.

A number of applicants whose claims were rejected banded together and took the question to court. The suit finally reached the supreme court where the order was sustained.

DARROW LOSES PLEA IN NAMING OF JURY

able to agree. The body of Kahahawai was found January 8 in an automobile driven by Mrs. Fortescue. Lieut. Massie and Lord were in the machine and Jones, found on guard at the Massie home, was arrested and charged with the others.

Early indication of a battle over jurors was given in the examination of Henry Beckley, prospective juror and former member of the police force.

Beckley insisted that, despite having formed impressions as to Kahahawai's death, he could return a fair verdict. The ruling followed an hour's argument between Darrow and Barry Ulrich, young assistant prosecutor.

The six men seated include two Chinese, one Hawaiian, one Japanese and two Americans. When the jury box is filled each side will have 24 peremptory challenges. The entire first week is expected to be occupied in selecting the jury.

Darrow's clients listened intently while he patiently questioned the Chinese, Hawaiians, Japanese and Anglo-Saxons of the jury panel. Mrs. Fortescue, wearing a maroon suit, sat in the front row of the courtroom only a few feet from the family of the slain man.

Outside the court a crowd of curious Hawaiians, Chinese, Japanese and Americans milled about, unable to enter the small court. Only 75 persons, all of whom held passes, were admitted.

Mrs. Fortescue was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. J. L. Ripley, of New York. Her cheeks were without rouge, and she appeared extremely pale. Both listened to the questioning calmly without showing emotion.

Massie, his arms folded, bit his lip and appeared worried. Beside him sat Jones and Lord, both dressed smartly as civilians. They apparently were not worried, but Jones paid keen attention to the selection of the jury.

On the same bench with the defendants sat the father, mother and sister of Kahahawai. They are typical Hawaiians, heavy and dark. The father, a motorman, wore horn-rimmed glasses and chewed gum.

Mrs. Massie did not appear in the court, but is expected to attend sessions when the taking of evidence is started.

Army and Navy personnel were conspicuous by their absence.

17 on Eagle Boat Injured in Crash

U. S. Craft, Badly Damaged in Collision at Sea, Is Towed to Port.

San Pedro, Calif., April 4 (A.P.).—With two officers suffering from broken bones and fifteen seamen cut and bruised, the United States Eagle boat No. 34, rammed by the British motorship, Javanese Prince, was tied up here today after being towed from the scene of the collision.

The officers hurt were:

Lieut. K. W. Wheeler, San Diego, fractured ribs, and Lieut. A. J. Gray, Coronado, Calif., left foot broken.

The collision, officers said, occurred about five miles off Point Vicente light through a misunderstanding of signals.

The officers said they signaled for a right of way, but those aboard the freighter, misunderstanding the signals, plowed into the subchaser, ripping a hole in the bow. The steel nose of the freighter pierced the officers' mess room, but the men escaped to the deck.

OPINIONS OF WORLD COURT HIT IN SENATE

(Associated Press.)

Notice was given yesterday by Senator Pittman (Democrat), Nevada, in a public letter placed before the Senate, that he would insist upon the Senate's previous stand against advisory opinions affecting the United States by the World Court.

"It is conclusively evident," his letter said, "that there is an abiding opposition to the rendering of ex parte advisory opinions in matters affecting the United States. We do not tolerate advisory opinions by our courts.

"Unless these governments have changed their position with regard to the matter, as indicated by Mr. Root and the Secretary of State, then they would again refuse to approve our fifth reservation."

Feminists appealed to Secretary Stimson last night for a guarantee of equality for women and men before the law to be administered by the World Court whenever the United States becomes a member.

The National Woman's Party, sponsor of an "equality reservation" now before the Senate foreign relations committee, held a dinner for members and friends.

Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, party chairman, referred to Secretary Stimson's coming trip to Europe. Then she added:

"Women ask that the Secretary of State * * * urge the League of Nations to reverse its position and submit a new nationality convention, based upon equality * * * we ask the Secretary to act not merely for the women of this country, but for all women everywhere * * * the voice of the Secretary of State will carry authority."

Finland Ends Dry Law Today; Rum Prices Up

Helsingfors, Finland, April 4 (A. P.). Twelve years of prohibition come to an end in Finland tomorrow, but it appeared tonight as if the attending celebrations would not be excessively gay.

At a meeting of restaurant operators it was decided not to order intoxicants from the Accredited Alcohol Co., or to serve any drinks until the price question has been settled to the satisfaction of the dispensers. Whisky at $6.50 a bottle and cognac at $9.25 are at the basis of the decision taken by the restaurant men.

Utility Body's Transfer Hearing on April 13

The Public Utilities Commission announced yesterday that it will hold a public hearing on April 13 in room 102 of the District Building to consider a request of the Alexandria-Barcroft-Washington Rapid Transit Co. that existing transfer arrangements between their buses and the cars of the Capital Traction Co., at Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue, be discontinued.

VOTE FOR ANDERSON DENIED WET TREND

(Associated Press.)

C. Bascom Slemp, Virginia's Republican national committeeman, said yesterday the vote for Henry W. Anderson at the Republican State convention Saturday "is not to be construed in any way as an indorsement to that extent—direct or indirect—of a wet plank in the Chicago platform."

"Virginia," Slemp said, "is thoroughly satisfied so far as the State is concerned with the workings of the eighteenth amendment."

Anderson, member of the Wickersham Commission who proposed a Government-operated liquor dispensary system, was backed for national committeeman by a large following at the State convention. Slemp is retiring in June.

A move to have the seven delegates at large to the national convention instructed for Anderson failed, thus assuring election of Joseph L. Cruppe, of Norfolk, but Anderson received 695½ votes. The vote against the motion was 877½.

Virginia "In Good Shape."

Slemp told President Hoover yesterday the full Virginia delegation would cast its vote for the Hoover-Curtis ticket and that the State "is in pretty good shape politically."

He declined to forecast whether Virginia would go into the Republican column again this year, asserting "it is too early for either the Republicans or Democrats to be making any detailed predictions."

The State convention, he said, "was the best our State has ever had." He described it as "harmonious and enthusiastic."

Slemp said he hoped for recognition by the Republican national committee at Chicago of a delegation of 26 members from Virginia.

Mr. Slemp conceded only five States—also in the South—to the Democrats in the presidential election.

Answers Democrats' Claim.

The former secretary to President Coolidge made this informal statement yesterday in commenting on claims by nine nationally prominent Democrats that their party had "sure, excellent and fair" prospects for victory in November in all but four States—California, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Vermont—with these four "least probable, but possible."

The Democrats forecast certain victory in fifteen States, including the solid South where four States bolted to the Republican column in 1928.

Slemp would not go into details, but said he would "give" the Democrats only South Carolina, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas, indicating he held out hopes in varying degrees in the remainder of the South, as well as the rest of the country.

Democratic Clubs Pick Mrs. Menefee

Cumberland Resident Pick of Maryland Group for Committeewoman.

Mrs. Elizabeth R. Menefee, of Cumberland, was chosen unanimously as the choice of the United Democratic Women's Clubs of Maryland for national committeewoman from Maryland at a meeting of the executive board of the organization yesterday at the Lord Baltimore Hotel in Baltimore, Md.

The board indorsed the proposal now pending in Congress to designate August 26 a national holiday as woman suffrage day in honor of Susan B. Anthony. The resolution was presented by Mrs. Virginia Peters-Parkhurst, president of the Susan B. Anthony Foundation. Tentative plans were discussed for a get-together luncheon at Frederick, Md., the latter part of May, at which Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and Senator Millard F. Tydings, of Maryland, will be asked to speak. A campaign to secure subscriptions for the Maryland Clubwoman, of which Mrs. Frank M. Hoadley, of Chevy Chase, is editor, was decided on, the chairmen of the individual clubs to act as chairman for her particular territory.

COCHRAN URGES TAX ON BEER FOR BONUS

Says Legalized Brew Would Net $300,000,000 Per Year to U. S.

(Associated Press.)

A tax on legalized beer, which failed to gain a place on the House revenue bill yesterday was sponsored as a means of raising funds for cashing the soldiers' bonus.

This plan came from Representative Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, as Representative Rankin (Democrat), Mississippi, issued a statement replying to Senator Smoot's (Republican), Utah, opposition to a proposal that new currency be issued to pay the bonus.

Mr. Cochran said he will introduce a bill to provide the money for paying off the veterans' certificates through a tax of 3 cents a pint on 3 per cent beer.

To Testify Monday.

"It is estimated that from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 can be raised annually by taxing beer," Mr. Cochran said. "This will not only permit the payment of the adjusted service certificates but will also provide a way to reimburse the Government."

The Missourian said he will testify during the ways and means committee hearings opening next Monday in behalf of his bill. This committee declined to place a beer tax in the billion-dollar revenue bill and the House rejected such a proposal by a 216-to-132 vote.

Mr. Rankin's statement said that Mr. Smoot, chairman of the Senate finance committee, "has fallen into the same errors made by other spokesmen against the measure." He added:

Gold Standard Held Safe.

"In the first place, they seem to be laboring under the impression that the passage of this bill will further deplete the Treasury. As a matter of fact, it will not take one additional dollar out of the Treasury or levy one addjtional dollar in taxes.

"Nor will it force the country off the gold standard, as some people seem to fear it will do.

"What we propose to do is simply to set aside a sufficient amount of free gold now in the Treasury and issue $2,200,000,000 in United States notes or currency against it, backed up by a 40 per cent gold reserve and pay these certificates off."

Johnson Predicts Defeat.

Defeat of the bonus proposal was predicted last night by Representative Johnson (Republican), South Dakota, ranking Republican on the House veterans committee.

In a radio address Mr. Johnson said it would not be "the law of this country, however, because there are too many of us in Congress who feel (as much as we would like to help the service men) that we will not jeopardize the financial condition of the country to pay a promise never made."

He said the law which gave the veterans their adjusted service certificates promised them $1 for each day of home service in the Army and $1.25 for every day of service overseas. For the privilege of deferring payment, he added, the Government added 25 per cent to the amount of the certificate and then agreed to pay 4 per cent interest for 20 years.

Every veteran who has borrowed 50 per cent of the face value of his certificate, Johnson said, already had been paid the original amount promised.

Thaw Gains Point In Suit of Alienist

Doctor Says Services Are Unpaid by Slayer of Stanford White.

New York, April 4 (A.P.).—Harry K. Thaw was granted a motion for further particulars today in a suit against him for $10,000 by Dr. Smith Ely Jelliffee, alienist, who testified for Thaw in his trial for murder following the shooting of Stanford White, and subsequent proceedings brought in Thaw's behalf while he was an inmate of Mattewan State Hospital and of a Pennsylvania sanitarium.

Federal Judge William Bondy decided that Dr. Jelliffee had not fully complied with a court order calling for service of a bill of particulars upon Thaw's attorney.

Dr. Jelliffee began suit in 1929 in State courts. He said he had never been paid for his services preceding and during the murder trial and for additional services rendered thereafter. The bill of complaint set forth that Dr. Jelliffee had served the defendant professionally as an expert from "1907 to 1917 and thereafter." The suit was transferred to Federal Court on motion of Thaw, who set forth that he was a resident of the State of Pennsylvania, and the alienist a resident of New York State.

OBJECTION BLOCKS LEE STATUE THANKS

(Associated Press.)

A resolution to thank Virginia for the Statues of Washington and Lee was blocked in the House yesterday because Representative Stafford (Republican), Wisconsin, objected to use of the phrase "honorably identified with the history of our country" in connection with Robert E. Lee's name.

Mr. Stafford later assured Representative Woodrum, of Roanoke, sponsor of the resolution, that he would not raise the objection again when the measure comes up the third time on April 18. When first reached on the calendar two weeks ago it was passed over on Mr. Stafford's motion.

The Wisconsin member relented yesterday after a number of his Republican colleagues and several Democrats accused him of raising the issue of "sectionalism." He said he had no such intention. The point he raised in objection to the resolution was the Government's refusal to allow hanging of Lee's portrait in a hall at West Point, the National Military Academy.

While classing himself as an "admirer" of Lee, he said he doubted the wisdom of wording the resolution as it was. Congress should not go on record, he said, as classifying the Confederate general as one "honorably identified" with the Nation's history.

He suggested substitution of the word "prominently" for "honorably," but Mr. Woodrum refused the amendment.

"Under no circumstances," he said, "will I consent to any such change in the bill."

Mr. Woodrum was not permitted to address the House on the resolution because of a parliamentary rule.

When it comes up for consideration on April 18, three objections will be required to block the bill. Mr. Woodrum said there is no indication there will be any objectors.

Four Capital Educators Get Jugoslavian Honor

Four Washington educators yesterday received the Order of St. Sava, which was conferred upon them by King Alexander of Jugoslavia. The honor was conferred for their services in the field of education.

'BALKANS NAPOLEON' AND CABINET RESIGN

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, April 4 (A.P.)—Gen. Pera Zivkovitch, the "Napoleon of the Balkans," and long a power behind the throne of Jugoslavia, today relinquished the premiership to Vojislav Marinkovitch, his foreign minister.

The general and his entire cabinet resigned this morning. Afternoon brought the formation of a ministry headed by the foreign minister, who has survived many governmental changes during the last five years, and who will continue to guide the nation's foreign policy.

Gen. Zivkovitch's withdrawal followed persistent outbursts of popular discontent, such as student riots at Belgrade and Zagreb and repeated demonstrations by Croatian Separatists.

The retiring premier explained that the task assigned to him in January, 1929 (when Parliament was dissolved and the constitution suspended) "may be regarded as completed." The next developments, he added, will be the formation of new political parties "in the spirit of the new constitution" and wider popular participation in the responsibility of government.

Gen. Zivkovitch will resume his former post as commander of the Royal Guards.

The government's opposition is expected to demand new elections and the freedom of the press. The question of revising the constitution handed down by King Alexander last September also may be raised.

The new premier accepted the post despite ill health. He suffers from a lung ailment which necessitates a yearly visit to Switzerland.

Excepting the retirement of Gen. Zivkovitch, the personnel of the new cabinet is the same as that of the old.

WILLIAM GREEN.

TO SAY that William Green, in his youth, toiled in the darkness under the ground while his thoughts were on a career that pointed to Heaven—is not merely to indulge in a figure of speech. It is literally true.

Green, as a boy, worked in a coal mine in Ohio. In the evenings, he read the Bible and looked forward to the day when he could become a Baptist minister.

An unfair rule adopted by the owners of the mine, however, swerved him. In addition to his Bible, he began reading books on law and economics. Then he joined the United Mine Workers, and set out to fight the unfair rule aforementioned and all others.

The eloquence which he had planned to use in the pulpit he now used to better the lot of his fellow-workers. Ultimately, he became secretary and treasurer of the miners' organization, and then vice president of the American Federation of Labor.

Samuel Gompers, president of the A. F. of L., always looked upon Green as the man who would succeed him, and he groomed him accordingly.

After Gompers' death in 1924, Green was elevated to the presidency of the great labor organization.

Green's father was English and his mother Welsh. He was born in Coshocton, Ohio, March 3, 1873. When he was 19, he married Jane Mobley, who bore him five daughters and one son. E. T. F.

Character Institutions Trim Chest's Budgets

Character building organizations affiliated with the Community Chest have voluntarily reduced their budgets for 1932 by 7 per cent as their contribution toward reducing the probable deficit of the Chest, which failed by 7 per cent to reach its goal in the last campaign.

Announcement to this effect was made yesterday by Joshua Evans, jr., chairman of the Chest budget committee, who paid a high tribute to these organizations for taking this action. Chairman Evans pointed out that the character building organizations, which include the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Boy and Girl Scouts, Boys' Club and settlement houses, were especially entitled to credit for this voluntary action.

ORDERED TO SLAY ENVOY, MAN HOLDS

But Accused Takes Blame From Other Defendant in Soviet Trial.

Moscow, April 4 (A.P.).—Sergei Vassiliev, a bookkeeper's son, declared in court today that he had "received a terroristic order to kill" Dr. Herbert von Dirksen, German Ambassador to Soviet Russia.

Vassiliev made this statement at the opening session of his trial with Judas Stern for the attempted assassination a month ago of Dr. Fritz von Twardowski, counselor to the German Embassy, who was wounded by bullets as he was driving in an embassy automobile in a Moscow street. Stern admitted firing the shot.

Each of the defendants sought to take major responsibility for the crime. "I acted on my own; Vassiliev had nothing to do with it," said Stern. Vassiliev declared it was he who influenced Stern.

Vassiliev did not reveal the source of his "terroristic order to kill." He said he and Stern agreed the assisination would be a blow to the power of the Soviet government, to which they were opposed.

"We first planned to kill the ambassador in the embassy, but realized that was impossible, so we decided to kill him on the street, and I furnished Stern with the number of his automobile," he said.

The defendant explained that the day after the attempt on Dr. von Twardowski he learned that Stern had been arrested, but he did not worry. "I was sure Stern wouldn't betray me," he said. They had hoped to endanger relations between Russia and the nations to the west, particularly Germany. Ambassador von Dirksen was one of the many eminent spectators in the courtroom.

Stern explained that when he fired the shots he was not sure the ambassador was in the automobile, but that made no difference, as "I considered any embassy official suitable for my purpose."

Copyrights Group Backs Sirovich Bill

Action to Be Taken Today on Measures to Amend Patents Law.

(Associated Press.)

The Sirovich copyright bill, intended to create new safeguards for the rights of authors in all fields, was reported favorably yesterday by the House copyrights committee.

Before voting approval, Chairman Sirovich (Democrat), New York, said the committee "reviewed the entire copyrights situation." Action will be taken today on bills to amend the patent laws. Important particulars in which existing copyright law would be changed under the legislation were outlined by Sirovich as follows:

Copyright would be first vested in the author always, instead of in the publisher as at present; the author would be permitted to assign his entire copyright; the author would be allowed to license any part, interest or privilege in his copyright; the licensee would be permitted to protect his own interest in his own name; the term of copyright would be fixed at 56 years.

CHINA TRUCE HOPES ARE BRIGHTER AGAIN

Quo Plans to Quit as Chief Delegate to Conference; Concessions Made.

Shanghai, April 4 (A.P.).—The Japanese and Chinese truce negotiators got a little closer together in a conference today, but their progress was disturbed by an announcement that Quo Tai-Chi, Chinese vice minister for foreign affairs, intended to resign as chief delegate of the Nanking government.

Last Saturday Quo's automobile was stopped by a group of members of a Chinese patriotic organization, who demanded that an unyielding attitude be taken against Japan. They told the vice minister that China must insist on the surrender by the Japanese of Woosung and Kiangwan, where fighting was heaviest during the recent conflict.

Quo informed these Chinese they should make their representations through "proper channels," and he never would be a party to any agreement detrimental to China.

During today's armistice conference the Japanese made some concessions, but a Chinese spokesman described them as "unimportant." These concessions concerned the schedule of Japanese troop withdrawals.

The Chinese remained adamant in their demand that the Japanese fix a date for complete evacuation into the International Settlement, while the Japanese were willing only to set a time for the beginning of the withdrawal. Complete evacuation, they said, must depend on circumstances.

The conference will be resumed Thursday and in the meantime the conferees will have an opportunity to refer disputed points to their governments. The military subcommittee, which also met today, will resume its sessions Wednesday.

While the armies remain almost dormant pending outcome of the truce negotiations the opposing parties are saying it with the printed word. Since the cessation of hostilities the printing presses of the city have been turning out tons of propaganda for both sides.

Scientists Evolve Method Of Telling Age by Hairs

By JOHN J. DALY

IN the scientific crime laboratory of Northwestern University a crime against nature has been committed, in the interest of science. So the professors, instead of hiding their shame, are crowing over their achievement.

The holiest secret of a woman—her age—may be broadcast to the wide, wide world by the tell-tale signs on a strand of hair.

As the gloating discoverers put it, merely by plucking a single hair from your fair one's head you can tell, and accurately, whether she is romancing about her age.

Romancing about her age? Of course she is romancing. Who is not? It is one of the oldest forms of romance, mocking at time and not giving out statistics. In order to cover up the evidence, or at least take attention away from the rolling years, the old phrase was invented: "A woman is as young as she looks, a man as old as he feels." And that was always near enough to the truth.

* * * *

WELL, that blessed day seems past by the foolhardiness of modern science, always tending to overstep the bounds.

The new process of detecting the age of human beings—and you would think it a crime merely to have an established age—follows along arboreal lines. The hair rings are counted and measured, as men once studied ridges in trunks of trees to tell how long they had shaded the earth.

A human hair is magnified 1,546.8 times. In the course of some 10,000 experiments—for what?—these facts were discovered and are now sent forth to an eager world:

A young person's hair grows rapidly. Age makes it grow slower. The growth is not steady, as many suspect. A hair grows a while, then stops and rests. Each hesitation produces a discoloration at the point where the hair emerges from the scalp. This makes a ring. If there are six rings to a tenth of a millimeter the subject is 20 years old. If there are twelve rings in the same space the subject is 40—fair or ugly, fat or lean, but 40.

There is the hideous system of shattering secrets.

* * * *

GONE is all the joy out of courting. From now on, if a young man in his fancy lightly slips his arm around his girl's shoulder, as men have done from time immemorial, his light o' love may begin to suspect that he has ulterior motives—and she may be right. Forsooth, he may be searching for evidence—a stray strand by which her exact age may be told.

Scientists, beware! There is such a thing as going too far!

Like an uncle who dozes and lets his little nieces and nephews slip off his knees, science every now and then manages to disrupt the dreams of romance. It may seem like hair-splitting and all that, but meddling with a lady's age is no safe ground for science; nor is romance the field in which to become scientific.

HAWAIIAN REFORMS URGED IN CONGRESS

Justice Inquisitors Report "Extreme Laxity" in Law Enforcement.

(Associated Press.)

Far-reaching changes in Hawaii's system of administering justice were proposed in Congress yesterday after Justice Department investigators had reported "extreme laxity" in the enforcement of law there.

The inquiry was made in response to a Senate resolution adopted after Mrs. Granville Fortescue, New York and Washington society leader, and others were charged with murdering a native accused of attacking her daughter.

The trial of Mrs. Fortescue, her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas Massie, and two Navy enlisted men began in Honolulu at almost the exact moment the report was received at the Capitol.

The report, submitted by Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson, who conducted the investigation, was a bulky document of many thousands of words.

No Criminal Rackets.

In a summary of it, which was all that was made public, Richardson said he found no "criminal rackets" in Hawaii and reported that "sex crime" seemed far less than reported from many cities and localities of similar population in the mainland.

Criticizing local officials for inefficiency and playing politics, he recommended that the Federal Government "assume closer responsibility" for law and order.

Chairman Bingham, of the Senate insular affairs committee, immediately introduced seven bills recommended in Richardson's report for improving conditions in the islands.

They provide for appointment by the President of a "high sheriff" for the islands to have control of all police forces; presidential appointment of the attorney general; reorganization of the court system and other judicial changes.

Abolition of District Courts.

The sheriff and attorney general would have to be American citizens, but not citizens of Hawaii, as at present.

The District Court of Hawaii would be abolished and its duties transferred to the Circuit Courts. Jurisdiction of the Ninth Circuit Court would be transferred to the Hawaiian Supreme Court.

The Governor of Hawaii would be given authority to remove his appointees without consent of the Senate.

The present law, providing that two jury disagreements constitute acquittal would be repealed.

Judges would be empowered to "comment on evidence and express the opinion of the court on facts."

Finally a reapportionment of the Hawaiian House prior to January 1, 1933, would be provided.

Richardson's report was received with varied comment at the Capitol Bingham praised it highly, though he said he did not agree with all its findings.

Attack Recommendation.

Neither Chairman Sumners of the judiciary committee, nor Representative Dyer, of Missouri, ranking Republican member, agreed with the recommendation for closer Federal responsibility for law and order.

Sumners, a Texas Democrat, said he would reserve final judgment until further study, but expressed the view that if the people had even a latent capacity for self government it should be encouraged.

Dyer held out no hope for adequate law and order until repeal of the prohibition law.

Senator McKellar presented to the Senate a letter from Rudolph Bukeley, a member of the Fortescue grand jury, charging Judge Cristy, who presided, with "illegal and intimidating acts."

Bukeley said he expected Richardson to ignore his accusations. He said the Assistant Attorney General had not given him a chance to present them to him, but had turned him over to an assistant.

Restricted Grand Jury.

"Judge Cristy," Bukeley said, "took it upon himself to decide and order that we could not consider the question of manslaughter. In other words, without having heard the evidence in the case he illegally restricted the grand jury as to the form of indictment which it should be permitted to consider."

In his report Richardson said he found "a condition of inefficiency in the administration of justice which in effect constituted an invitation to the commission of crime and which had largely destroyed the morale of the law-enforcement agencies, with a resulting loss of public confidence.

"We found that such conditions had given rise to a feeling of personal unsafety among the substantial portion of the citizens," he added. "We therefore believe that the unusual conditions of race, society, and industry in the Territory make a continuance of such laxity fraught with much social and political danger."

Politics Chief Concern.

The report said Honolulu's police administration was "impotent, undisciplined, neglectful and unintelligent, with its chief concern political activity."

"The enforcement of the prohibition law," he said, "compared favorably with conditions on the mainland. There seemed to be no organized liquor traffic, no large importations and no criminal liquor rackets.

"We do not think the public reports with respect to alleged proclivity of members of the Hawaiian race in sexual crime is substantiated by the facts.

"The investigation which we made, and the crime tabulations which we prepared, do not show that the crime, including sexual crime, in the islands can properly be laid at the door of the Hawaiian.

"He has his place in the picture, of course, but there are other races in the Territory which give more trouble in that regard.

Service Conditions Normal.

"We found Army and Navy conditions normal. We found no particular racial resentment between the service units and the island population."

Bingham said he would ask his committee to consider the bills as soon as the department's report has been printed.

He characterized the report as "a very extraordinary piece of work."

"It shows to my mind," he said, "the advantage of having investigations carried out by departments trained in the particular subject, rather than by overworked senators."

The report, Bingham added, "will serve as a basis for very useful legislation."

2 School Girls Pen Notes And Leave to Seek Riches

Seniors of Central High Determined to Succeed or Not Return.

Tired of Washington and determined to face the world in an effort to seek their own fortunes, two young girls, companions since childhood and both members of the senior class at Central High School, disappeared from their homes yesterday with avowed intentions of not returning until "completing their careers."

The girls, Adele Holober, 16 years old, of 1116 Seventh street northwest, and Fay Epstein, 15 years old, of 1132 Seventh street northwest, left their homes as usual yesterday to attend school. When they failed to appear for classes, officials at Central notified their parents.

No action was taken immediately, as both families thought perhaps the spring weather had prompted the pair to play "hookey."

Shortly before 5 o'clock Adele softly opened the front door of her home and tip-toed to her room. She emerged a few minutes later carrying a brown paper bag. Her mother's maid inquired where she was going.

"I am running away from home with Fay," Adele replied, "but don't tell mother." She repeated the same declaration to her brother, Edward, whom she met as she left the house. He only laughed.

A little later Mrs. Holober found a note from her daughter on a bedroom table. It read:

"I am tired of Washington and am going away to seek my fortune. Don't worry."

A similar note from Faye was found in the Epstein home. According to relatives the girls had about 50 cents between them, although Adele told her brother she had saved some money just for the occasion.

Some weeks ago the girls told companions that they were going to leave home and go "to Florida or California." Both had perfect records in school and their sudden desire to roam is a mystery to friends.

U. S. LANDS OPENED TO OIL PROSPECTORS

Any Pool Discovered Must Be Operated as Single Unit, Wilbur Decrees.

(Associated Press.)

The public domin was thrown open to oil prospectors yesterday on condition that if petroleum is found any pool discovered must be operated as a single unit.

An order to that effect was sent to the General Land Office by Secretary Wilbur. It went into force immediately, permitting oil prospecting on public lands for the first time since March 13, 1929.

Authority to require that drilling in Government-owned lands be under the unit operation plan was given the Interior Department by the last Congress. Under it the output of a field is divided in proportion to holding.

"Unit operation of the oil pools," said Secretary Wilbur, "offers the most substantial reliable basis yet developed for constructive handling of oil conservation."

Two Years of Experience.

The department has had two years of experience with unit operation in Kettleman Hills, Calif., where one of the richest oil fields in the world was discovered about three years ago. As the Government owned approximately 65 per cent of the area the Interior Department entered into an agreement with other owners for unit operation.

Secretary Wilbur said that "while there are opportunities for constructive legislation in regard to State compacts and pro rata agreements, if the principle of unit operation can be established, that principle will be more effective than any other measure in conserving the national resources in oil and gas."

The object of Secretary Wilbur's order was described as to protect the rights of all with permits through requiring the operation of fields as units.

Under the stipulations that go with the order, Secretary Wilbur said, the bona fide prospector will find no difficulty but the speculator will receive little encouragement.

Equal Opportunities.

"The plan will also insure that every permittee on a structure have an equal opportunity to recover the oil and gas underneath his land under conditions which will protect the Government and will insure against wasteful methods and overproduction with its unnecessary losses," he said."

In his order to the land office, Secretary Wilbur provided that a 60-day preference period be given permittees and applicants whose claims were pending on March 13, 1929, and were rejected.

One of President Hoover's first official acts was to order public lands closed to oil prospecting. Later the Interior Department rejected about 5,000 applications which were pending at the time.

A number of applicants whose claims were rejected banded together and took the question to court. The suit finally reached the supreme court where the order was sustained.

17 on Eagle Boat Injured in Crash

U. S. Craft, Badly Damaged in Collision at Sea, Is Towed to Port.

San Pedro, Calif., April 4 (A.P.).—With two officers suffering from broken bones and fifteen seamen cut and bruised, the United States Eagle boat No. 34, rammed by the British motorship, Javanese Prince, was tied up here today after being towed from the scene of the collision.

The officers hurt were:

Lieut. K. W. Wheeler, San Diego, fractured ribs, and Lieut. A. J. Gray, Coronado, Calif., left foot broken.

The collision, officers said, occurred about five miles off Point Vicente light through a misunderstanding of signals.

The officers said they signaled for a right of way, but those aboard the freighter, misunderstanding the signals, plowed into the subchaser, ripping a hole in the bow. The steel nose of the freighter pierced the officers' mess room, but the men escaped to the deck.

OPINIONS OF WORLD COURT HIT IN SENATE

(Associated Press.)

Notice was given yesterday by Senator Pittman (Democrat), Nevada, in a public letter placed before the Senate, that he would insist upon the Senate's previous stand against advisory opinions affecting the United States by the World Court.

"It is conclusively evident," his letter said, "that there is an abiding opposition to the rendering of ex parte advisory opinions in matters affecting the United States. We do not tolerate advisory opinions by our courts.

"Unless these governments have changed their position with regard to the matter, as indicated by Mr. Root and the Secretary of State, then they would again refuse to approve our fifth reservation."

Feminists appealed to Secretary Stimson last night for a guarantee of equality for women and men before the law to be administered by the World Court whenever the United States becomes a member.

The National Woman's Party, sponsor of an "equality reservation" now before the Senate foreign relations committee, held a dinner for members and friends.

Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, party chairman, referred to Secretary Stimson's coming trip to Europe. Then she added:

"Women ask that the Secretary of State * * * urge the League of Nations to reverse its position and submit a new nationality convention, based upon equality * * * we ask the Secretary to act not merely for the women of this country, but for all women everywhere * * * the voice of the Secretary of State will carry authority."

VOTE FOR ANDERSON DENIED WET TREND

(Associated Press.)

C. Bascom Slemp, Virginia's Republican national committeeman, said yesterday the vote for Henry W. Anderson at the Republican State convention Saturday "is not to be construed in any way as an indorsement to that extent—direct or indirect—of a wet plank in the Chicago platform."

"Virginia," Slemp said, "is thoroughly satisfied so far as the State is concerned with the workings of the eighteenth amendment."

Anderson, member of the Wickersham Commission who proposed a Government-operated liquor dispensary system, was backed for national committeeman by a large following at the State convention. Slemp is retiring in June.

A move to have the seven delegates at large to the national convention instructed for Anderson failed, thus assuring election of Joseph L. Crupper, of Norfolk, but Anderson received 695½ votes. The vote against the motion was 877½.

Virginia "In Good Shape."

Slemp told President Hoover yesterday the full Virginia delegation would cast its vote for the Hoover-Curtis ticket and that the State "is in pretty good shape politically."

He declined to forecast whether Virginia would go into the Republican column again this year, asserting "it is too early for either the Republicans or Democrats to be making any detailed predictions."

The State convention, he said, "was the best our State has ever had." He described it as "harmonious and enthusiastic."

Slemp said he hoped for recognition by the Republican national committee at Chicago of a delegation of 26 members from Virginia.

Mr. Slemp conceded only five States—also in the South—to the Democrats in the presidential election.

Answers Democrats' Claim.

The former secretary to President Coolidge made this informal statement yesterday in commenting on claims by nine nationally prominent Democrats that their party had "sure, excellent and fair" prospects for victory in November in all but four States—California, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Vermont—with these four "least probable, but possible."

The Democrats forecast certain victory in fifteen States, including the solid South where four States bolted to the Republican column in 1928.

Slemp would not go into details, but said he would "give" the Democrats only South Carolina, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas, indicating he held out hopes in varying degrees in the remainder of the South, as well as the rest of the country.

COCHRAN URGES TAX ON BEER FOR BONUS

Says Legalized Brew Would Net $300,000,000 Per Year to U. S.

(Associated Press.)

A tax on legalized beer, which failed to gain a place on the House revenue bill yesterday was sponsored as a means of raising funds for cashing the soldiers' bonus.

This plan came from Representative Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, as Representative Rankin (Democrat), Mississippi, issued a statement replying to Senator Smoot's (Republican), Utah, opposition to a proposal that new currency be issued to pay the bonus.

Mr. Cochran said he will introduce a bill to provide the money for paying off the veterans' certificates through a tax of 3 cents a pint on 3 per cent beer.

To Testify Monday.

"It is estimated that from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 can be raised annually by taxing beer," Mr. Cochran said. "This will not only permit the payment of the adjusted service certificates but will also provide a way to reimburse the Government."

The Missourian said he will testify during the ways and means committee hearings opening next Monday in behalf of his bill. This committee declined to place a beer tax in the billion-dollar revenue bill and the House rejected such a proposal by a 216-to-132 vote.

Mr. Rankin's statement said that Mr. Smoot, chairman of the Senate finance committee, "has fallen into the same errors made by other spokesmen against the measure." He added:

Gold Standard Held Safe.

"In the first place, they seem to be laboring under the impression that the passage of this bill will further deplete the Treasury. As a matter of fact, it will not take one additional dollar out of the Treasury or levy one additional dollar in taxes.

"Nor will it force the country off the gold standard, as some people seem to fear it will do.

"What we propose to do is simply to set aside a sufficient amount of free gold now in the Treasury and issue $2,200,000,000 in United States notes or currency against it, backed up by a 40 per cent gold reserve and pay these certificates off."

Johnson Predicts Defeat.

Defeat of the bonus proposal was predicted last night by Representative Johnson (Republican), South Dakota, ranking Republican on the House veterans committee.

In a radio address Mr. Johnson said it would not be "the law of this country, however, because there are too many of us in Congress who feel (as much as we would like to help the service men) that we will not jeopardize the financial condition of the country to pay a promise never made."

He said the law which gave the veterans their adjusted service certificates promised them $1 for each day of home service in the Army and $1.25 for every day of service overseas. For the privilege of deferring payment, he added, the Government added 25 per cent to the amount of the certificate and then agreed to pay 4 per cent interest for 20 years.

Every veteran who has borrowed 50 per cent of the face value of his certificate, Johnson said, already had been paid the original amount promised.

OBJECTION BLOCKS LEE STATUE THANKS

(Associated Press.)

A resolution to thank Virginia for the Statues of Washington and Lee was blocked in the House yesterday because Representative Stafford (Republican), Wisconsin, objected to use of the phrase "honorably identified with the history of our country" in connection with Robert E. Lee's name.

Mr. Stafford later assured Representative Woodrum, of Roanoke, sponsor of the resolution, that he would not raise the objection again when the measure comes up the third time on April 18. When first reached on the calendar two weeks ago it was passed over on Mr. Stafford's motion.

The Wisconsin member relented yesterday after a number of his Republican colleagues and several Democrats accused him of raising the issue of "sectionalism." He said he had no such intention. The point he raised in objection to the resolution was the Government's refusal to allow hanging of Lee's portrait in a hall at West Point, the National Military Academy.

While classing himself as an "admirer" of Lee, he said he doubted the wisdom of wording the resolution as it was. Congress should not go on record, he said, as classifying the Confederate general as one "honorably identified" with the Nation's history.

He suggested substitution of the word "prominently" for "honorably," but Mr. Woodrum refused the amendment.

"Under no circumstances," he said, "will I consent to any such change in the bill."

Mr. Woodrum was not permitted to address the House on the resolution because of a parliamentary rule.

When it comes up for consideration on April 18, three objections will be required to block the bill. Mr. Woodrum said there is no indication there will be any objectors.

REPORT CRITICIZED BY HONOLULU PRESS

Fight on Bingham Bills to Carry Out Proposals Is Indicated.

Honolulu, April 4 (A.P.).—Comment varying from cautious remarks from legislative quarters to caustic newspaper criticism was Honolulu's greeting to the report of Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson, submitted to Congress today, which charges extreme laxity in law enforcement here.

Some quarters indicated a determination to fight enactment of seven bills introduced by Chairman Bingham, of the Senate insular affairs committee, designed to carry out Richardson's recommendations.

Richardson's most caustic critic was the Star-Bulletin, a Honolulu daily published by former Gov. Wallace R. Farrington. The paper, in a two column editorial, said the report "would reduce Hawaii to the status of a British colonial possession and its citizens to class as a subject people."

Referring to Richardson as a "North Dakota attorney," the paper said he "proposes to take away completely and absolutely from the people of Hawaii two of the most important functions of government," by placing prosecution and enforcement of laws in the hands of an appointive attorney general and chief of police.

"One of the most significant features of Mr. Richardson's report," the newspaper commented, "was that it found conditions here no better or worse than in most American communities. But he wouldn't concede to the people of Hawaii the same ability, the same patriotism or the same rights as he would to the people of North Dakota. He would, instead, treat us as the British treat the people of India or Egypt."

Cheap Wheat Bars Upturn, Editor Says

"The present financial structure can not be kept alive with 60-cent wheat," in the opinion of Robert Cromie, editor and publisher of the Vancouver Sun; "nor will such low commodity prices allow the public to pay interest on the huge pile of provincial, State and Federal debts which our Western capitalistic world has allowed itself to accumulate."

Mr. Cromie, who is visiting the city, said: "Our governments at Ottawa and Washington must fearlessly tell our financial and business men that the bonds and securities they now hold are headed for the same delation that our commodity prices have just gone through. Or else our governments must quickly make such reflationary moves as will bring commodity prices into line with our interest rate and capital structure.

"Until the investors and security holders in Canada and the United States are definitely told that, like the farmer and producer, their product, money, will be likewise deflated, there can be no feeling of security, and, therefore, no possible return of prosperity."

SALVADOREAN JUNTA ACCUSES U. S. ENVOY

San Salvador, El Salvador, April 4 (A.P.).—The patriotic junta of the Republic of Salvador authorized its secretary today to inform Secretary of State Stimson that William J. McCafferty, American charge d'affaires here, was mixing in its internal affairs.

The secretary was authorized, after an extraordinary session of the organization, to send the following message to the American Secretary of State:

"In the name of the patriotic junta, which represents the opinion of the Salvadorean people, we assert, that Mr. McCafferty, representative of the American Government, is mixing in the internal affairs of our country, gravely menacing the peace and good will of Central America."

The reason for the criticism of Mr. McCafferty was unexplained. Salvador has been ruled by a military junta, headed by Gen. Maximiliano Martinez, since the overthrow of former President Araujo by a coup last December.

The United States Government has refused to recognize the revolutionary regime of President Martinez on the ground that it had not been constitutionally reorganized. It was added that even if the government had been constitutionally reorganized, President Martinez could not be recognized under a clause of the Central American treaty of 1923 barring from the presidency persons who had held office in the previous government.

The revolution of November 2 was followed by uprisings attributed to Communists, which caused the United States and Great Britain to send warships to protect foreign interests.

DARROW LOSES PLEA IN NAMING OF JURY

able to agree. The body of Kahahawai was found January 8 in an automobile driven by Mrs. Fortescue. Lieut. Massie and Lord were in the machine and Jones, found on guard at the Massie home, was arrested and charged with the others.

Early indication of a battle over jurors was given in the examination of Henry Beckley, prospective juror and former member of the police force.

Beckley insisted that, despite having formed impressions as to Kahahawai's death, he could return a fair verdict. The ruling followed an hour's argument between Darrow and Barry Ulrich, young assistant prosecutor.

The six men seated include two Chinese, one Hawaiian, one Japanese and two Americans. When the jury box is filled each side will have 24 peremptory challenges. The entire first week is expected to be occupied in selecting the jury.

Darrow's clients listened intently while he patiently questioned the Chinese, Hawaiians, Japanese and Anglo-Saxons of the jury panel. Mrs. Fortescue, wearing a maroon suit, sat in the front row of the courtroom only a few feet from the family of the slain man.

Outside the court a crowd of curious Hawaiians, Chinese, Japanese and Americans milled about, unable to enter the small court. Only 75 persons, all of whom held passes, were admitted.

Mrs. Fortescue was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. J. L. Ripley, of New York. Her cheeks were without rouge, and she appeared extremely pale. Both listened to the questioning calmly without showing emotion.

Massie, his arms folded, bit his lip and appeared worried. Beside him sat Jones and Lord, both dressed smartly as civilians. They apparently were not worried, but Jones paid keen attention to the selection of the jury.

On the same bench with the defendants sat the father, mother and sister of Kahahawai. They are typical Hawaiians, heavy and dark. The father, a motorman, wore horn-rimmed glasses and chewed gum.

Mrs. Massie did not appear in the court, but is expected to attend sessions when the taking of evidence is started.

Army and Navy personnel were conspicuous by their absence.

Finland Ends Dry Law Today; Rum Prices Up

Helsingfors, Finland, April 4 (A. P.). Twelve years of prohibition come to an end in Finland tomorrow, but it appeared tonight as if the attending celebrations would not be excessively gay.

Whisky at $6.50 a bottle and cognac at $9.25 are at the basis of the decision taken by the restaurant men.

Democratic Clubs Pick Mrs. Menefee

Cumberland Resident Pick of Maryland Group for Committeewoman.

Mrs. Elizabeth R. Menefee, of Cumberland, was chosen unanimously as the choice of the United Democratic Women's Clubs of Maryland for national committeewoman from Maryland at a meeting of the executive board of the organization yesterday at the Lord Baltimore Hotel in Baltimore, Md.

The board indorsed the proposal now pending in Congress to designate August 26 a national holiday as woman suffrage day in honor of Susan B. Anthony. The resolution was presented by Mrs. Virginia Peters-Parkhurst, president of the Susan B. Anthony Foundation. Tentative plans were discussed for a get-together luncheon at Frederick, Md., the latter part of May, at which Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and Senator Millard F. Tydings, of Maryland, will be asked to speak. A campaign to secure subscriptions for the Maryland Clubwoman, of which Mrs. Frank M. Hoadley, of Chevy Chase, is editor, was decided on, the chairmen of the individual clubs to act as chairman for her particular territory.

Thaw Gains Point In Suit of Alienist

New York, April 4 (A.P.).—Harry K. Thaw was granted a motion for further particulars today in a suit against him for $10,000 by Dr. Smith Ely Jelliffee, alienist, who testified for Thaw in his trial for murder following the shooting of Stanford White, and subsequent proceedings brought in Thaw's behalf while he was an inmate of Mattewan State Hospital and of a Pennsylvania sanitarium.

Federal Judge William Bondy decided that Dr. Jelliffee had not fully complied with a court order calling for service of a bill of particulars upon Thaw's attorney.

Dr. Jelliffee began suit in 1929 in State courts. He said he had never been paid for his services preceding and during the murder trial and for additional services rendered thereafter. The bill of complaint set forth that Dr. Jelliffee had served the defendant professionally as an expert from "1907 to 1917 and thereafter." The suit was transferred to Federal Court on motion of Thaw, who set forth that he was a resident of the State of Pennsylvania, and the alienist a resident of New York State.

'BALKANS NAPOLEON' AND CABINET RESIGN

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, April 4 (A.P.)—Gen. Pera Zivkovitch, the "Napoleon of the Balkans," and long a power behind the throne of Jugoslavia, today relinquished the premiership to Vojislav Marinkovitch, his foreign minister.

The general and his entire cabinet resigned this morning. Afternoon brought the formation of a ministry headed by the foreign minister, who has survived many governmental changes during the last five years, and who will continue to guide the nation's foreign policy.

Gen. Zivkovitch's withdrawal followed persistent outbursts of popular discontent, such as student riots at Belgrade and Zagreb and repeated demonstrations by Croatian Separatists.

The retiring premier explained that the task assigned to him in January, 1929 (when Parliament was dissolved and the constitution suspended) "may be regarded as completed." The next developments, he added, will be the formation of new political parties "in the spirit of the new constitution" and wider popular participation in the responsibility of government.

Gen. Zivkovitch will resume his former post as commander of the Royal Guards.

The government's opposition is expected to demand new elections and the freedom of the press. The question of revising the constitution handed down by King Alexander last September also may be raised.

The new premier accepted the post despite ill health. He suffers from a lung ailment which necessitates a yearly visit to Switzerland.

Excepting the retirement of Gen. Zivkovitch, the personnel of the new cabinet is the same as that of the old.

An indictment charging Sherburne Philbrick Hopkins, reputedly the first husband of Peggy Hopkins Joyce, with obtaining money under false pretenses was returned by the District grand jury yesterday. Hopkins, it was charged, obtained $2,317.25 from the Riggs National Bank by falsely representing to the bank that he had that sum coming to him.

WILLIAM GREEN.

TO SAY that William Green, in his youth, toiled in the darkness under the ground while his thoughts were on a career that pointed to Heaven—is not merely to indulge in a figure of speech. It is literally true.

Green, as a boy, worked in a coal mine in Ohio. In the evenings, he read the Bible and looked forward to the day when he could become a Baptist minister.

An unfair rule adopted by the owners of the mine, however, swerved him. In addition to his Bible, he began reading books on law and economics. Then he joined the United Mine Workers, and set out to fight the unfair rule aforementioned and all others.

The eloquence which he had planned to use in the pulpit he now used to better the lot of his fellow-workers. Ultimately, he became secretary and treasurer of the miners' organization, and then vice president of the American Federation of Labor.

Samuel Gompers, president of the A. F. of L., always looked upon Green as the man who would succeed him, and he groomed him accordingly.

After Gompers' death in 1924, Green was elevated to the presidency of the great labor organization.

Green's father was English and his mother Welsh. He was born in Coshocton, Ohio, March 3, 1873. When he was 19, he married Jane Mobley, who bore him five daughters and one son.

ORDERED TO SLAY ENVOY, MAN HOLDS

But Accused Takes Blame From Other Defendant in Soviet Trial.

Moscow, April 4 (A.P.).—Sergei Vassiliev, a bookkeeper's son, declared in court today that he had "received a terroristic order to kill" Dr. Herbert von Dirksen, German Ambassador to Soviet Russia.

Vassiliev made this statement at the opening session of his trial with Judas Stern for the attempted assassination a month ago of Dr. Fritz von Twardowski, counselor to the Germann Embassy, who was wounded by bullets as he was driving in an embassy automobile in a Moscow street. Stern admitted firing the shot.

Each of the defendants sought to take major responsibility for the crime. "I acted on my own; Vassiliev had nothing to do with it," said Stern. Vassiliev declared it was he who influenced Stern.

Vassiliev did not reveal the source of his "terroristic order to kill." He said he and Stern agreed the assisination would be a blow to the power of the Soviet government, to which they were opposed.

"We first planned to kill the ambassador in the embassy, but realized that was impossible, so we decided to kill him on the street, and I furnished Stern with the number of his automobile," he said.

The defendant explained that the day after the attempt on Dr. von Twardowski he learned that Stern had been arrested, but he did not worry. "I was sure Stern wouldn't betray me," he said. They had hoped to endanger relations between Russia and the nations to the west, particularly Germany. Ambassador von Dirksen was one of the many eminent spectators in the courtroom.

Stern explained that when he fired the shots he was not sure the ambassador was in the automobile, but that made no difference, as "I considered any embassy official suitable for my purpose."

RAFAEL ABALLI DIES; FORMER CUBA ENVOY

Havana Leader Once Held Communications Post in Machado's Cabinet.

Havana, Cuba, April 4 (A.P.).—Rafael Sanchez Aballi, former Cuban Ambassador to Washington and former secretary of communications in President Machado's cabinet, died today at his home here after a long illness. He was 55 years old.

Senor Aballi was a graduate of Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., where he studied engineering. He had large sugar interests in Cuba when Machado, on becoming president in 1925, named him Ambassador to Washington. He occupied that post until his health caused him to return to Cuba.

He was then made secretary of communications, resigning to seek unsuccessfully the office of senator from Oriente Province.

The widow, three sons and two daughters survive.

CHINA TRUCE HOPES ARE BRIGHTER AGAIN

Quo Plans to Quit as Chief Delegate to Conference; Concessions Made.

Shanghai, April 4 (A.P.).—The Japanese and Chinese truce negotiators got a little closer together in a conference today, but their progress was disturbed by an announcement that Quo Tai-Chi, Chinese vice minister for foreign affairs, intended to resign as chief delegate of the Nanking government.

Last Saturday Quo's automobile was stopped by a group of members of a Chinese patriotic organization, who demanded that an unyielding attitude be taken against Japan. They told the vice minister that China must insist on the surrender by the Japanese of Woosung and Kiangwan, where fighting was heaviest during the recent conflict.

Quo informed these Chinese they should make their representations through "proper channels," and he never would be a party to any agreement detrimental to China.

During today's armistice conference the Japanese made some concessions, but a Chinese spokesman described them as "unimportant." These concessions concerned the schedule of Japanese troop withdrawals.

The Chinese remained adamant in their demand that the Japanese fix a date for complete evacuation into the International Settlement, while the Japanese were willing only to set a time for the beginning of the withdrawal. Complete evacuation, they said, must depend on circumstances.

The conference will be resumed Thursday and in the meantime the conferees will have an opportunity to refer disputed points to their governments. The military subcommittee, which also met today, will resume its sessions Wednesday.

While the armies remain almost dormant pending outcome of the truce negotiations the opposing parties are saying it with the printed word. Since the cessation of hostilities the printing presses of the city have been turning out tons of propaganda for both sides.

Character Institutions Trim Chest's Budgets

Character building organizations affiliated with the Community Chest have voluntarily reduced their budgets for 1932 by 7 per cent as their contribution toward reducing the probable deficit of the Chest, which failed by 7 per cent to reach its goal in the last campaign.

Announcement to this effect was made yesterday by Joshua Evans, jr., chairman of the Chest budget committee, who paid a high tribute to these organizations for taking this action. Chairman Evans pointed out that the character building organizations, which include the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Boy and Girl Scouts, Boys' Club and settlement houses, were especially entitled to credit for this voluntary action.

Copyrights Group Backs Sirovich Bill

Action to Be Taken Today on Measures to Amend Patents Law.

(Associated Press.)

The Sirovich copyright bill, intended to create new safeguards for the rights of authors in all fields, was reported favorably yesterday by the House copyrights committee.

Before voting approval, Chairman Sirovich (Democrat), New York, said the committee "reviewed the entire copyrights situation." Action will be taken today on bills to amend the patent laws. Important particulars in which existing copyright law would be changed under the legislation were outlined by Sirovich as follows:

Copyright would be first vested in the author always, instead of in the publisher as at present; the author would be permitted to assign his entire copyright; the author would be allowed to license any part, interest or privilege in his copyright; the licensee would be permitted to protect his own interest in his own name; the term of copyright would be fixed at 56 years.

Scientists Evolve Method Of Telling Age by Hairs

By JOHN J. DALY

IN the scientific crime laboratory of Northwestern University a crime against nature has been committed, in the interest of science. So the professors, instead of hiding their shame, are crowing over their achievement.

The holiest secret of a woman—her age—may be broadcast to the wide, wide world by the tell-tale signs on a strand of hair.

As the gloating discoverers put it, merely by plucking a single hair from your fair one's head you can tell, and accurately, whether she is romancing about her age.

Romancing about her age? Of course she is romancing. Who is not? It is one of the oldest forms of romance, mocking at time and not giving out statistics. In order to cover up the evidence, or at least take attention away from the rolling years, the old phrase was invented: "A woman is as young as she looks, a man as old as he feels." And that was always near enough to the truth.

* * * *

WELL, that blessed day seems past by the foolhardiness of modern science, always tending to overstep the bounds.

The new process of detecting the age of human beings—and you would think it a crime merely to have an established age—follows along arboreal lines. The hair rings are counted and measured, as men once studied ridges in trunks of trees to tell how long they had shaded the earth.

A human hair is magnified 1,546.8 times. In the course of some 10,000 experiments—for what?—these facts were discovered and are now sent forth to an eager world:

A young person's hair grows rapidly. Age makes it grow slower. The growth is not steady, as many suspect. A hair grows a while, then stops and rests. Each hesitation produces a discoloration at the point where the hair emerges from the scalp. This makes a ring. If there are six rings to a tenth of a millimeter the subject is 20 years old. If there are twelve rings in the same space the subject is 40—fair or ugly, fat or lean, but 40.

There is the hideous system of shattering secrets.

* * * *

GONE is all the joy out of courting. From now on, if a young man in his fancy lightly slips his arm around his girl's shoulder, as men have done from time immemorial, his light o' love may begin to suspect that he has ulterior motives—and she may be right. Forsooth, he may be searching for evidence—a stray strand by which her exact age may be told.

Scientists, beware! There is such a thing as going too far!

Like an uncle who dozes and lets his little nieces and nephews slip off his knees, science every now and then manages to disrupt the dreams of romance. It may seem like hair-splitting and all that, but meddling with a lady's age is no safe ground for science; nor is romance the field in which to become scientific.

Ogle was driving home when at Fourteenth street and Rhode Island avenue he heard several reports, but paid no attention to them as he thought they were backfires from a car. It is believed the attempt was made on his life in retaliation for his activities against criminals.

R.B. FOSDICK'S WIFE KILLS TWO AND SELF

Children of Former League of Nations Official Are Slain by Mother.

Montclair, N. J., April 4 (A.P.).—Mrs. Winifred Fosdick, wife of the former undersecretary general of the League of Nations, shot and killed their two children with a revolver while they slept, and then ended her own life at dawn today.

The bodies were discovered about four hours later by the husband and father, Raymond Blaine Fosdick, attorney and trustee for the Rockefeller Foundation.

Late in the day Mr. Fosdick's brother, the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, widely known New York minister, read to newspaper men here a statement which said his sister-in-law for several years had been in "a disturbed mental condition with a progressive form of paranoia."

Letters Show Insanity.

"She left behind letters to members of her family showing that her deed was the result of insanity," the statement said.

The minister also said his brother had been sleeping in another part of the house and did not hear the shots. It was not until Mr. Fosdick strolled into his son's room that he discovered the tragedy.

Dr. Fosdick declined to divulge the contents of the various letters, but indicated they were rambling, that they dealt with a variety of subjects and that they showed the harassed state of the woman's mind.

Worried over his wife's condition, Mr. Fosdick had carefully hidden the weapon and was unable to explain how she found it. He was exhausted after several nights of watching over her and fell into such a profound sleep he did not hear the shots. Mrs. Fosdick was 47 years old.

The two children, Susanne, 15, and Raymond Blaine, jr., 9, were home on vacation from school.

Career of Her Husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond B. Fosdick were married in 1910, five years after his graduation from Princeton University. He was assistant corporation counsel of New York City from 1908 to 1910, and comptroller of the finance committee of the Democratic national committee in 1912.

He spent 1913 in Europe studying police organization as a representative of the Rockefeller Bureau of Social Hygiene. In 1916 he was a special representative of the Secretary of War on the Mexican border and again represented the War Department in France in 1918 and 1919. He was civilian aid to Gen. Pershing during the latter year and in 1919 and 1920 was undersecretary general of the league.

Mrs. Fosdick before her marriage was Miss Winifred Finlay, of Montclair.

Injunction Sought In Trial Fund Drive

Petition Charges Haury and Agents Have Coerced Union Members.

Robert Ely, of 4937 Conduit road, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to enjoin Charles E. Haury, supervisor of the International Union of Operating Engineers, from "intimidating, attempting to intimidate, coerce, or in any way interfere" with the donation of funds to assist Bert W. Carpenter and George McSullen, two jailed members of the union, following a hearing in the office of United States Commissioner Turnage, at which they were accused of conspiring to murder Haury.

The request for an injunction charges that Haury and his agents have coerced members of the union to prevent them from responding to appeals to aid the two men. Ely is also a member of the union.

The petition discloses that the alleged plot on Haury was concocted in the home of a deputy United States marshal, with dictaphones rigged up and detectives listening in to the conversations. It avers that Ed Johnson, whose real name is Ed Bryson, has been a friend of Haury.

Nicholas M. Butler Hits At Party "Pussyfooters"

New York, April 4 (A.P.).—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, declared tonight the "unfortunate breakdown" of the Republican party system had turned "too many of those who hold and seek public office into trimmers, pussyfooters and wait-and-see men." A candidate for delegate to the Republican national convention, Dr. Butler spoke at the Ninth Assembly District Republican Organization Club.

"They are so fearful of losing political office, with its emoluments, its prestige and its influence," he continued, "that if they have any convictions on important and disputable subjects, they conceal them lest some element of their constituency be alienated by any definite statement on their part."

HEARD YOUR VOICE YET?

Everyone Will Be Welcome In Post-R.C.A. Voice Test

Microphone fright, a disease formerly confined to those who are suddenly required to speak over the radio, is now afflicting hundreds of Washingtonians who are flocking to the free recording stations established by The Washington Post in cooperation with the RCA-Victor Co.

It seems so simple to speak, sing, or play some instrument into the tiny microphone that permanently records your efforts, but in the majority of instances the performer suddenly becomes self-conscious or forgets the microphone and addresses an aside remark to some companion. Even Herluf Provensen, Station WRC's ace announcer, so far forgot his schooling that the record made by him suddenly asks, "How much more room is there on the record?"

Although Mr. Provensen's record was not made as a competitive entry in the contest, such lapses would have no effect on the judging, as records are graded entirely upon the basis of registry—without regard to the selection recorded and whether of speech, singing or instrumental nature. It is suggested, however, that contestants have in mind just what they wish to do or say before addressing the microphone. If desirable, material may be written beforehand, allowing about 1½ minues for each side of the double-disk record. It is not necessary to record both sides unless the contestant wishes, for one side alone is sufficient basis for judging the character of voice or instrument playing.

Every one is eligible to compete in this great contest, regardless of age and whether amateur or professional. Each contestant will only compete in his or her own class, however, so there is equal opportunity for every one to share in the distribution of more than 50 valuable prizes.

The only condition governing entrance in the competition is acceptance of the clause that provides that the decision of the judges will be final. You need only go to one of the recording stations listed below and make your record. This will then be submitted to a committee of judges and after it is rated it will be mailed to you for your permanent possession. In addition you may have the thrill of listening to your own voice immediately after completing the record.

Recording stations will be open daily, during regular store hours, up to and including Saturday, April 23. In event of ties duplicate prizes will be awarded.

Whether or not you believe that you have ability as a recording artist, take advantage of this gerat opportunity to "hear yourself as others hear you." There is positively no obligation attached and you will have the most amusing few minutes it has ever been your privilege to enjoy.

Free auditions on the RCA-Victor "home recording" records will be given at the following stations:

DAVIDSON BATTLED LANDLADY IN BATH

Woman Charges Minister Entered Room After She Had Evicted Him.

London, April 4 (U.P.).—A story of how the Rev. Harold Francis Davidson engaged in a struggle with his landlady in the bathroom, enlivened today's session of the 60-year-old rector's trial on charges of immorality.

The story was told by Flora Osborne, the landlady. She said that Dr. Davidson had failed to pay his rent and then refused to leave when she asked him to do so.

So, one day, she climbed through the bathroom window just as the white-haired rector entered to take a bath.

"He came into the bathroom after I had given him notice time and time again," Mrs. Osborne said indignantly. "I got through the window. I told him the room was mine and that I would put him out.

"He was just taking off his coat and vest, but I got hold of him. My husband had to come and separate us, I don't mind telling you."

Amid laughter from the court crowd, she said. "This is no laughing matter."

Dr. Davidson rented the room, which was on the ground floor, for about two years, Mrs. Osborne said, and many times he brought girls there. He told her that he was rescuing the girls from vice.

Mrs. Osborne said the girls came at all hours of the day and night and that frequently she saw Miss Rosie Ellis, whom the rector introduced as his secretary. She always stayed late, the landlady said, and sometimes she didn't leave at all. Once they came together and Dr. Davidson changed to evening dress, she said, presumably while the girl looked on.

During the day, counsel for Dr. Davidson disclosed that one of the girls the rector aided was an actress, who had a leading part in a London show. It was shown that she joined the Roman Catholic Church and became a nun.

Alcohol Permit Upheld In Ruling on Regulation

Denver, April 4 (A.P.).—Holding that the Federal Prohibition Bureau's regulations limiting issue of alcohol permits "modifies and changes the provisions of the prohibition act," the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today upheld the district court in ordering a permit issued to a Colorado firm.

The Colonial Drug & Sales Co., of Denver had applied for a permit to operate a bonded warehouse in which to store and sell tax free alcohol for commercial and medicinal purposes. J. M. Doran, then Federal prohibition director and now commissioner of industrial alcohol, refused the permit on the ground that department regulations provided that warehouse permits be granted only to manufacturers of alcohol.

STIMSON DISCOUNTS EUROPE DEBT TALK

The text of this memorandum was not revealed at the time nor subsequently, although versions of it appeared in some foreign newspapers, especially in the French press.

Secretary Stimson, it was declared, will revert to the tenor of these instructions in the event that any approaches are made to him on the subject. It was very emphatically denied that any special preparations are going forward here now in anticipation of any debt conversations. Despite the proximity of such international events as the Danubian Confederation, the Lausanne Reparations Conference, the Four-Power Conference in London, the Secretary of State has not held any debt conversations up to the present time.

The following points will be treated exhaustively by Col. Stimson himself in the expansion of the American disarmament program, originally presented by Ambassador Hugh Gibson February 9:

First, restriction of the bombing of civilian population by military planes. The recent Japanese attacks in the region of Shanghai have given a certain timeliness to this detail.

Second, the outlawing of the submarine.

Third, the humanitarian aspects of the disarmament problem with regard to the use of lethal gas as distinct from the chemical gas necessary for smoke screen and for flares.

Fourth, the definition of "offensive" weapons.

Experiment in Insulin On Tuberculars Urged

New York, April 4 (A.P.).—A plea to the medical profession to experiment with the fattening powers of insulin for tubercular patients was made tonight by Frederick M. Allen, of the Physiatric Institute of Morristown, N. J.

He spoke at a meeting of the Clinical Society of the Polyclinic Hospital, New York City.

5 Guilty in Rum Plot Lose Pleas

Convictions Are Affirmed by District Court of Appeals.

The District Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed the convictions of Alfred George Mendelson, Harry Kushner, Corbin Shields, Milton J. Lerner, Andrew LeBolo and Jack Baum, who were found guilty last spring of being members of a rum ring conspiracy.

In the same trial, five others, Roy Beasley, Thomas McNichols, Eddie Groghan, Roy Ahearn and Frank Baker also were convicted, but they accepted their sentence and are serving time. The original indictment named 22 persons, of whom three were women.

Four pleaded guilty, four were not tried, two got directed verdicts, and one, Ida Mendelson, was acquitted. The other eleven were found guilty.

Assistant United States Attorneys James R. Kirkland and John J. Wilson, who prosecuted the case, yesterday said that the four who were not tried at the original trial will be set down for an early trial. Government agents were not able to locate the four until after the trial had started.

New Treasure-Seekers Arrive at Cocos Island

Seattle, Wash., April 4 (A.P.).—A message was received here today from Cocos Island, former lair of pirate chieftains in the South Pacific off Costa Rica, telling of the safe arrival there of a party of Seattle and Vancouver, B. C., treasure-seekers.

The message said: "Arrived Cocos Island March 20 after a rough trip. Will go to Costa Rica to send messages concerning our plans." The party sailed aboard the power schooner Silverwave. The adventurers hope to locate with the aid of electrical diving apparatus, treasure which students of pirate lore have estimated at about $100,800,000.

Economy Commission Is Urged by President

These objects can not be accomplished without far-reaching amendment to the laws. The Executive is bound to recommend appropriations adequate to provide for the functions and activities of the Government as now established by law. This is mandatory, and the opportunity for administrative savings is limited. The appropriations committees are likewise bound and can only act within restricted limits. Therefore, to lessen the burden upon the taxpayers in a substantial amount it is necessary to enter upon other fields by amending existing laws which place unnecessary obligations on the departments and independent establishments. We need repeal of existing laws which require carrying on of functions not absolutely essential for the present. This means that we should undertake a definite, separate and coordinated program of economy legislation which will enable the Executive and the appropriations committees to achieve the results desired.

A clear indication that the limit of executive authority to bring about economies has about been reached is shown by the fact that the total expenditures estimated in the budget of $4,112,000,000 (including Postoffice deficit after deduction of receipts) presented to the Congress, except for increased payments to veterans and expenditure on construction work in aid of employment, was the lowest in over five years. A further indication of the existing limitations is shown by the fact that of the whole budget the appropriations bills passed by the House of Representatives, together with those recommended by the House appropriations committee and the permanent appropriations, already cover about 75 per cent of the budget, and do not yet include the Army and Navy. Yet the positive reductions, including the urgency deficiency bill, so far made by the House and by its committees, on information supplied to me by the director of the budget are less than $35,000,000. It is true that the committee has reported reductions of a total of about $113,000,000, but of this about $78,000,000 are effectively postponements until the next December session of the Congress, and must then be provided for in deficiency bills.

I say this in no wise in criticism of the action of the Congress or of its committees, but as a demonstration of the fact that the latitude necessary for real reduction of expenses can only be secured by a thoroughgoing renovation of the law to bring about real national economy program.

The appropriations committees of both the Senate and the House have given earnest consideration to these questions. Also a special economy committee and the committee on expenditures in the executive departments of the House, have been engaged upon these problems. Many suggestions of opportunities for further material reduction in governmental expenditure have been made to these committees by the executive officers of the Government, but the major portion thereof require legislative action and authorization.

It appears to me that with four different agencies of the Congress at work on the problem, operating independently with the different departments, the time which has already elapsed and the short time available to us before the beginning of the new fiscal year, all point to the absolute necessity of better organized unity of effort in all the branches of the Government primarily concerned with the problem.

Therefore, I recommend to the Congress that in order to secure this unity of effort and prompt action, and thus insure the relief of the taxpayer and a balanced budget, at the same time protecting vital service of the Government, that representatives be delegated by the two houses, who, together with representatives of the Executive, should be authorized to frame for action by the present Congress a complete national program of economy and to recommend the legislation necessary to make it possible and effective. Such a course would expedite rather than delay the passage of appropriations bills.

I am convinced that only by such unified, nonpartisan effort, and by a willingness on the part of all to share the difficulties and problems of this essential task can we attain the success so manifestly necessary in public interest.

HOOVER'S PLEA FOR ECONOMY AROUSES DEBATE IN SENATE

millionaire Republican senator, Mr. Couzens, proposing to put war-time surtaxes on large incomes and Senator Harrison, who has so often enjoyed flaying the Republicans as the servitors of the wealthy, protesting that he couldn't go so far as Senator Couzens proposed. Neither, said Senator Robinson, could he.

Senator Huey Long (Democrat), of Louisiana, who says he is the "kingfish" of Louisiana politics, joined in the debate and said that the country was doomed if the Congress did not do the things necessary to bring about a redistribution of wealth.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Democrat), of Montana, joined the parade of conservative Democratic leaders and protested that he couldn't go along on any proposal to levy a maximum tax on incomes of $100,000 and over and thought that the taxes ought to be only gradually increased.

The proposal by Senator Couzens was at variance with the taxes approved by the House when it voted for the so-called Swing amendment. That amendment was commonly interpreted as imposing the war-time surtaxes on incomes, probably because it imposed a tax of 65 per cent on incomes over $10,000,000. Actually, however, there was a wide difference between the Swing taxes and the war-time taxes. The Swing taxes, incorporated in the House bill sent to the Senate, imposed much lower taxes on incomes between $100,000 and $10,000,000 than did the war-time tax law, but the proposal of the millionaire Couzens to put back the war-time taxes shocked the Democratic leaders, who explained it would just drive taxable incomes into tax-exempt securities.

The President's message was read in the House toward the end of its session. It wasn't much more than a formality and not many members listened to the reading of it. They had been informed of its gist and knew that nothing was to be done about it at the moment and after the Philippine independence and succeeding matters had been disposed of the House adjourned.

What they didn't say on the floor, however, leaders took occasion to say in statements. Speaker Garner said the House would be glad to consider any economy measures the President might suggest, and he seemed to have an added sharpness in his voice as he said it. Representative Henry T. Rainey (Democrat), Illinois; Representative Joseph W. Byrns (Democrat), Tennessee, who is understood to have resigned from the chairmanship of the special House economy committee because he was opposed to slashing Government salaries; Representative John R. Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, a champion of Government employes, and Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), Indiana, whose home town is in the Gary steel mill district and who may be described as the energetic father of the movement to slash the salaries of Government employes, issued statements.

Specific Suggestions.

Representative John McDuffie (Democrat), of Alabama, also made a statement. Mr. McDuffie is chairman of the special House economy committee, the chairmanship of which Representative Byrns relinquished last week. Mr. McDuffie's statement was an anticlimax to his admission of what his economy committee had done.

Mr. McDuffie said that to carry out the President's proposal would only mean a repetition of the six weeks' hearings held by his committee. His committee, of course, was ready to act on any proposal submitted by the President. He thought, however, the President should submit specific suggestions.

His committee had agreed on three bills after the lengthy hearings, he said.

There were other things, Mr. McDuffie said, which were before his special committee. He seemed to take especial satisfaction in enumerating a possibility of reductions in the activities of the Commerce Department, because it was under the administration of Mr. Hoover as head of that department that it was expanded so extraordinarily. Mr. McDuffie said, however, wouldn't go into details.

Other savings, Mr. McDuffie said, might be achieved through cutting down the activities of the Government Printing Office, combining the Personnel Classification Board and the Civil Service Commission, retiring superannuated employes, cutting down the annual leave, and possibly combining one or two minor and inexpensive international commissions and boards.

How much would be saved by the bills the economy committee had agreed on, Mr. McDuffie was at a loss to say. How much might be saved by way of the various other proposals enumerated, he refused to estimate.

It was a hectic day on the Hill. Whatever hope there might have been to get Congress to settle down in bipartisan harness was dissipated by the President's message. The Democrats, before the session began, adopted a program, the strategy of which called for giving Mr. Hoover enough rope to hang himself. They proposed to give rope by way of approving his various recommendations, several of which the Democrats themselves have fought several years to have enacted.

The "smear Hoover" campaign, however, has been upset many times since the convening of Congress. Mr. Hoover has helped upset the campaign. He has developed an unfriendly habit of catching Congress unaware with statements and Congress is awakening with a rude shock to the fact that when it comes to a pinch the President they had thought politically dead is far from inexperienced in the art of issuing public statements. Naturally the Democrats don't like it.

Referred to Committee.

So far as the tax bill itself was concerned the Senate received it from the House formally and equally formally referred it to the finance committee of which Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah, is chairman.

Hearings are to begin before the committee tomorrow morning, Senator Smoot said. The hearings are expected to last not less than two weeks. Judging by the number of representatives of various industries affected by the bill assembled about the Senate yesterday the hearings will last much longer unless Senator Smoot refuses to hear many of them, which is unlikely. Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills is to be the first witness heard by the finance committee.

Protests against the various taxes put into the bill by the House when the general sales tax was struck out have been received by members of Congress in increasing numbers. The tax battle, as expected, is to be fought all over again in the Senate. In view of the overwhelming defeat of the sales tax in the House it is not thought likely that the Senate will try to insert it in the bill.

The House opened a Pandora's box when it approved embargo import tariffs in the form of taxes on oil and other things and there are ready in the Senate various other tariff proposals as amendments to the tax bill. Leaders are anxious to avoid a general fight on this ground. They are trying to get together on a general program which they hope will mean enactment of a new tax bill before the next fiscal year.

Atlantic City, N. J., April 4 (A.P.).—Representative Charles R. Crisp, acting chairman of the House ways and means committee, said tonight he was "very much in favor" of President Hoover's latest program of national economy.

Mr. Crisp is here for a rest.

CONFEREES DROP PAY INCREASE BAN

day. Items awaiting consideration on the committee's calendar provide for combining the Personnel Classification Board with the Civil Service Commission, cutting down the annual leave of Federal employes, retiring employes whose time has been extended, and merging functions of the International Joint Commission with the International Boundary Commission between the United States, Canada and Alaska.

Hearings have not been completed on proposals to abolish the United Shipping Board, sponsored by President Hoover. Extensive savings within the Department of Commerce are planned, and members are seeking to cut down Government printing costs.

Urges Salary Cuts.

Urging reductions in Federal salaries as one means to retrench, Senator Robinson, deviating from a bitter criticism of President Hoover's message, charged that "the greatest and most powerful lobby that has ever existed in this country is trying to prevent such legislation."

"As a temporary measure at least, and as a measure giving some moral encouragement to those who must pay the heavy additional taxes which this Congress is going to propose, we ought to carry along with the taxation a sound and well considered measure of reduction in salaries," Senator Robinson said.

"I am not speaking for any political organization; I am speaking my personal conscientious convictions. A dollar now will purchase twice what it would purchase a few years ago, and all who are secure in their positions are fully justified in voluntarily yielding a part of the compensation which they receive as a tribute to the general costs of Government."

Challenged by Couzens.

Senator James Couzens (Republican), Michigan, challenged the statement that a dollar today will purchase double, charged "big business" is behind the demand for salary reduction, and asserted that the majority of Federal employes "get less than $1,200 or $1,300 a year."

The Arkansas senator said he did not favor cutting salaries below $2,000 a year.

"I do not charge the senator with intending to mislead the public," Senator Couzens said, "but it must not go out to the people of the United States that Congress agrees to a statement that the employes of the Federal Government can purchase twice as much as they purchased a few years ago."

The Michigan senator charged "wholesale demand upon the part of big business and other kind of business for a reduction in the salaries of Federal employes." He said he "doubted" Congress is going on record in favor of cutting Government salaries averaging only $1,441 a year.

Cites Moral Effect.

Precipitating the debate, Senator Robinson said:

"There has been a good deal of talk in both houses of Congress about salary reductions, and every time that subject is mentioned we hear an outcry coming from limit to limit of the country that there is something wrong with the proposal which would meet in any degree the difficulties in our fiscal arrangement by well-considered diminutions in the compensation which Government agents, including members of Congress, receive.

"It is my candid judgment that if the Congress tomorrow had the courage to pass a measure reducing the salaries of Government employes, including those of members of Congress, making reductions on a fair basis, the moral effect of the action would be immeasurable."

FRAUD INDICTMENT FOUND AGAINST TWO

Mortgage Officials Accused of Putting False Statement in Mails.

The District grand jury yesterday returned an indictment, in two counts, charging use of the mails to defraud on the part of Ralph E. Potter and Thomas E. Petty, both said to be Government employes. Potter is described in the indictment as being a member of the board of directors of the Washington Mortgage & Investment Co. and its treasurer, while Petty was an auditor for the company.

The indictment alleges that on January 11, 1930, the two feloniously and unlawfully placed in the mails a letter addressed to C. F. Allen, of Tuscumbus, Ala., containing a general balance sheet of the investment corporation which purported to show that the corporation was in a sound financial condition whereas, the company was not sound and its funds had been improperly and unsafely invested; that its capital was impaired, and that the assets were dissipated.

The second count refers to a letter sent to J. W. Beard, of Norfolk, Va. The indictment names 47 persons as having bought shares of stock in the company, which has offices in the Mills Building.

The mortgage company was incorporated in 1922. It grew rapidly until on December 31, 1926, it showed total assets of $1,300,000. Within the next three years its assets decreased over $800,000.

Parcel Post Rate Boost Will Be Effective Oct. 1

(Associated Press.)

An increase in parcel post rates within the first four zones—estimated to bring in $7,500,000 in new Federal revenue—will be made effective October 1.

Officials of the Postoffice Department decided on the date late yesterday. The Interstate Commerce Commission approved the increase March 15.

The Interstate Commerce Commission decision suggested that the increase be deferred until mail order houses, which had objected to the increase, had ample opportunity to revise their catalogues and make arrangements for the new tariff on their packages.

Daily Expense of U. S. 6 Million Over Income

(United Press.)

The Federal Government is spending $6,855,000 a day more than it receives, Treasury figures show.

Revenue for each calendar day of the present fiscal year has averaged $5,825,000 as compared with $8,894,000 a year ago. Daily expenditures have totaled $12,680,000 as compared with $11,682,000 during the fiscal year 1931.

During 1931 the daily excess of expenditures amounted to $2,186,000.

Expenses have increased 14 per cent, while revenue has fallen off 34 per cent. This has resulted in a budget deficit of $1,900,370,766.25—the largest peace-time red-ink total in the history of this Government.

Newlands Fountain Bill Goes to Hoover

Memorial to Be Erected in Chevy Chase Circle Approved by House.

A bill to permit the erection of a memorial fountain to the late Senator Newlands, of Nevada, at Chevy Chase Circle, passed the House yesterday and was sent to the White House for signature. The measure already has passed the Senate.

Sponsored in the House by Representative Sol Bloom (Democrat), New York, the bill appropriates no funds but authorizes acceptance of gifts to bring about the improvement.

Not only would a marble fountain be erected in the center of the circle, but extensive landscaping is proposed as well. The design has the approval of the Commission of Fine Arts, and Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d will supervise carrying out of the plans.

Contract Let for Ford Factory in Alexandria

The contract for the assembly plant of the Ford Motor Co. in Alexandria has been awarded to Worden Allen Co., of Chicago, according to word received yesterday. It is expected the work will be started within a short time, preliminary work, including foundations, being already well under way.

EPSTEIN IS INDICTED IN WILSON KILLING

Alleged Slayers of Grocer Also Named in Charges by Grand Jury.

Four murder indictments charging four colored men and one white man, Henry Epstein, 21 years old, of Baltimore, with murder in the first degree were returned by the grand jury yesterday.

Epstein was alleged to have shot to death James Wilson, 30 years old, in an apartment house March 21. Wilson was found lying in the street by a motorist and was taken to the Emergency Hospital where he died.

The accused slayers of Anton Ruppert, grocery man, of 1900 Eleventh street northwest, were indicted. They were George E. Herndon and Marvin Pearson, both colored. Ruppert was shot down by a trio of colored men who attempted to rob him in his store on February 20. Another man is being sought by the police.

Williams Wells, colored, was indicted for slaying Ruth Wells, also colored, March 1. Wells stabbed the woman with an ice pick, and then jumping into his automobile drove to police headquarters, where his machine crashed into one belonging to Superintendent of Police Glassford. The woman died the next day.

Harrison Tucker, colored, was the other to be indicted for murder. He is accused of having fatally shot Joseph Hall, colored, on Myrtle street March 19.

THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

SUMMARY OF ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1931

THE 85TH ANNUAL REPORT of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, covering operations for the year 1931, will be formally presented to the stockholders at the annual meeting on April 12th, 1932. The report shows that although total operating revenues in 1931 declined over $122,000,000, or 21.5%, the Company earned a net income of $19,545,194. This was equivalent to 2.97% upon the outstanding capital stock at the close of the year as compared with 10.55% upon the amount outstanding at the close of 1930. Net income per share (par $50) was $1.49 compared with $5.28 in 1930.

FINANCE

The Company met its maturing obligations including $7,800,000 Equipment Trust Certificates. Under authority previously given by the Board of Directors there were issued and sold during the year $10,000,000 Fifty-Year 4¼% General Mortgage Gold Bonds due April 1st, 1981.

NEW FACILITIES AND EQUIPMENT

The Company expended $15,369,962 in 1931 for improvements on its own road and equipment, in addition to expenditures by its leased and affiliated lines. The net increase in the investment in road and equipment for the entire Pennsylvania Railroad System was $32,951,816.

Important items of new equipment placed in service were: 1,500 all-steel 70-ton gondola cars; 6 electric passenger locomotives; 2 locomotive tenders. Orders for delivery of equipment include: 90 electric passenger locomotives; 62 electric freight locomotives and 20 locomotive tenders. The electric locomotives constitute part of the equipment required for use when the electrification of the lines between New York, Philadelphia and Washington is completed and have been designed for maximum interchangeability between passenger and freight service.

During the year a new design of rail, weighing 131 lbs. per yard, was adopted and placed in general use, replacing the old 130 lb. rail section; also a heavy duty section, weighing 152 lbs. per yard, was adopted for experimental use in heavier traffic territory to provide a rail considerably stronger and stiffer for the heavier axle loads and higher speed. This is the heaviest weight of rail ever used.

PROGRESS ON IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM

Substantial progress was made on the Company's improvement program including work on the following principal items: passenger terminal improvements at West Philadelphia; improvement and expansion of lines and facilities in and near Baltimore; extensive grade separations in Chicago; new passenger terminal improvements at Cincinnati and electrification between New York and Washington. The new rail-water terminal at Jersey City was completed and placed in service.

It is expected to complete electrification between New York and Philadelphia and have this section of the line ready for service in 1933 when electric operation of all local and through passenger trains between those cities will be inaugurated. This will complete the first unit of the Company's electrification project between New York and Washington, designed to speed up and improve operations in this dense traffic territory, as well as improving through service between the north and south.

Active continuation of the Company's large program of construction and electrification depends chiefly upon its ability to obtain the necessary capital on reasonable terms. Owing to the difficulty of obtaining capital for this purpose on acceptable terms from ordinary investment sources due to the unfavorable business conditions, the Company recently applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve a three-year $55,000,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

BETTER AND FASTER SERVICE

As a result of the constant study being made to adjust services and facilities to the changing requirements of passengers and shippers, both passenger and freight services were improved during the year. Faster passenger train time was established between many important centres and faster freight schedules inaugurated between New England and the south and west, thus widening markets, reducing inventories and accelerating sales and production for both industry and agriculture.

NEW TRANSPORTATION METHODS

New, more economical and more convenient transportation methods have been devised in the Company's continuing program of co-ordinating rail and motor services. A new form of rail-truck operation, the "demountable truck body", was inaugurated between New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore and between Baltimore and Richmond, Va., combining the advantages possessed by motor truck operation in congested metropolitan centres with the advantages of economy and expedition in railroad line-haul movement. Under this plan truck bodies are loaded by the shipper, hauled by motor truck from his place of business to the railroad where they are transferred from truck to railroad car and moved in railroad freight service to destination where the reverse operation takes place. Container car service has also been extended and new types of equipment are being developed such as automobile cars which permit more economical loading by elimination of expensive blocking, etc., and covered hopper cars and containers for bulk products like cement, lime and brick.

TEMPORARY RATE INCREASES

Under the Interstate Commerce Commission's decision in the 15 per cent rate case, certain increases in freight rates became effective January 4th, 1932, to continue to March 31st, 1933, with the provision that the additional revenue be segregated from other freight revenue and loaned to financially weak railroads to enable them to meet their fixed charges. For the purpose of collecting, receiving and administering the funds resulting from the increased rates and advancing them in the form of loans to financially weak railroads, the Railroad Credit Corporation was inaugurated and is now in active operation.

RAILROAD CONSOLIDATION

Railroad consolidation in the east, which has been under active discussion for more than ten years, moved an important step nearer to accomplishment in the agreement last October between the executives of the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio and New York Central Railroads to submit a four-party consolidation plan to the Interstate Commerce Commission. Hearings on the railroads' application for the substitution of their plan for the five-party plan previously made public by the Commission, begun on January 6th, 1932, have now been concluded, and if the four-party plan is approved, the gradual grouping of the railroads concerned will be effected. It is believed that each of the systems resulting from the suggested grouping will be able to operate more efficiently and serve the public better than the same number of miles operated in a less co-ordinated manner and will result in improved service, introduction of many economies in operation and a saving in capital expenditures.

STOCKHOLDERS

The capital stock of the company has reached a new high record for widespread distribution, being owned by 245,509 holders as of December 31, 1931, an increase of 12,005 compared with December 31, 1930. As pointed out in previous years the large investment represented by the stock and other outstanding securities of the Company emphasizes the duty and responsibility of the management to protect and promote this interest as well as that of the public and employes.

Notwithstanding extremely adverse business conditions prevailing during the year 1931, the results accomplished by the Pennsylvania Railroad, while not satisfactory, were better than those attained by railroads generally and reflect credit upon the loyalty and fortitude of the officers and the employes.

Continued co-operation of stockholders, bondholders and employes is again solicited in securing additional passenger and freight traffic for the Pennsylvania Railroad.

THE DRIVE FOR ECONOMY.

President Hoover's special message to Congress shifts the spotlight of national interest from taxes to economy. Unless the $1,000,000,000 tax bill passed by the House is supplemented by drastic economies it will fall short of balancing the budget. Instead of asking the Senate to expand the tax bill so as to provide for additional revenue President Hoover requests both houses to concentrate on cutting down expenditures.

Various attempts have been made in both the House and Senate to trim the budget estimates. A special economy committee in the House is working on ways and means of reducing expenditures, but its efforts have been dissipated by the controversy over wage reductions. In the Senate the appropriations committee was asked to cut all supply bills by 10 per cent. Both houses seem to be working toward a starvation diet for bureaucracy instead of attacking bureaucracy itself.

There is a limit to which Congress can go in arbitrarily cutting appropriation bills without crippling the Government service. What is needed for real economy, the President points out, is a "thoroughgoing renovation of the law." The Government is engaging in numerous activities that are not essential either to the Nation or to the people. In this time of emergency such functions should be suspended. Let Congress abolish useless agencies and consolidate bureaus that are engaged in the same type of work. This can not be accomplished by juggling appropriations. A comprehensive plan is needed.

A few weeks ago President Hoover offered to undertake the responsibility of reorganizing the Government's service in the interest of economy. Congress refused to give him the necessary authority. Now the President offers to cooperate with Congress in shaping a program that can be acted upon before the beginning of the next fiscal year. He does not ask for an investigating commission. He wants senators and representatives of both parties to formulate an economy program with the aid of executive representatives. His request is for a national effort to promote economic stability.

Congress is seldom enthusiastic about cooperating with the White House on such projects, but it is difficult to see how either house can reject this practical plan for retrenchment and thereby avoiding greater taxation than is provided in the House bill. The Government can not continue to operate at a spendthrift rate when the country is in the slough of depression. Enormous new taxes can be justified only when the extravagance of government has been eliminated, when waste has been stopped and every department placed on an economy basis.

If any economy program is to be carried out coordination of the efforts of the House, the Senate and the Chief Executive is essential. There is no time for each to originate an economy program of its own and try to iron out the differences. Whatever action is taken at this late hour must be a result of cooperation. The most urgent problem before Congress, aside from that of taxes, is immediate, practical economies that will not seriously impair the efficiency of the Government.

AIR CASTLES OF 1932.

Those sweeping predictions made by the nine distinguished prophets of the Democratic party are somewhat amusing in view of the fact that the 1932 candidates will not be chosen for two months and the Democratic House of Representatives has not yet emerged from its ordeal of fire. But the prophecy explains itself. It went out in the form of a "victory-gram," accompanied by an appeal for funds. The Democratic hierarchy doubtless feels justified in making rash claims when it is trying to raise $1,500,000 for campaign purposes.

According to the roseate view of these authors of the "victory-gram," the country is divided into four political divisions. In the first group of States are those which are "certainly Democratic." A second group includes a large block of States where the followers of Jefferson have "excellent prospects." The prophets admit that the prospects of capturing eleven other States are only "fair." Four States—Vermont, Pennsylvania, Michigan and California—are placed upon the black list, but the capture of even these is considered "possible."

Sweet dreams are always plentiful a few months before election day. Horrible realities of the past are hidden securely away. New hope is inflated into gigantic bubbles. How can Democrats refuse to contribute to the "victory fund" when their party occupies such a commanding position? Let all good Democrats blot out from their memories what happened in 1920, 1924 and 1928.

But Republicans, for their own consolation and encouragement, may find it worth while to balance these optimistic prognostications against the records of recent elections. In the column listing only those States of which the Democrats are absolutely certain are three States which gave 14 electoral votes to President Coolidge in 1924 and nine States that gave 86 electoral votes to President Hoover in 1928. It is notable that Maryland, New Mexico and Arizona, all of which are claimed as "certainly Democratic," have not given their electoral votes to a Democratic presidential candidate since 1916.

In the next class, where the Democratic prospects are "excellent," eighteen States with 205 electoral votes are listed. The Democratic party didn't carry a single one of these States in 1924, and only two of them in 1928.

No State listed in the column of "fair prospects" went Democratic in 1924 or 1928. When the Democrats begin to count on such States as Maine, Utah, Idaho and Minnesota their soaring optimism gets into very thin air. But the dead horse of 1928 must be paid for by selling air castles in 1932.

FOOLING THE FILIPINOS.

The House of Representatives does not help the United States or the Philippines by passing an illusory Philippine independence bill. It is difficult enough to promote the slow process of independence, without indulging in false hopes.

Part of the large vote in the House was cast for the selfish interests of Americans, and not for the sake of satisfying the aspirations of the Filipinos for independence. Some agricultural interests in the United States are anxious to shake off Philippine competition, and these interests take no account of the larger American question of responsibility or the island question of safety after independence has been granted.

If the House bill should become law the Philippine people would be made victims of American selfishness and stupidity. A long train of evils would follow a premature attempt by the Filipinos to maintain their independence. Without sufficient experience, without a stabilized industrial or agricultural organization, without means to combat foreign intrigue and aggression, the Philippines would run into disaster. Then the United States would be compelled to resume its guardianship and repair the great losses incurred by the ignoble experiment. The Nation would be lucky to escape war in extricating the Philippines from the grasp of other powers.

Americans wish to see the Philippines independent. There is no advantage to the United States in retaining the islands against the will of the inhabitants. But the process of preparing for independence must be tedious, and great care must be exercised in avoiding such blunders as that committed by the House in proposing political independence before economic stability has been or can be attained. Until the Philippines is a going concern economically it can not stand alone politically. The eight years of preparation contemplated in the House bill is not sufficient for the achievement of economic independence.

The clamor of Filipinos for independence ought to warn the United States that no substantial help can be expected from the statesmen of the islands. They are so obsessed by the idea of a Philippine republic that they thrust aside the hard practical questions which must be solved before their dreams can come true. The United States must solve these questions, always with honorable intention to give independence to the Filipinos as soon as this independence can be made a blessing and not a curse to the islanders and the American people.

A WASHINGTON GIRL.

Helen Hayes, returning to her own home town, wins the acclaim of press and public, and some of the critical opinion goes so far as to call her "the first lady of the stage." In "The Good Fairy," Miss Hayes is the embodiment of histrionic art.

A long road has been traveled since, as a little girl, Helen Hayes first stepped on a stage here in Washington. Some of those who are now worshipping at her throne are, paradoxically, among the leaders fighting against children appearing on the stage.

Directors of stage plays, dramatic critics, producers, and others who make a study of the theater are of the opinion that an early beginning usually presages a brilliant future. This point of view is aptly illustrated in the case of Helen Hayes, a young woman now at the height of her powers. Her career began, virtually, in childhood.

IRELAND AND THE EMPIRE.

President Eamon de Valera's frantic campaign to divorce Ireland from the British crown has been suddenly checked by two widely separated movements. The most important of these developments is the intimation that if Ireland abolishes the oath of allegiance the Canadian government will not invite representatives of the Free State to the imperial economic conference to be held at Ottawa in June. President de Valera is reported to have completed his reply to the British government's declaration regarding the oath when these reports reached his ears. A disagreement in his cabinet followed, and the reply was remodeled and toned down.

The only link that holds the British commonwealth of nations together is the common allegiance of each country to the king. It is difficult to see how the Free State could abolish the oath without divorcing itself from the commonwealth. Canada will be disposed to regard the Free State as a foreign nation if it takes any action which dissolves its membership in the empire. A strong sentiment of this kind has also developed in England.

The economic life of the Free State is based on its trade with Great Britain and other members of the commonwealth. Disaster would certainly follow the erection of tariff barriers against the Free State by the rest of the so-called empire. Is President de Valera prepared to face such consequences? Apparently his attitude is like that of the Filipino politicians who request independence, along with free trade, from the United States.

One other factor that is upsetting President de Valera's composure is the rise of ultra-radical sentiment in Ireland. In a fiery speech a few days ago Brian O'Higgins, president of the Free State's most fanatical party, advised the Irish army to demand a republic from the new government. De Valera has led the way toward radicalism by moving to abolish the oath of allegiance and to repudiate the land annuities. Now the Republicans are attempting to go a step further. Agitators and revolutionary elements always step in when governments set an example of repudiation and lawlessness. Indications are that President de Valera is alarmed at the fanaticism which has been stimulated by his own action.

In view of these developments the new Free State administration may think twice before it sacrifices economic and political stability.

PIERCING FOG.

There are 2,200 beacons along the Nation's 17,500 miles of lighted airways. At present they are controlled by astronomic time clocks, but experiments are now under way at Bowie, Md., conducted by the Department of Commerce, which will undoubtedly lead to a substitution of the famous "electric eye" as a means of regulation. Known technically as the photronic cell, the electric eye is a small disc, highly sensitive to light and capable of transforming light rays into electric energy. As light pours into a metal cylinder 5½ inches in diameter the electric current ebbs and rises with the intensity of the daylight.

At any time that the light's brilliancy sinks to the dimness of twilight the current from the eye causes a switch to close and the beacon begins to flash. Although the eye turns the beacon off at dawn, it stays on watch, and if at any time the light dwindles below a certain minimum it promptly turns on the beacon, regardless of the hour.

A study of the nature and structure of fog is also under way at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. One of the most important features of this work is to determine what types of light will best penetrate the fog. It is a known fact that fog can form only in air that is not perfectly clean, for each droplet has as a nucleus the fine particles of dust in the air. Further study at the institute revealed that sea fog is formed around the invisible particles of sodium chloride tossed up by the waves. These bits of salt are so fine that they float in the air indefinitely.

The color which will best penetrate a fog is one whose rays will not be scattered or absorbed by the fog particles. Red was formerly considered best, but experimentation has shown that different types of fog require different colors. Fogs of relatively large particles are best penetrated by red light, while those of small particles are pierced only by green. This explains the experience of numerous aviators who have perceived the green flash of a poor contact on a trolley wire, or third rail, while known beacons were invisible.

It is believed by experts that the day is not far distant when all beacons will be provided with the electric eye and changeable colored filters.

LIFE-GIVING FARMS.

It is a common axiom of economics that the cities depend for their existence upon the country. The farms feed the towns. Urban populations would starve if rural populations did not work. Archeologists say that civilization itself began with the invention of agriculture. Cities came into being only when men settled in territory capable of producing crops.

At the present time, when conditions in the cities are particularly hard, the people of the rural communities of the United States are doing a social service relief work which has had but little publicity and yet is a fascinating demonstration of national solidarity and brotherhood as well as an interesting forecast of a desirable conclusion yet to be reached.

The farms are receiving back large numbers of the boys and girls, men and women, who have failed to achieve success in the cities, and these workless unfortunates are being tided over the depression, as Arthur Pound in the Atlantic Monthly declares, "in an area where, as long as seeds sprout and buildings hang together, the bell rings for meals three times a day, a roof fends off rain and a wood lot provides fuel."

"The extent of the recent migration from town to country must be enormous," this authority continues. "Industrial cities have lost heavily in population, some of them as much as 25 per cent. Starvation has not overtaken the departed, since vital statistics show that the death rate is down. Those who have left the towns must be on the farms." It is undoubtedly true that hundreds, even thousands, who have given up the struggle in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Chicago now receive their mail in little villages like Fishkill, N. Y.; South Casco, Me.; Point Marion, W. Va.; Lanham, Md.; Napoleon, N. Dak., and Belton, Mont.

A folk movement is taking place, and the effect of it ought to be all to the good. The average city is a monstrosity. Men were never intended to inhabit cells in tenements 30 stories high. The further people get from the soil, the harder and meaner their lives become. The prevailing economic disturbance of the world is driving labor back to the more natural environment of the open country. If only the majority of these prodigal sons and daughters of the farms will remain there, the whole Nation will be strengthened by their decision. They have "come home" in a double sense of the phrase. When they have made the inevitable adjustment, they will be happy.

Walter B. Pitkin has written "A Short Introduction to the History of Human Stupidity," on which he is said to be an eminent authority.

Having balanced the budget and wiped out the deficit, the House will now take up the bonus bill to wipe out the Treasury.

Taxis are to be metered, but the taxes on motorists can't be measured.

Senator Smoot doubts whether the Senate can pass the tax bill by June 1. It'd better.

The regional Soviet party committee has been ordered to investigate why the great Russian auto factory was forced to close. Political investigation may not discover that political management was the cause.

It is something of a vindication for the young giant Akron that even an experienced old veteran like the Graf Zeppelin can also sprain a fin when taking off.

Wall street now retorts that Congress is the world's biggest bear.

One reason why Congress will not adjourn early in June is that it will feel obliged to aid the President this time with the question of a moratorium renewal—or something.

With that corporeal tax specter shunted over to the north wing the House can resume flirtations with its favorite phantoms, bonus and beer.

A constitutional amendment is proposed that will "guarantee equal rights to women in all respects." Will they agree to take an equal interest in safety razors and two-pants suits?

Germany and Jugoslavia celebrate a $5,000,000 wheat deal. Such a little handful wouldn't make a ripple over here.

If Secretary Stimson undertakes all the tasks that "authoritative" statements abroad announce he is going to tackle, he will not be back for several years.

With an elevated spirit of brotherhood and freedom, coupled just incidentally with protective interest in sugar and dairy products, representatives from the South and West vote for Philippine independence.

The dopesters are trying to figure out just what kind of a pickle Gov. Roosevelt will be in if he has to team up with Senator Dill.

Do we hear a few misgivings that the disarmament part of Secretary Stimson's trip relates to your suspicions regarding its real object?

SAILING SHIPS HANG ON.

There are still sailing ships, square-rigged as well as fore-and-aft, competing for the sea carriage of the world's goods, says A. J. Villiers in the North American Review.

Twenty of them, in the year of grace 1932, are sailing from Australian ports to the United Kingdom and Europe with cargoes of antipodean grain. Four of them sail in the nitrate trade to Chilean ports. A few carry guano on the Peruvian coast; until recently another still carried passengers in the North Atlantic trade. Twelve of them, through the summer months, carry firewood from Northern Baltic ports to London and Hull. Four or five others transport logwood from the West Indies to Marseilles and Le Havre.

How is it that there are still so many sailing ships? When 10 per cent of the world's steamships are laid up for lack of freight, how many sailing ships find employment? The answer simply is that wind is still the cheapest power available; and while the wind blows there always will be sailing ships of some kind.

Sail still should have a place on the face of the waters, for there are many bulk cargoes which sailing ships can transport as efficiently as steamships can, and given an approach to normal times, I do not think that deep sea sail will die entirely.

If the Atom in Caesar's Sword Lives On, Why Doubt That Caesar Does?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE is much talk concerning the atom. The learned and unlearned discuss it as glibly as they discuss X-rays and radium. A listener unacquainted with the facts would conclude that atoms are familiar objects in every laboratory.

Yet nobody ever has seen an atom. The smallest object revealed by the most powerful microscope yet manufactured is many hundreds of times larger than the atom is supposed to be.

Why, then, do men of science accept the atom as an established fact and declare it an assembly of electrons and protons that are infinitely smaller still? Do scientists believe in things they can't see?

In this case they do. They accept the atom as a fact because they see evidence of its existence. The atomic theory explains phenomena that otherwise would be inexplicable.

Yet these same scientists—some of them—are unable to believe in a God they can not see, though the earth is full of manifestations of His boundless wisdom and power.

If evidence of things unseen gives proof of their existence in one case, why not in another?

Consider the matter of immortality. Men who search for truth are almost ready to believe that all matter is nothing more than energy—that a morsel of wood or iron or radium, reduced to its final indivisible elements, is not a solid, after all, but units of negative and positive electricity.

If that is true, all things are made of the same substance—that is, of electrical energy—and rays of light are composed of atoms that might be sound waves or a piece of metal if assembled in another way.

Life is a manifestation of energy. It, also, is a force. Then what else can it be than the same electrical energy that composes all things?

It is demonstrable that nothing in the universe can be destroyed. Iron can be changed to gas, but its atoms remain. The ray of light that left a star millions of years ago strikes the astronomer's eye tonight. It is immortal.

If the energy in light and in iron can never be destroyed, but in some form remains in the universe for all time, why doubt that the energy we call life also endures forever? How can a thing disappear when there is no place for it to go?

Backbone Against Bonus.
Boston Transcript.

President Hoover has "gone to the people" not a moment too soon to make them realize the risk that Congress might pass still another bonus bill. Hitherto, the public has not known the extent of this danger. On the contrary, every clear-minded citizen supposed any new raid of that sort quite impossible. It seems only yesterday that the Treasury paid out hundreds of millions of dollars on bonus account. The Legion's own national leaders went firmly on record at the Detroit convention last autumn against any further demand. Today they still stand against it. Now, of a sudden, the people learn from their President that the Congress is honeycombed with plans for a new gratuity of $2,000,000,000—the biggest ever.

How skillfully the lobbyists have been working! They have been working upon the susceptibilities of individual congressmen, giving promises of support by various Legion posts in the next election. No doubt such offers have been tempting to representatives who recently have seemed much more interested in winning "personal popularity contests" in the voting booths of cities and towns than they are in upholding the credit of the United States in the sight of all the world and in the name of the common welfare of this Nation's people at large.

But no selfish conflict of this sort troubles the mind of President Hoover. He is wholly opposed to a new bonus. "The first duty of every citizen of the United States is to build up and sustain the credit of the United States Government. Such an action would irretrievably undermine it." When the Chief Executive speaks with this force, one thing is certain. If any new bonus bill comes to the White House, it will be vetoed. And that veto will have behind it the broad and positive power of the American people's support—in the name of good judgment, fair play and common sense.

Times Have Changed.
Boston Transcript.

During 1928 and 1929 when, to all outward appearances, rich constituents outnumbered poor ones, we didn't hear much from Congress about soaking the rich. The surprising thing is that in the circumstances some of the members didn't advocate legislation designed to soak the poor.

The Spenders.
New York Sun.

Representative Patman of Texas lives in Texarkana, where also resides Senator Sheppard, coparent of the Volstead Act. Mr. Patman's district includes 11 counties with a total population 1930 census) of 255,452. For the rich and joyous year 1929 the Treasury Department received 1,859 individual income tax returns from Mr. Patman's district, or one for every 154 inhabitants. One rural county of New York, Tompkins, made 1,733 Federal income tax returns for 1929, or one for every 24 inhabitants. As 99 1-3 per cent of the population of Mr. Patman's district never stared into the cold white face of an income tax blank, his readiness to put through billion-dollar bonuses is partly understandable.

The Democratic leader of the revolt against the sales tax was Representative Robert L. Doughton, of North Carolina. Mr. Doughton is 68 years old, but has held public office only 29 years. In 1928 he was returned to Congress by only 1,284 plurality; Al Smith lost the district by 12,000. In 1930 Mr. Doughton got 14,761 plurality. He was born in Laurel Springs, Alleghany County, and he lives there still. The population of Alleghany County at the last census was 7,186. Of these, in the banner year 1929, five—count them—five persons made income tax returns to the Federal Government. This may explain a lot to the class in political economy.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Correspondent Discusses Increase of Taxes and Popular Reaction—Soaking the Farmer.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Now that the battle of the sales tax has been fought and lost in the House of Representatives, will some of the critical editors stop to consider whether, after all, these insurgents, insurrectos or half-way Bolsheviks have not in the end done a real service to the country?

A general sales tax would be so intangible that every one would pay it without knowing it. And so it would continue forever. It would be Nirvana so far as the taxpayer is concerned.

But when the citizen and voter is required to plaster a 3-cent stamp on a letter where he used to put a stamp costing 2 cents before, it may cause him to think. Three cents are tangible. And if he misses the point of the 3-cent postage stamp, there are many other specific taxes which may wake him up.

A farmer in the West or in the South, who views the well-paid rural delivery postman with an envious eye may very likely inquire of the man who represents his district in Congress as to why the postage should be increased by one-half at the very time that he, the farmer, has to sell the produce of his farm at the lowest price since before the Civil War. The postman is tangible. There are many others besides working for the Federal and the State governments who do not know that they are merely expensive overhead.

The foundation of the structure—that is to say, of wealth produced directly from mother earth—from the farms and the mines—has melted away. How long will the superstructure stand?

Democrat Hails Gov. Ritchie as Simon-Pure Jeffersonian and Strongest Man at the Polls.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial on the democracy of Gov. Ritchie, headed "The Modern Jefferson," strikes a responsive chord. I have admired the fearlessness with which the Maryland Governor takes his stand on public questions, in contrast with the straddling tactics of many present-day politicians. So I was pleased to read the declaration of The Post: "To Gov. Ritchie of Maryland goes the distinction of being the foremost advocate of Jeffersonian democracy in public life today." That marks him as the proper Democratic candidate for President this year. In fact, he would not only be the ideal candidate, but the strongest at the polls.

Just now there are several times more untagged voters in the country than ever ran loose in the past. Confused and disgusted at the mealy-mouthed tone of would-be party leaders, these untagged voters are exactly in the mood to follow a fearless, straight-thinking champion. If Mr. Ritchie should be elected President, the country could rest assured of a popular administration as well as a whole-hearted stand against bureaucrats and paternalistic extravagance. And besides, it would add one more to those of the thirteen original States which have been represented in the White House. Up to this time six have been so honored.

STRANGE WOMAN.

I know a little lady who is very fair to see
And she never has an angry word to say,
In her present circumstances she's contented as can be
And she never runs up bills for me to pay.

Prudes may think that she's immodest, for her gown is very thin,
But she pays no heed to any bitter tongue.
There's a fascinating dimple in the middle of her chin
And it's time, I think, her praises should be sung.

She doesn't mind the weather. In the winter when it's cold
She braves the chilling breezes best she can,
In the summer she is happy in the draperies which enfold
And I know she never smiles at any man.

She never asks for money, and when we're invited out
Never tells me she has nothing fit to wear;
Her mind is never troubled by the fear of growing stout,
And she never has to finger waves her hair.

She's a graceful little person, very beautiful and trim,
But she never quotes a Culbertson demand,
Though all the other women are forever citing him,
The game of bridge she doesn't understand.

It's not difficult to please her. I have never heard her fret;
If I stay out late she doesn't care a rap.
She's the chromium diving Venus on a base of metal set
On my automobile radiator cap.

CONVENTION CHOICES SATISFY DEMOCRATS

Roosevelt Backers Pleased; Dill Declares Shouse Due Recognition.

(Associated Press.)

Agreement by the arrangements committee on Senator Barkley and Joseph Shouse, as temporary chairman-keynoter and permanent chairman, respectively, of the Democratic national convention, was regarded by supporters of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt here last night as a satisfactory arrangement.

Senator Barkley was favored by the Roosevelt people and Mr. Shouse by those opposing Roosevelt.

Senator Dill, of Washington, who thinks Roosevelt can not be stopped in his bid for the presidential nomination, said "That's fine" when informed of the committee decision in Chicago.

Little Distinction Seen.

Senator Dill held there was little distinction between the temporary and permanent chairmanship as far as influence goes, pointing out that Senator Barkley will deliver the keynote speech and control the seating of contesting delegations.

Only one contest has developed so far, that in Minnesota, where the regular organization named 24 delegates for Gov. Roosevelt and a rump convention selected a similar number favorable to Alfred E. Smith.

Senator Dill said Mr. Shouse had been doing a lot of good work for the party as chairman of the national executuive committee and was due much recognition. He added it mattered little who was permanent or temporary chairman.

"Roosevelt will have so many delegates he's going to be boss anyhow," he predicted.

Monopoly for Kentucky.

Kentucky will have a monopoly on the choice convention assignments if Senator Barkley and Mr. Shouse are ratified by the national committee. Both hail from the Blue Grass State, whose delegation of 26 seems likely to go for Roosevelt since Senator Barkley eliminated himself as a favorite son and came out for the New Yorker.

The attitude of Gov. Roosevelt's friends here has been that to contend for both chairmanships might stir up ill feeling unnecessarily. A division of the places was not a surprise to them, they said.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Senate minority leader, was permanent chairman in 1928 when he was chosen vice presidential nominee. Claude Bowers, New York writer, was temporary chairman.

Manila Extras Hail Hare Bill Passage

U.S. House Vote for Islands' Freedom Stirs Little Reaction by Filipinos.

Manila, Philippine Islands, Tuesday, April 5 (A.P.).—Manila newspapers issued extras, which were read by groups on downtown streets, when news was received at 4 a. m. today that the United States House of Representatives had passed the Hare bill to give the Philippine Islands independence.

No decided reaction was forthcoming from the Filipinos, who have campaigned for the last 30 years for such action. Few felt that the campaign was about to meet with success. Legislative leaders, including Manuel Quezon, titular head of the independence mission to Congress, who was forced to remain behind because of his health, were at a Baguio Mountain resort, where they were difficult to reach for comment.

Secretary of State Stimson's letter pointing to the international implications of freedom appeared to create a strong impression here. The recent Sino-Japanese fighting has brought home to the Filipinos for the first time the exposed position of the islands, which for centuries have been under the protecting wing of some foreign power.

McGugin Spurns Senate For House Reelection

(Associated Press.)

Representative Harold McGugin announced yesterday he will not be a candidate in the Republican senatorial primary in Kansas but would run for reelection to the House.

"I haven't time to make a primary campaign," was Mr. McGugin's only explanation. "I will be a candidate for reelection to the House."

named a committee to award contracts for tickets and badges and to make press arrangements.

The Democratic chieftains tentatively approved the convention hall layout as prepared by the Chicago civic committee and the Republican party executives, whose convention in the stadium will precede by thirteen days the Democratic meeting.

A Democratic subcommittee on seating arrangements, headed by Frank Hague, of New Jersey, examined the architects' plans and indicated approval, although definite sanction will not be given until the plans have been studied in greater detail.

The Republicans have provided seats for 1,170 delegates, while the Democrats were of the opinion that their delegates would number between 1,400 and 1,500. This will necessitate certain revisions in the seating arrangements.

Albany, N. Y., April 4 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight was "very glad to hear" of the selection of Senator A. W. Barkley, of Kentucky, as temporary chairman of the Democratic national convention. He called it an "excellent choice."

Senator Barkley is a supporter of the governor for the party nomination for President.

Of the selection of Jouett Shouse, chairman of the party's executive committee and generally considered as not friendly to the Roosevelt aspirations, the governor said, "The committee on arrangements recognized the long and tireless service of Mr. Shouse in charge of the Washington headquarters by commending him to the consideration of the convention itself for the post of permanent chairman."

LARGE HOUSE VOTE APPROVES INDEPENDENCE FOR FILIPINOS

So overwhelmingly was the "aye" vote in the House yesterday, that friends of Philippine independence believe that Congress would override a presidential veto. This requires a two-thirds vote.

The 47 members who voted against the Hare bill yesterday were all Republicans. Of the 306 who voted for the measure, 186 were Democrats, 119 Republicans, and 1 a Farmer-Laborite.

Speed Evokes Protests.

The lightning-like fashion in which the Hare bill was considered—it was taken up under a suspension of the rules with only 40 minutes allotted for debate—evoked noisy cries of protest.

"What a travesty!" shouted Representative Charles L. Underhill (Republican), of Massachusetts. "What a tragedy! Forty minutes to found a nation! Forty minutes to establish in perpetuity one of the greatest countries of the world. Forty minutes to determine the fate, the life and death, of 13,000,000 people.

"Why, Mr. Speaker, my own words are inadequate to express my feelings and I have to go to Calvary and quote the words of the Great Master of Men when he said, 'God forgive them; they know not what they do.'"

Imports and Immigration.

The House, however, was not to be swayed by such oratory, and it is doubtful if a month of talk would have made much difference in the vote.

Not that the House was suddenly consumed by a passion for liberty yesterday. There was much more than altruism behind that vote. Some there were, no doubt, who really were motivated by the Edmund Burke spirit; who felt that it was time to make good on a promise that has been made to the Filipinos by every President since McKinley.

But there were others—a great many others—who were thinking, not about the Filipinos, but about imports and immigration, and the effect thereof on their own States.

Domestic Growers Object.

At present, the Philippines can ship their products into the United States without paying a tariff duty, and Filipinoes can migrate to this country freely. Under the terms of the Hare bill, the Philippines, at the end of eight years, would occupy the same status as a foreign government.

The dairy farmers in such States as Minnesota have long been crying out against the huge imports of cocoanut oil from the Philippines. Cocoanut oil is used in oleomargarine.

The growers of beet sugar in such States as Colorado have been making an even noisier clamor over the large imports of tariff-free sugar from the Philippines. They say that these imports are seriously interfering with their own industry.

Alien Bar Demanded.

And then there are the West Coast States who demand that the immigration bars be raised against Filipinos as well as Japanese and Chinese.

So much have these considerations overshadowed the question of freedom that Representative Florella LaGuardia (Republican), of New York, was forced to shout out in the debate yesterday:

This loftier note was maintained once the two little resident commissioners from the Philippines—Pedro Guevara and Camilo Osias—had gained the floor. The 40 minutes allowed for debate had been exhausted by this time, but the House agreed to give each of the Filipinoes 5 minutes.

"We are now here before you asking the privilege of living an independent life," said Guevara. "We will be even more loyal to you, if possible, and be willing to fight and die for you, who are our protectors. Gentlemen, may God illuminate the minds of the members here today in the vote they are about to take."

Osias, a brilliant orator and fighter (he was a captain in the insurrecto army of Aguinaldo), made a speech that brought all the members to their feet applauding.

Using a standard of rhetoric that is seldom heard in the House, the little, bespectacled Filipino pointed to the oil portrait of Lafayette on one side of the Speaker's dais, then to the portrait of Washington, and finally to the American flag in between.

"The thought uppermost in my mind," he said, "and the fervent prayer in this hour of solemn decision is that the members of this House may incarnate in themselves the spirit of Lafayette and Washington; and by their wisdom and statesmanship bring into being another standardbearer who shall symbolize sovereignty in the Philippine Republic and enable the Filipino people to consummate their own glorious destiny."

Amendments Barred.

In the gallery, thrilling to all this, was an independence delegation from the Philippines, composed of Sergio Osmena, acting president of the Philippine Senate; Manuel Roxas, speaker of the Philippine House; Pedro Sabrio, majority leader, and R. Montinola and E. Tirona, minority leaders.

When Representative Butler B. Hare (Democrat), of South Carolina, chairman of the committee on insular affairs, moved to take up his bill yesterday, he suggested that it be considered under the regular rules, with two and one half hours for debate.

Representative Robert L. Bacon (Republican), of New York, objected, saying that the House had not been given sufficient notice. He again objected when Hare suggested that the bill be given a privileged status so that it could be taken up later with plenty of time for debate.

At this point Speaker Garner, who had served notice Friday that the bill was coming up, announced that he would recognize Hare for a motion to take up the bill under a suspension of the rules. This allowed only 40 minutes of debate and barred the offering of amendments from the floor. If at the end of debate two-thirds voted to suspend the rules, the bill would be regarded as having passed.

Advocates Object to Plan.

There followed a strange spectacle. Representatives who have been loudest in demanding independence for the Philippines objected to considering the bill under suspension of the rules.

Representative Harold Knutson (Republican), of Minnesota, a pioneer advocate of freedom, led the fight against yesterday's procedure. Mr. Knutson had some amendments to offer.

The Hare bill, while it would force the Philippines to pay a tariff duty at the end of eight years, permits them to ship in their products duty free in the meantime in quotas based on the quantities that are now coming in.

Knutson, concerned about his dairy farmers in Minnesota, wanted to make the bill less liberal in this respect. In the end, however, he voted for the measure and his fight now will be taken up in the Senate.

50 Immigrants Yearly.

Those members who are concerned with Filipino immigration were well pleased with the Hare bill, which limits the number of immigrants to the United States to 50 a year.

Under the terms of the bill the Philippines would first adopt a commonwealth form of government and draw up a constitution. Once this and other mandates in the bill had been carried out, the eight-year period leading up to complete independence would begin. In the meantime the United States would continue its control over the islands.

Under one of the provisions in the bill the Philippines would have to permit the United States to maintain military and naval bases in the islands even after complete independence had been granted.

The Hawes-Cutting bill, which has been favorably reported in the Senate, provides for Philippine independence in fifteen years instead of eight.

Honduran Liberals Nominate Two.

NEW YORK SELECTS DELEGATIONS TODAY

Democrats Will Name Smith or Roosevelt Men; Wisconsin to Vote.

Albany, N. Y., April 4 (A.P.).—New York Democrats at a party primary tomorrow will name 86 district delegates who likely will be called on at the Chicago national convention to decide between the presidential nomination candidates of two New Yorkers, Gov. Roosevelt and former Gov. Smith.

Although the Roosevelt and Smith camps actively are bidding for delegates in several States, in only one district in New York will there be a contest between Roosevelt and Smith slates. In the 41st district (Buffalo) two candidates avowedly for Smith are opposing too friendly to Roosevelt.

Mills Faces Contest.

In the Republican primary there are two contests, both in New York city. One involves the selection of Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, who is running in the 20th district although his home is in the 17th. Virtually all the district delegates favor the renomination of President Hoover.

Tomorrow's primaries do not bind the successful delegate candidates to vote for any candidate. The balance of power in the Democratic delegation will lie with Tammany Hall with its 26 delegates and affiliations with 20 others. Tammany has not indicated a preference for either Smith, a Tammany member, or Roosevelt. It is believed that no effort will be made to commit any of New York's delegation and that all will be free to vote their sentiment on the first ballot.

Wisconsin Parties Split.

Milwaukee, April 4 (A.P.).—Divided factions of both political parties tonight closed one of the most strenuous campaigns in recent Wisconsin political history. Voters tomorrow will elect delegates to the national conventions in Chicago. Republicans will choose 27 and Democrats 26.

Democrats had the choice of a slate of candidates pledged to vote for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and another group which is unpledged. The group which has committed itself to no candidate is generally regarded favorable to former Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Republicans were offered the La Follette Progressive ticket, which will vote for Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, for President and which proposed to offer another "Wisconsin program" to the national convention, or they may return to the "old Republicanism" as represented by conservative candidates. Conservatives are uninstructed as to presidential preference, but a State conference which selected them indorsed the administration of President Hoover.

Whitecar, Editor, Kills Self.

Philadelphia, April 4 (A.P.).—Benjamin Whitecar, assistant editor of the Confectioners Journal, shot and killed himself today, police said, in the office of the paper. He was 70. Whitecar had been with the Confectioners Journal ten years, previously serving with the National Baker, which later was bought by the Bakers Weekly, New York.

Woman Sues Woolworth For Explosion of Combs

New York, April 4 (A.P.).—Suit for $500,000 against the F. W. Woolworth Co. has been filed in Supreme Court, it was disclosed today, by Luise Squire, former actress, who seeks damages for injuries she alleged she suffered in the explosion of water waving combs.

Supreme Court Justice Alfred Frankenthaler directed her to produce or describe in detail an electric lamp from which, she set forth, emanated the heat that caused the explosion.

EASTMAN MILLIONS GO TO ROCHESTER U.

$12,000,000 Cash Is Given Outright; Niece and Others Are Remembered.

Rochester, April 4 (U.P.).—To the University of Rochester, already the recipient of millions from his hand, will go the bulk of George Eastman's $20,000,000 fortune under terms of the camera manufacturer's will, made public today.

Although the will described the value of the estate remaining after Mr. Eastman had contributed approximately $75,000,000 to various charities during his life, as "more than $15,000,000," Thomas Hargrave, attorney, said it would probably reach $20,000,000.

In addition to an outright bequest of $12,000,000 in cash, the university will receive as a home for its presidents, the gorgeous mansion of the late multimillionaire, with a fund of $2,000,000 to provide for its upkeep.

In giving the university his home, Mr. Eastman stipulated that at the end of ten years the institution might convert the entire estate into cash and use the funds thus provided for any purpose the trustees desire.

Mr. Eastman also left $2,500,000 to the Eastman School of Music, which he founded, and $1,000,000 to the Dental Dispensary which he also established in Rochester.

The largest individual bequest goes to Mrs. Ellen Andrews Dryden, of Evanston, Ill., his niece and closest living relative. Oak Lodge, Eastman's favorite hunting lodge, with $100,000 for its upkeep, in addition to the sum of $100,000 in cash, was given Mrs. Dryden. Her two children, Ellen and George, will receive the income from $100,000, and George Dryden, her husband, was given Eastman's hunting equipment, valued at thousands of dollars.

When the will was offered for probate today, it was learned that the codicil signed by the manufacturer a few minutes before he ended his life, withdrew a previous bequest to Cornell University. It was reported that Eastman had made numerous cash bequests to Cornell shortly before his death, and that that was the reason for his decision to change the testament.

Mrs. Alice K. Hutchinson, who had been Mr. Eastman's secretary almost from the day of the founding of the Eastman Kodak Co., was given $100,000, and Dr. Henry J. Burkhart, director of the dental dispensary, was left the income from $50,000 for life.

VITAMIN C ISOLATED AFTER LONG TESTS

Pittsburgh, April 4 (A.P.).—A young professor of chemistry at the University of Pittsburgh announced casually tonight:

"We have isolated and identified vitamin C."

For five years, Dr. C. C. King, not quite 35, and his associates, have labored for a solution long sought by research scientists.

The importance of his work, the exacting calculations, the arduous research and the patient tests found no place in Dr. King's simple announcement. But he leaned back in his laboratory chair and explained at length that he had concentrated the vitamin from lemon juice.

Vitamin C is plentiful in lemons, oragnes, tomatoes, potatoes and certain other vegetables and fruits.

Its effects upon the human body also have been known for quite some time, Dr. King said, but how it accomplishes its tasks has remained a mystery.

Also it was known that a lack of vitamin C in the diet of humans resulted in scurvy and forms of malnutrition.

So Dr. King fed the substance he identified as vitamin C to guinea pigs. Foods known to contain the vitamin were excluded from the diet of the little animals. Dr. King found they did not develop scurvy. Their vitality was not impaired.

Pressed for explanation, Dr. King said the principal significance of the result is "that it is one more step in understanding the chemical reactions which characterize normal processes of living tissues. It will make possible further study of the specific role that vitamin C plays in the body."

Oklahoma G. O. P. Commends Hoover

Conventions Condemn Murray as 'Blustering Tyrant,' 'Fit for Madhouse.'

Oklahoma City, April 4 (A.P.).—Resolutions commending the Hoover administration and condemning the administration of Gov. William H. Murray were adopted generally in Republican county conventions held throughout Oklahoma today.

Indications tonight were that W. G. Skelly, national committeeman, had gained control of most conventions.

The Kay County Republicans, meeting at Newkirk, were most bitter in their condemnation of Gov. Murray, whom they characterzed as the "present blatant, blustering, bulldozing tyrant, who is strutting up and down the Nation like a turkey gobbler on dress parade, trying to persuade the people he ought to be President, when he is more fit for the madhouse than the White House."

Mills Close; 450 Lose Jobs.

Manchester, N. H., April 4 (A.P.).—The Amoskeag Manufacturing Co. today closed four of its mills for an indefinite period. The shutdown affected about 450 employes. The full force of company employes recently voted against a reduction in wages. The company manufactures cotton textiles.

"MOST hotels give you service. But the Hotel New Yorker gives you service PLUS," says this fellow-townsman of yours. "Room service—elevator service—telephone service—are all just a little faster. The food in their restaurants tastes just a little better. Rooms are more comfortable and home-like.

"They go out of their way to do thoughtful little things for you. All their service is cheerfully given, with a pleasant look, a cordial smile. And when you stop to consider how reasonable their rates are, you're all the more convinced the New Yorker is the place to stay."

Luxurious living at economy prices—that's what you get at the Hotel New Yorker. Ask anyone who's been there.

Food is said to be the finest in New York. Four delightful restaurants cater to every taste—every purse: a speed-counter Coffee Shop; the Empire Tea Room; the Manhattan Room; the Terrace Restaurant where Johnny Hamp's dance orchestra plays.

TUBERCULAR REPORT ON ALL CASES URGED

Statute Would Aid Drive on Disease, Dr. A. C. Christie Tells Association.

"There should be a statute requiring that cases of all forms of tuberculosis be reported to health authorities," Dr. Arthur C. Christie, president of the District of Columbia Medical Society, said at a meeting of the Washington Association of the District of Columbia Medical Society yesterday at the Y. W. C. A., Seventeenth and K streets northwest. The meeting yesterday and two held Sunday inaugurated local participation in the Nation-wide campaign stressing early diagnosis and the finding of all possible sources of infection of the disease.

"Reporting of cases, even though they are not active or transmissible, will in some measure help investigators to find the original source of infection," Dr. Christie said. Dr. Viola B. Anderson, secretary of the association, declared that tuberculosis has found a fertile field in Washington, among adult as well as child population. More than 500 children have been treated for tubercular infection in Washington since April of 1929, she said.

Dr. Kendall Emerson, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Society, said it was imperative that better methods of case finding be added to the educational program against the disease. He said that the finding of active cases of tuberculosis is not so hard and that the difficulty arises in detection of early cases. The community should aid the physician in discovering early cases through organizing social service workers in research, he continued.

A spot map showing the distribution of deaths in Washington due to tuberculosis in the last two years has been prepared by the association, and Dr. R. Frank Jones, president of the Medical Chirurgical Society, made a plea to the instigators of the campaign to consider the economic phases of the sections most afflicted with the disease.

"A glance at the plotted map showing the location of deaths from tuberculosis last year," he asserted, "will convince you that as usual, the high mortality is located in thickly populated colored sections, and that the wage scales and unemployment problems confronting these sections make nourishment diets and rest periods highly impractical."

Mrs. Ernest R. Grant, president of the association, presided. Dr. J. G. Cumming, of the health department, addressed the gathering on the problem of control of the disease.

Mayor and 3 Aids Indicted in Fraud

Oregon Jurors Return 23 Bills Against Officials of Portland.

Portland, Oreg., April 4 (A.P.).—Mayor George L. Baker and two city commissioners, Earl Riley and John M. Mann, were indicted today on charges that they had urged commission of bribery and are guilty of malfeasance and negligence in office.

Olaf Laurgaard, city engineer, was indicted for malfeasance in office, and seven other persons were accused by the grand jury of advocating bribery. In all, 23 indictments were returned.

The indictments grew out of the investigation into the city's selection for a site for its municipal public market. Two factions had offered to sell sites to the city. Mayor Baker and Commissioner Riley appeared in circuit court and pleaded not guilty to the charges, demanding an immediate trial.

Ireland Answers British Note Today

ReplyExpected to Reiterate Plan to Abolish Oath and Keep Annuities.

Dublin, Irish Free State, April 4 (A.P.).—The Free State cabinet has unanimously approved the final draft of its reply to the recent British note in which it was asserted the oath of allegiance to the British crown must be retained and payment of land annuities must be continued.

It was officially announced tonight the reply would be forwarded tomorrow to J. H. Thomas, Secretary for Dominions.

It was generally believed the reply would reiterate the intention of President Eamon de Valera to abolish the oath and to retain land annuities, although it was thought possible that a proposal might be advanced for a conference on the annuity question. No official would discuss the contents of the note.

Black Butte Emits Tons Of Rock in North Dakota

Bismarck, N. Dak., April 4 (A.P.).—Black Butte, the "bad boy" of North Dakota Buttes, has erupted again. Several tons of rock, emitted from the immense hill, lay at the bottom of the butte today after an explosion which was heard for many miles.

Geologists advanced the theory that the eruption was caused by gas pockets in underground recesses of the butte. Black Butte, one of the largest in the State, once served as a guide and landmark for Indians and pioneers in the badlands. It is in the southwestern section of the State near Bowman.

Thugs Find Safe Empty After Imprisoning Six

LeRoy, Kans., April 4 (A.P.).—After severing all telephone and telegraph wires leading into the town and making prisoners of Max Coffin, night watchman, and five other persons, two or three robbers worked for more than two hours early today to cut a hole into a safe in the First National Bank here only to find it empty.

George Sima, assistant cashier, said the safe had not been used for three years. Finding their task futile, the robbers released their captives, who had been picked up on the streets and at a railroad station in the early morning hours.

Judge W. H. Price Dies in Miami.

Miami, Fla., April 4 (A.P.).—Federal Judge W. H. Price, chairman of the State Democratic national committee from 1908 to 1912, died at his home here today after a prolonged illness. He was a former jurist of Circuit Court and a former president of the Florida Bar Association.

WORLD WAR PROVES USEFUL EXTRAVAGANCE EXPLANATION

the lavish scale of war days, would be less than $2,000,000,000, instead of nearly $3,300,000,000.

But we didn't do that. We were not content to spend on the extravagant basis of war time, but had to record a more extravagant basis for peace time. So we outshot the war-time spendings by 3 to 2. And now, looking back, the question is, how did it happen? Who was responsible for the inflation of Government spendings during the years following the armistice?

The Treasury record reeks with the answer. Everybody. Democrat, Republican, Socialist. Business man, workingman, farmer, veteran. Organized capital, organized labor, organized everybody. All contributed, including present high apostles of economy. It was not a party matter or a political affair. Money was wished away by the millions and billions during those dozen hectic years.

Senator Harrison cites, as a sample of waste, "The Love Life of a Bullfrog." Some one thought farmers could make a lot of money raising frogs to sell and arranged for a college professor to investigate. The Government, paid the bill, somewhat more than $1,700. It received in return a pamphlet, "The Love Life of a Bullfrog," which was printed at Government expense. Investigation disclosed that the work was done during the administration of Woodrow Wilson.

Calvin Coolidge preached economy. His successor, Herbert Hoover, was a member of the Coolidge Cabinet from 1921 until the summer of 1928. Expenses rose under both Coolidge and Secretary Hoover. During the fiscal year 1922, the first full year when Mr. Hoover was Secretary of Commerce, the Department spent $17,283,105. In 1928, the last year of Mr. Hoover's Secretaryship, the Department's spendings were $34,383,165.

Congress Expenses Rise

During that period however, the department took over two Interior bureaus, Patents and Mines. Their expenses, $5,256,165, deducted from the 1928 total, show that Congress spent $29,127,000 in 1928 for routine service, as compared with the $17,283,105 in 1922. Last year the department spent $61,477,118, including $15,442,631 for its decennial census work.

What about Congress? During the last year of the World War, the Senate spent $2,034,463; during 1931, it spent $3,419,730. The spendings of the House rose during the same period from $5,303,886 to $8,268,583. These figures involved no increase in duties or membership. They did include, however, numerous investigations, junkets, gratuities and the hiring of experts with lavish hand, even down to shorthand reporters who were paid the handsome fee of 25 cents for every 100 words of testimony taken down and transcribed—the rate remaining the same today.

The Army and Navy ring reported to rule service affairs in Washington swung handsomely into the spending line. There was a law, for instance, retiring Army officers at 64 on three-fourths pay, or, if they desired, after 30 years of service. Ere long officers were being retired on three-quarters pay after relatively short terms of service. Then it was changed again. Not only West Pointers, but any officers who had served in the World War were brought within the fold.

Double Federal Incomes.

It was not necessary for the officer to have incurred disability on the firing line or to have continued in the service. A man, for instance, who had sat on a tack in his swivel chair and received an injury that later resulted in a 30 per cent disability, was eligible for retirement at three-fourths pay. He might have engaged robustly for years in civil work after having been mustered out. It was necessary only for him to show that the tack in his chair had injured him, and the doors to retirement, with pay, swung open. Once retired, his recovery of health made no change in his status. He was down on the payroll for life.

The retired list today covers several thousand officers and the Government pays them millions. It may be they all deserve it. A senator some time ago found one retired officer holding down two jobs, both on public payrolls, and drawing about $15,000 a year, including the retired pay of a colonel from Uncle Sam.

"C'est la guerre!" Department of Justice spendings rose from $4,651,380 in 1919 to $13,124,949 last year. Judiciary expenditures mounted during the same time from $10,564,645 to $44,917,754. The Weather Bureau jumped from $1,253,578 to $3,987,460. Out at the Bureau of Standards,

Boy's Empty Gun Halts Jail Delivery

Sheriff's Son Prevents Escape of All Save Two of Inmates.

Gadsden, Ala., April 4 (A.P.).—A boy with an unloaded shotgun halted a wholesale jail break here today, although two prisoners escaped.

Awakened at 2 a. m. by a noise on the roof of the prison adjoining his home, Tom Griffin, jr., 18, son of the Etowah County sheriff, armed himself with the nearest weapon and ran outdoors. In the dim light he saw two men drop to the ground and disappear in the darkness. Huddled on the roof were twelve others preparing to jump.

"Don't try it," shouted young Griffin, leveling his gun at them. They stood still as statues. In a few moments the sheriff and the jailer came to his aid and the prisoners were driven into their cells. When the excitement was over, the youth examined his gun and found it empty.

New York Again Leads As 35,736 Get Jobs

New York, April 4 (A.P.).—New York State today for the third time in seven weeks took the lead in the united action campaign to put 1,000,000 unemployed Americans back to work.

Four communities reported 1,403 jobs found for idle men and women, sending New York's grand total to 35,736 for the drive which started February 15. Minnesota, which had led virtually ever since that date, reported only 58 for the day and dropped to second place with a 35,600 total.

(Associated Press.)

The Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railroad Co. yesterday applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to issue $20,000,000 of 6 per cent gold bonds to pledge to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a $7,608,582 loan.

The bonds would be issued on April 1, 1932, and mature April 1, 1952.

The loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would be used to meet interest and principal coming due on other obligations this year.

Two Indicted for Robbery.

On the complaint of James M. Slusher, a clerk in a chain grocery store, the District grand jury yesterday indicted John W. Travathan and Harry B. Lewis for robbery. The indictment is in two counts, the first alleging that the pair took $10 from Slusher on February 10, and the other charging that they obtained $100 from him on the following day. Slusher said he gave the men the money because he was afraid of them.

Mrs. Dorothy B. Willson Dies in Lumberton, N.C.

Special to The Washington Post.

The body will arrive in Washington Tuesday, but the hour of funeral from the Willson home in Washington, 3245 Ellicott street, has not yet been set.

Charleston, W. Va., April 4 (A.P.).—Former United States Senator Joseph Irwin France, of Baltimore, Md., filed today as a Republican candidate for President in the West Virginia presidential preference primary, May 10.

He is the only presidential candidate to file in the Republican primary. The result of the preference vote is not binding upon delegates to the national conventions.

Rose Coghlan Dies; Former Stage Star

Harrison, N. Y., April 4 (A.P.).—Rose Coghlan, the toast of New York's theater-going public in the days when it rode in hansom cabs, is dead.

In the quiet of St. Vincent's Retreat, where she had lived the last four years, she died Saturday, a full decade after she retired from the stage where she had reigned for much of the 53 years she walked across it.

Her body was cremated in New York yesterday, but the world that had acclaimed her a half century ago and loved her through two score years and a half, did not learn of her passing until a death certificate was filed today. She was 81 years old. A cerebral hemorrhage was given as the cause of her death.

$75,000 Fire Sweeps Town.

Sheldon, Vt., April 4 (A.P.).—Eight buildings, including the postoffice and a highway bridge, were destroyed by a fire today, which wiped out half the village of Sheldon. The loss was $75,000.

How ice automatically removes food odors

In an ice refrigerator—as every student of physics learns—there is a constant circulation of air, from the ice compartment to the food compartment, and then back again. So when the cooled air, on this constantly repeated journey through the refrigerator, passes over the foods, it picks up the food odors and carries them back to the ice. Here the odors quickly dissolve in the film of water on the surface of the ice—and are carried away through the drain. This constant, automatic removal of food odors is an advantage obtainable only with ice refrigeration.

Spring Steals Permanent Wave Honors From Summer.

A FEW years ago summer was the permanent wave season and the rest of the year permanent waving machines were idle. Seashore and surf seemed to be the only reasons for permanents to keep the hair from looking straight and scraggly after a swim.

Elsie Pierce.

But today! Here it is spring and the permanent machines are busily waving away. One reason for it is the fact that swimming isn't the only call for a permanent. The feminine note in fashions, the change from the boyish bob to softer hair arrangements, the new hats revealing the hair, and above all the fact that, after all, straight hair is becoming to only a very few—all these are reasons why the permanent is growing ever more and more popular. Furthermore, the permanent has been so perfected that new methods are constantly pushing old preudices to the scrap heap. A permanent no longer means a fuzzy, kinky effect, for waves as large and deep and wide as you please are now possible. A permanent no longer means dry hair like hay resulting. Fortunately, all the objectionable qualities have been removed by improved methods.

Heed These Warnings.

If you are planning a permanent, heed these warnings. First and foremost, be sure that scalp and hair are really in perfect condition. If you are troubled with dandruff, excess oiliness or dryness, if your scalp is in the least irritated, or your hair falling, take the necessary corrective treatments first. When your scalp and hair are conditioned, and only then, you may have your permanent. Many women make the mistake of resorting to a permanent wave while an unfavorable scalp or hair condition exists, in order to make their hair more easily manageable. The result is invariably disheartening. And the fault does not rest with the permanent. Remember this: the hair must be in condition before your permanent and must be kept in condition after the wave. The permanent does not mean the end of hair care. If anything, it needs as much scalp massage, brushing, hot oil treatments and tonics as ever—more.

When you are ready for the wave, make sure that the operator you choose is an expert, that the method is one with a reputation, and the beauty salon you go to is a good one, specializing in the best beauty methods and carefully heeding sanitary and scientific rules. Only the best should be good enough for your hair. Better not have a permanent at all than to have a bad one. Just one word about "bargain permanents." Only recently I met a woman who had had a satisfactory one for "next to nothing," as she expressed it. But personally knowing how expensive the good materials, machines, &c., are and how high priced a really expert operator is, I often suspect that something is taken out somewhere, some part of the treatment skipped or slighted to make up for the reduction in price, where the price is really very low.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Black linen with white linen threaded through white bone hoops for a new and chic summer street dress. (Seen on Fifth avenue.)

NEW YORK, April 4—Poets, artists, singers of songs and makers of stories have been observing from earliest days that of all the frivolous features of woman's toilette, the hat is the one that requires and gets the most thought and time, care in choosing, attention and compliments after and if well chosen. Fashionable women have always spent hours at the Modiste's, many more hours than at any other shop! Maybe . . . excepting the beauty shop, I must add.

And if we look back and see how the hat has evolved, devolved, mounted in size and monstrosity, and diminished in size while growing in chic, we see its importance, as well as the proof, hat proof, as it were, of woman's insatiable demand for something new and original.

In the Bronze Age and the Stone Age, women probably went about bareheaded. But didn't those cup flints and sharp needles one can see in museums today, play an important part in the chignon of the prehistoric couquette? Then the Greek, Roman and Egyptian women held up their hair, or held down their coiffures, with ribbons crossed over and tied in bows.

Then we come to the Middle Ages, when women began to wear hats that were like parodies of an astrologer's conical cap. And this, my deahs, was the beginning of cumbersome headgear!

Then did we begin to have social influence on the fashion of hats! The days of the Fronde showed the grande mademoiselle and her feminine supporters in broad-brimmed felt hats and feathers after the Henry IV style. The Louis XV had three cornered velvet hats, which in conjunction with powdered hair, were very effective. And then little Marie Antoinette played at dairying and introduced the soft, broad brimmed straw hat with long ribbons.

Up to now, hats had a certain effectiveness and charm, but with the introduction of the hats that imitated frigates, the "Belle Poule" and the "Triomphant," Miladi and her hats quite, quite lost their sense of humor—and I am at the end of my space and must tell you more hat chat manana!

Just the very thing you need to pump up that failing spirit! Just the very gift for the mother with a little one, 'specially a brand-new little one! And you can make it out of old silken scraps that you have around the house, too.

Oh, it might take several days of spare fingers time, but the point is, we all have spare finger time, if we only knew it. And we all have silks scraps that we hate to throw away. And we all could use a lovely new counterpane for our bedroom. That's why you should send a stamped, self-addressed envelope right this minute to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet, which tells you how to make a clever new bed spread that looks like a solid bed of flowers!

There's a new kind of linen on the market which is very chic for summer, and has none of the wrinkleness of the linen we are used to. And the Italian designer in Paris, Vera Borea, uses it in black in this summer town frock. Laced, as you see, with white linen through white bone loops!

* * *

A new scarf for evening, not for Monsieur but for Miladi, is so designed that when she throws it on before putting on her evening wrap, one square falls over and completely covers the back decolletage of her gown. It looks as though it were made of several kerchiefs, this scarf, some in rose and one or two in white. 'Course she can wear it for a summer scarf, without any wrap at all, if she wishes!

The Homemaker

By NANCY CAREY

TO THE ORIENT FOR WEDNESDAY'S DINNER.

OUR dinner menu for tomorrow again departs from the boundaries of our native heath, to enter the Celestial Kingdom for the moment. We plan chop suey (made at home no less) with which, since the dish be so substantial in itself, we suggest only breadsticks or bread and butter, and ginger pears as a sweet to follow. And tea, of course, for who could travel to China even for an evening and not indulge in this beverage!

This menu recalls vividly the old Honolulu days, golden and long gone—it's quite ten years since I've walked beneath her golden shower trees. But there a Chinese dinner is vastly different from the ones with which we are familiar, due quite possibly to the fact that, far removed from the Orient as we are, we have our own notion of chop suey and its accompaniments.

In Honolulu, on a quiet, midcity, side street, one climbs stairs to a balconied Chinese restaurant. And there one orders at least six unrelated dishes—all conservative as to quantity when set before one, but all delightfully different. Long rice, for instance, a curious substance of the long nature of spaghetti, but the flavor and consistency of rice, and "frizzled" crawfish, so like lobster but fried into finger-sized lumps as only the true Chinese cook seems to know how to fry it.

Then, too, there were pigs' knuckles, also "frizzled," and bean shoots in a curious sauce. But this mentions only a few of the dishes to be had on that little balcony. One forgets so much as the years roll along! Save, however, the sauce used out there with Chinese dishes. One is given a tiny saucer, a bowl of prepared mustard and a bottle of soy sauce. One mixes equal parts mustard and sauce and flavors the dishes therewith. We might try this mixture with our chop suey tomorrow night! It has a curiously Oriental tang and is both palatable and interesting.

WEDNESDAY'S DINNER.
Chicken Chop Suey
Bread Sticks
Jellied Ginger Pears Tea

Chicken Chop Suey.

1 chicken, cut into fragments
2 cupfuls water chestnuts
2 cupfuls mushrooms
2 cupfuls bamboo shoots
2 cupfuls celery, cut into thin pieces

Put the water chestnuts, mushrooms, bamboo shoots and celery into a hot pan containing oil. Fry for 2 minutes. Add water to cover and cook for 15 minutes. Put the chicken into a greased frying pan and fry for 5 minutes. Add the vegetables and mix well. Add enough primary soup to cover and cook for 5 minutes. Add Chinese gravy and stir. Remove from stove at once.

Chinese Gravy.

Mix one teaspoonful cornstarch in a little cold water. Stir into one cupful primary soup and let boil until it thickens. Add one-half teaspoonful of Chinese sauce (which may be bought at any Chinese grocery), salt and sugar to taste and a few drops of sesamum seed oil. Stir well.

Primary Soup.

Primary soup is made from equal parts of chicken and lean pork, a half pound for each pint of water used. Cut the meat in small pieces and cook slowly for two or three hours until about half the liquid has evaporated. Strain through a thick cloth until the liquid is clear. Skim off any fat that may remain. The soup is then ready for use.

Bread Sticks.

Add one and one-half tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-quarter cupful of butter and one-half teaspoonful of salt to one cupful of scalded milk. When lukewarm, add one yeast cake, the well-beaten white of one egg and three and three-quarters cupfuls of flour. Knead and let rise, then roll and shape in long, narrow strips about the thickness of a lead pencil. Place on floured pan—not too close together—and brush the tops with the beaten egg yolk. If desired, poppy seed may be sprinkled on top. Let rise and then bake in 400 degrees Fahrenheit oven until crisp and brown.

Jellied Ginger Pears.

1 package lemon flavored gelatin
2 cupfuls water
3 pears
¼ teaspoonful ginger beer extract
¼ teaspoonful salt.

Peel pears, cut in halves and core. Cook in the water until soft. Put into individual mold that has been rinsed in cold water. Pour boiling juice over gelatin. Stir until dissolved. Add ginger extract and salt. Pour into molds. Chill, unmold and garnish with whipped cream.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES McDONALD

Those Real He-Men!

DEAR Miss Frances McDonald: I frequently read your column and often feel astonished at the comprehension you show on the ups and downs of sex. I am a young man of 26 and never was in love, never have been in love! I am not a curious, hungry hound about women's instincts, but I am a lover of women in the most sublime meaning of love. This, of course, requires a lengthy corroboration, and it takes a whole thick volume to explain, to clear it up. I love women spiritually, but I defy the ills of the flesh, though I also understand that the flesh is only the perishable temple of our souls. Nevertheless, some day I desire to wed a girl who can meet my ideal of beauty. One who will love me with all her mind—thoughts, intelligence and common sense—will do, though I do not expect her to be so pretty. Since I do not smoke, drink wine, gamble, I desire her to give up the same things. The above woman, plus a fair education, meets my ideal intended for the altar.

Since I do not go around with any girl, the first and best knowledge I have of women is that they are good human beings. Like men, they are alive with feelings and desires. They are liable to ills and pain and suffering, and for the most part they have the worst of it, since they are the bearers of the sons of the nations. That men and women wed and mate to perpetuate generations is true as well as to satisfy the elemental longings of our throbbing hearts.

Love is a divine understanding of life. The hunger of the flesh is not love at all!

This morning I read what makes a real man. Miss McDonald you wrote a part of it; I have good reservations. Man is real, right by himself. He is created in the image of God, you know. Woman is made out of man's rib; thence the reason of their mutual love. I shall write to you more about a real man. If you can print this letter so others can read it. Remember my ideal girl.

A LOVER OF WOMEN.

We are all waiting for that version of what makes a real man. Come right along. Perhaps some of the girls may answer you and give their ideas, you know. We often wonder how many girls today have any ideas on the subject of what makes a real man. We watch them in hotel dining rooms and wonder how they can accept the inadequacy that parades today as young manhood. But not only do they accept it, they seem to receive it with open arms.

Recently we took a trip, and as is our luck invariably, found ourselves the center of a group of callow youths bent upon expressing their views. Now far from underestimating the views of youth, we consider them important since we happen to feel quite the same about the major issues of life at our advanced age, as we did at 18. Hence we listen eagerly to the views of intelligent and thoughtful youth. But when men of 25 sprawl around day-dreaming about taking off for the South Seas, when thus far they have never earned the price of a pair of socks, one wonders if the world in a few generations will be peopled with nit-wits entirely. We like our men to be extremely real. We like them to feel first of all the protectors of women and the providers for women. How many men today believe that they are either one?

This is a fascinating subject. But what is more important is the most significant subject in the world today. For men are changing. And it is up to woman to do something about it before it is too late.

So, get out your pen by all means and tell us all you can about the young man of the day and what you think of him. And to the girls let us say: Study the men you know. How many of them would you say were real men?

AVOIDING A FINESSE.

In play, many Bridge players are prone to take the obvious course, and in cases where the making of a hand appears to depend upon a successful finesse, they accept the even chance which such a course offers rather than study the combined holdings of the closed hand and Dummy to discover, if possible, a way in which the finesse may be avoided.

Recently, in a team-of-four match, in which the bridge world team was pitted against another strong team in New York, the hand shown below was dealt:

West—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ K J 6 4 ♡ A 9 5 3 2 ◇ 4 ♣ 9 6 5
♠ 3 ♡ 10 7 ◇ A J 8 7 ♣ K J 3	N W E S	♠ Q 10 9 7 5 ♡ 4 ◇ K Q 6 ♣ Q 8 7 4
	♠ A 8 2 ♡ K Q J 8 6 ◇ 10 9 ♣ A 10 2

The Bidding:
(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1♡
2◇	3♡(1)	Pass	4♡(2)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—North's hand contains 5½ playing-tricks in support of his partner's bid. He, therefore, has a direct bid of three hearts or an optional bid of four. Inasmuch as partner has opened the bidding, vulnerable Fourth Hand, he knows that it is not necessary for him to give the optional Raise.

2—South's hand is slightly stronger than required for an Opening bid in his position. Assured of adequate trump support, he raises the contract to game.

The bidding was the same in both rooms.

In the room where Mr. Michael Gottlieb was seated South, as partner of Mr. Theodore A. Lightner, playing North, the Ace of diamonds was opened, and West, after seeing the Dummy, led the singleton spade. This South won with the Ace. A casual and surface study of the cards would appear to indicate that the success of South's contract depends upon whether or not the Queen of spades is located in the East hand. However, this is only surface reasoning and, like such reasoning often is, is incorrect. Mr. Gottlieb had a much better plan of action. Drawing the adverse trumps, he then ruffed his last diamond in the Dummy and led a club, which West won with the Knave. West was now in a difficult position for a lead. It seemed apparent that South had no more diamonds. Therefore, to lead that suit would give the Declarer a ruff in one hand and a discard in the other. West thus was placed in the position where he was forced to lead a club, and chose to exit gracefully from his own hand by leading the King. South won with the Ace and returned his last club, which East won with the Queen. East was thus helpless. His hand contained nothing but the King of diamonds, three spades and a club. Rightly making the better choice, because it was barely possible that South still held a diamond, East led the King. South discarded a spade and the trick was won with a trump in Dummy.

In the other room, South elected to play the hand upon the basis of a successful finesse in the spade suit. In consequence, East and West made one spade, one diamond and two clubs, and defeated the contract.

The hand is a beautiful illustration of the value of correct planning, as well as accurate execution of the plan.

TODAY'S POINTER.

On many hands, the play for a finesse will lose, but the Declarer has available the much safer elimination play.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

North—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.
East and West not vulnerable.

	♠ K J 8 7 ♡ A 6 ◇ K 4 ♣ A J 9 8 5
♠ 10 6 2 ♡ Q 10 8 7 5 ◇ A 5 ♣ 7 6 2	N W E S	♠ 5 3 ♡ K J 3 2 ◇ Q J 8 7 6 3 ♣ 4
	♠ A Q 9 4 ♡ 9 4 ◇ 10 9 2 ♣ K Q 10 3

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

What Today Means

"ARIES."

IF April 5 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:10 p. m., and from 9:30 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:45 p. m., and from 7:40 p. m. to 9 p. m.

The stars will not be in a helpful mood on April 6, and their influence will be of an adverse nature, killing initiative, dampening spirits, hiding opportunities, and fostering pessimism. The young miss in her 'teens will suffer through her love affairs and will be a temporary "man hater."

Children born on this April 5 will delight in physical sports, games and outdoor life. They will hate restrictions and confinement and set duties. Their general disposition will be good natured and they will be full of laughter. They will have a few careless habits, many of which will be outgrown.

Born on April 5, you will experience those satisfactions in life which come from sharing and serving. You are not always looking for the longest straws in the lottery of life, although you are destined by birth to get your share of innings. You are careful without being cautious; liberal without being extreme. You have a keen sense of economic values and do not throw your money away. Your dreams and ambitions are strengthened by your most resolute determination. You have faith in yourself, and you believe in continued effort. You feel yourself master of your own fate, that the doctrine of cause and effect is immutable and that most of your real misfortunes can be traced to your own door.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

SPRINGTIME LOVELINESS.

Here's a darling vogue so youthfully charming for spring wear.

It gives you a chance to combine plain and printed crepe so much favored by Paris this season.

The original in marine blue was indeed flattering. The yoked bodice and upper sleeves were of a crepe silk print in marine blue on a white ground. The buttons and belt buckle were light navy blue, ending a smart accent. You can choose your beads, bag and hat in the deeper blue shade.

Should you feel you prefer it all one color, you'll like beige crinkle crepe immensely. The buttons and belt buckle can be of matching tone or in brown or vivid red.

The wrapped closure gives the figure lovely height. The bias bodice lines also contribute toward slimness.

Another idea that is wearable and sportive is a dotted crepe silk, particularly in the light navy blue and white with plain white contrast. The sleeves may be short as in the back view finished with pert bows.

Style No. 2746 may be had in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust. The medium size requires only 2½ yards of 39-inch material with 1 yard of 35-inch contrasting.

For summer wardrobe, it's very effective in striped linen with plain linen, wide wale pique with a cotton mesh yoke and sleeves or of tub silk in a pastel color with white.

Beautiful styles, covering the complete range for the woman, miss, child and the stout, articles showing what hats will be worn, hairdressing hints, afternoon wear, subdeb frocks, &c., &c.

It points the way to better dress and will help you economize.

You can save $10 in patterns, materials, &c., by spending 10 cents for this book. Just write your name and address clearly on any piece of paper. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin and mail your order to Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

CAN THE SKIN ABSORB?

ACCORDING to an editorial in the Journel of the American Medical Association, our old friends, the liniments, porous plasters and mineral muds may yet call for another day in court. At least, the editorial says, considerable new evidence has been found. This would cause a judge on the bench to consider putting the case back on the calendar and giving the parties interested another chance to prove their claims.

The new evidence relates to the absorbability by the skin of substances rubbed on it. Having accepted the opinion that the skin was a layer of dead tissue, or was protected by layers of dead tissue put in place to protect the body against absorption, we have been disposed to rule out all claims that rubbing chemicals on or even in could affect the system.

Since rubbing in quinine was known to cause the ears to roar, and rubbing mercury on could be shown to bring about some internal effects, the opinion that the skin was an impervious wall had to be somewhat modified. We said there could be some absorption if the medicine was made into an ointment and if it was so thoroughly rubbed in that the mouth of the grease glands were filled with it.

The editorial is based on some research work done at Jena. In these experiments the drugs used were salicylates and, after rubbing, the secretions were tested for evidence that the drugs had been absorbed and had circulated in the blood. The salicylates were not made into ointments and they were not rubbed into the grease glands.

They proved that some chemicals were absorbed very well by the skin, even though they contained no grease and were not rubbed in vigorously. However, there was considerable variation in absorbability. Oil of wintergreen did not absorb any better than did salicylates dissolved in other media.

It proved to be a pretty good plan to put 2 per cent camphor into a liniment. Doing so promoted absorption. Most of our old friends, the liniments, contain camphor, though we never knew why. About one-quarter of 1 per cent extract of capsicum, or red pepper, was another addition which promoted absorption. Again, score one for old-fashioned liniments and porous plasters. The addition of 1 per cent sodium carbonate also promoted absorption. This is a rather strong alkaline solution and it was supposed to act by softening the horny layers of the skin. This chemical, as an aid, did not quite rank with camphor and capsicum.

On the other hand, washing the skin with vinegar had some effect in lessening absorption.

PUFFS UNDER THE EYES.

C. L. writes: I have puffs under my eyes. Can you tell me what they are caused from and a remedy for getting rid of them?

REPLY.

Puffs under the eyes result from local acidosis of the loose tissues of this region. There are many causes for this condition. Probably the most important of these is Bright's disease. Heart disease is another. Anemia may be a cause. Infestation with some of the worm parasites may give this appearance. There are others of lesser consequence.

However, even in those cases where the symptom is of minor significance it has some importance. The person with puffs under his eyes may be organically sound and a good insurance risk, but he is not in perfect health.

SMOKER'S HEART.

B. B. L. writes:

1. What are the symptoms of smoker's heart?

2. In the cure, must all tobacco be left alone, or can one gradually cut down?

REPLY.

1. The pulse is irritable, sometimes irregular, and often rapid.

2. Left alone. Gradual cutting down rarely works.

WHOLE WHEAT BREAD.

J. V. writes: Is whole wheat bread as fattening as white?

REPLY.

They are about on a par.

OLD DEBBIL LIKKER.

M. E. S. writes: Have just read your article entitled "Is Alcohol Ever a Medicine?" I know of a man who for 16 years had been more or less saturated with liquor, when he developed an acute case of gravel. His father before him was a daily imbiber, and he, too, developed a case of gravel.

I have had one acute attack of gravel. I dread another. But I am not going to drink liquor as a preventive, for I think it is ineffective.

REPLY.

There is no relation between kidney stones and gall stones. The people who claim that drinking tends to prevent gall stones make no such claims for kidney stones and gravel.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE advise me whether I should remove the shoots of last season from my hydrangeas. I notice they are all beginning to put out new leaves. Should I uncover my sweet williams now or later? Also tulips and hyacinths?

Mrs. GEORGE R. A.

Blue and pink flowered hydrangeas bloom on wood made the previous season, so must not be pruned unless you wish to reduce the size of the plants. In that case prune them after they have finished flowering. You can safely uncover any plants at this time.

Please give us some directions regarding the winter care of gardenias. Does a temperature of 70 degrees suit them, or do they require 80 degrees? We have been told that when the leaves of these plants turn yellow and drop off it is due to too much moisture. Also that this condition is due to too little moisture, which opinion is correct? We have several plants which are in bud and some have borne flowers.

E. P. W. and K. B. B.

A temperature of 70 degrees suits a gardenia provided the air is fresh at all times. Regarding moisture, too much or too little will cause the leaves to turn yellow and drop off. As a rule a gardenia should be watered every day. Keep the surface soil in the pot quite loose. The treatment you are giving your plants must agree with them, since the buds are unfolding. It isn't easy to coax gardenias to bloom in the house.

Please tell me if narcissus (paper white) bulbs are good another year. If so, how shall I keep them throughout the period when they are resting?

MARY H.

Paper white narcissus bulbs are of no further use after they have finished flowering.

I am anxious to secure some daphne seed. I can not find any listed in any of the catalogues. I have been a constant reader of The Washington Post for more than 40 years. While 90 years of age, I am still interested in flowers, and your column is one of the first I look for each morning. MRS. ANNA H. L.

I am so sorry to be unable to answer your question. Daphne (garland flower) is not propagated from seed. The growers resort to a process called layering. Daphne is not readily propagated by the amateur. For this reason all the catalogues list young plants.

I have been given a small pink-flowered azalea which has finished blooming. What care shall I give the plant? Mrs. J. E. G.

Your plant is no doubt a hardy variety, so it may be planted in some sunny spot in your garden. I should suggest keeping the roots mulched with peat moss or other mulch.

LINDBERGH CIRCLES ISLAND IN MYSTERIOUS MANEUVER

Was the suit case a vehicle for carrying ransom to a rendezvous with the kidnapers?

Was the blanket to be used for signaling to a boat off shore? To a hideaway along the coast?

First Absence from Home.

The latest trip of the colonel's made it even more evident that he was determined to do personally whatever might be necessary to restore his son.

The famous flier left his Sourland estate some time Saturday night, for the first time in the past 34 days.

He returned shortly before midnight Sunday night, accompanied by an unidentified man. About two hours before the Associated Press had learned of his trip from a reliable source.

Hardly had Lieut. Walter Couchlin, police spokesman at Trenton, N. J., finished his denial than Col. Lindbergh approached the Hopewell estate by an unfrequented back road.

Maneuvers Over Coast.

Marthas Vineyard, April 4 (A.P.).—For the second time in three days this island off the Massachusetts coast and those nearby entered into the quest for the Lindbergh baby.

An airplane identified as one in which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Col. Henry Breckinridge, his counsel, landed at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., early this evening flew over Marthas Vineyard and Nashawena Island late in the afternoon. The plane had taken off from the Newark (N. J.) Airport at 3:30 p. m.

The airplane sighted here cruised about over this island, dipped down over the landing field on the outskirts of Vineyard Haven and later was seen flying over Nashawena. The plane circled the island three times at a leisurely pace and then disappeared southward.

Baby Food Buyer Recalled.

Another report came from George Bailey, proprietor of a drug store at Edgartown. He said the recent developments hereabouts led him to report that a week ago a man of about 30 years of age and with a heavy beard had purchased a quantity of baby food at his store. Bailey said he paid no particular attention to the customer until Marthas Vineyard became linked with the search for the missing child of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh. Bailey said that the man was a stranger to him and that this was unusual inasmuch as he knows most of the fishermen hereabouts. Bailey said the man obviously had come off a ship.

Earlier today two Cuttyhunk fishermen positively identified the pilot of a large amphibian plane which landed an Cuttyhunk Sunday as Col. Lindbergh. Charles Tilton, one of the men, said he had seen many pictures of Lindbergh and recognized him without question.

Other residents of the island said the plane which came here Sunday was occupied by four men and that they had inquired for the yacht Sallie, which they said had two men and a woman aboard.

Norfolk Negotiator Silent.

Norfolk, Va., April 4 (A.P.).—The Very Rev. Dean H. Dobson-Peacock, one of three men here seeking to negotiate the return of the stolen Lindbergh baby, refused tonight to say whether the airplane flight this afternoon of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh from Newark, N. J., fitted in with activities of their negotiations.

"All I can say is that we are still hopeful," he said, when asked if the flying activities of Col. Lindbergh could have been made as a result of work done by John Hughes Curtis, contact man for the negotiators here, who secretly left Norfolk early Saturday.

"Where is Marthas Vineyard?" he asked. Told that it was off the Massachusetts coast, he said, "That is a long way from here."

He would not comment further, however, when reminded that Mr. Curtis had been gone since Saturday.

MAJ. CHARLES H. SCHOEFFEL.

Schoeffel Due in Glasgow.

Glasgow, Scotland, April 4 (A.P.).—Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel, of the New Jersey State police, was expected to arrive here tonight from London to interview the mother of Nurse Maid Betty Gow in connection with his investigation into the kidnaping of Charles A. Lindbergh, jr.

A room was reserved in the major's name at one of the leading hotels, but late tonight there was no sign of him, and the report got about that he might not get in until morning.

News that the American police official was coming here caused great excitement. The local police instituted a search for the child and on the streets most every one seemed to be asking, "Is the Lindbergh baby in Glasgow?"

In London this morning the major conferred with high officials at Scotland Yard, where he spent half an hour. He talked with Lord Trenchard, the police commissioner, and with the heads of the criminal investigation department.

Padlocking of Marlboro Hotel Will Be Sought

A padlock order for Wilson's hotel in Marlboro, Md., will be presented to the Federal court in Baltimore within a few days, United States District Attorney Elmon E. Sobeloff said yesterday, after the proprietor had failed to answer a complaint against the place.

S. D. HALL, 69, DEAD IN PRINCE GEORGES

Circuit Court Clerk's Death Is Laid to Heart Disease; Prominent Democrat.

The death of Summerfield D. Hall, 69, clerk of the Prince Georges County circuit court, was directly due to heart disease, his physician, Dr. W. Allen Griffith of Berwyn, said last night.

Mr. Hall died yesterday morning four hours before the spring term of the circuit court was to have opened. The start of the term has been postponed until Thursday to allow the selection of a new clerk. His death also leaves the work of his office at a standstill, as marriage, hunting, and dog licenses can not be issued by a deputy clerk.

Dr. Griffith said that Mr. Hall had been failing in health for several years, and that he was considerably weakened by an automobile accident several weeks ago. A few days ago the heart trouble made its appearance, the physician said.

Mr. Hall had been clerk of the court since 1914, having been appointed originally after the former clerk had died. He was elected to the office four more times. He was prominent in Democratic politics, was treasurer of the State Order of the Eastern Star for about twenty years and was a member of the Vansville Farmers Club and the Pomona Grange.

Mr. Hall had lived at Beltsville with his sister, Miss Mary S. Hall, for many years. Before going into the office of the clerk of the court, he was employed by the Citizens Bank of Laurel and he was director of the Prince Georges Bank & Trust Co. at the time of his death.

Funeral services will be held at his home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and he will be buried in St. John's Cemetery. The Rev. T. J. Lambert and the Rev. E. V. Regester will officiate.

JOHN E. HAWKSHAW RITES

Two Services Will Be Held Today; Burial in Mount Olivet.

John E. Hawkshaw, for 20 years operator of a dry goods store in Hyattsville, Md., who died here Sunday, will be buried in Mount Olivet Cemetery today after funeral services at his Hyattsville home and at St. Jerome's Catholic Church.

The services at the home will be held at 8:30 and those at the church at 9 o'clock. Mr. Hawkshaw, who had lived in Hyattsville for 33 years, was 72 years of age. Death was due to heart disease. His survivors include his widow, Mrs. Annie Hawkshaw; a daughter, Mrs. David Jamieson, of Washington, and two sons, M. S. Hawkshaw, of Birmingham, Ala., and John W. Hawkshaw.

Montreal Dean Dies at 102.

Montreal, April 4 (A.P.).—The Rev. Dr. James Patterson, dean of Presbyterian ministers of the Dominion, died today at the age of 102 years. He retired from active church work in 1917.

Col. Birkin, Racehorse Owner, Dies.

London, April 4 (A.P.).—Col. Charles Wilfrid Birkin, widely known owner of racehorses and husband of the former Clair Lloyd, whose father was Alex Howe, of New York, died today at the age of 67.

Mrs. C. H. Stockton Dies at Age of 80

Widow of Rear Admiral to Be Buried Tomorrow in Arlington Cemetery.

Mrs. Pauline Lentilhon Stockton, widow of Rear Admiral Charles H. Stockton and for many years a resident of Washington, died yesterday at her home in Baltimore, Md. She was 80 years old.

Mrs. Stockton was born in New York City, the daughter of Peter Vandervoort King. She made her home in Washington for some years and moved to Baltimore in 1920. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. W. Ainsworth Parker, of Baltimore, and a sister, Mrs. Charles C. Savage, of Philadelphia, Pa. Admiral Stockton died in 1926. At the time of his retirement, in 1907, he was president of the Naval Examining and Naval Retiring Boards.

Funeral services for Mrs. Stockton will be held here tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock in St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church. She will be buried beside her husband in Arlington National Cemetery.

TAKOMA PARK COURT DECISION AFFIRMED

Appeals Bench Holds Naming of Judge Wilson Was Not Legal.

The Maryland Court of Appeals at Annapolis yesterday affirmed the decision of Judge Robert B. Peter, of the Montgomery County Circuit Court, at Rockville, in the Takoma Park police justice case. The court held that the appointment of Judge A. L. Wilson was unconstitutional in that no provision is made in the State Constitution for a police justice.

The constitutionality of the court was questioned by the law firm of Whiteford & Cissel, defense counsel for Reuben Day, of Takoma Park, who was sentenced to jail by Judge Wilson on charges of driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. The defense maintained that the Legislature had no power to create the office inasmuch as it was not provided for in the Constitution of Maryland. Judge Peter issued a writ of habeas corpus and released Day pending review by the higher court.

The Day decision also affects the case of Joseph Carlton, who was sentenced to serve ten days in jail and be lashed at the whipping post after Judge Wilson found him guilty of wife-beating. The Carlton case is before the Montgomery County court, awaiting action in the Day case.

The decision leaves Takoma Park without a police judge and without a justice of the peace. Mayor Ben G. Davis said last night that it is expected that the town council will meet soon and ask that Judge Wilson be appointed a justice of the peace under the old law which now remains in effect since the new law was declared unconstitutional. The justice of the peace, however, receives a salary of $1,200 a year instead of the $2,100 provided in the later act.

Hearing on the petition of Albert O. Hahn for rezoning of the five-acre triangle at Bradley boulevard, Potomac road and River road, in order that a fruit and flower store and gasoline station can be erected, was held last night before County Commissioners Lacy Shaw, Robert D Hagner, John B. Diamond and W. Frank Ricketts, sitting as a district council at Montgomery County Building at Bethesda, Md.

S. F. Colloday, who said that he represented the Congressional Country Club, registered protest against granting the petition. John Koons, president of the club, also protested. John F. Gilmore, who owns property nearby and is a member of the club, said that he had been unable to close a residential real estate deal because of the threat of commercial invasion of the section, and also protested.

Charles F. Merryman, president of the Bradley Hills Community League, stated that, acting as president of the league, he was protesting the rezoning, but that individually he had signed the petition and was retaining an open mind. Benjamin Parker favored granting the petition, stating that Mr. Hahn is interested in the community and would not construct anything detrimental to the neighborhood.

Mr. Hahn stated that he planned building a flower and fruit shop and gasoline station along lines which he showed with illustrations. Upon questioning by Mr. Gilmore, he stated that he would not be forced to buy the property from Fulton R. Gordon, real estate dealer, unless it was rezoned. He claimed that his planned building would improve and beautify the corner. The commissioners took the petition under advisement.

Montgomery County's $1,000,000 bond issue for road and school improvements is scheduled to be sold today when bids will be opened by the county commissioners at noon at Rockville Courthouse. It is expected that most of the issue, if not all, will be sold, as there have been a number of inquiries regarding the issue, which pays 5 per cent interest.

The annual meeting of the citizens of Section 5, Chevy Chase, Md., will be held tonight in the social hall of the First M. E. Church of Chevy Chase. The citizens will vote for successors to Councilmen Karl R. Lesh and Harrison F. Fitts, whose terms expire, and the tax rate for the new fiscal year. James E. Harper will preside.

GAYETY

"JAZZ BABIES." A Columbia Burlesque attraction with Steve Mills, Bobby Vail, Lew Denny, Jessie McDonald, the Lopez sisters and Jean Williams, special guest star. Reviewed Monday night by William L. Wright.

"Jazz Babies" is a riot of song and merriment with Steve Mills and his side-kick, Bobby Vail, the principal causes of all the fun. This man Mills is immense. You should see him in "The Commonwealth Collectors." Also his sketch "The Neighbors," wherein Lew Denny lends a hand as the man in the next apartment. This act is the best and funniest of the show.

SIX STUDENTS HURT AS BUS BLOWS TIRE

Fairfax County Vehicle Goes in Ditch and Overturns; Driver Is Injured.

Six school children and the driver of a Fairfax County school bus were injured yesterday morning when a front tire blew out, causing the bus to leave the road and overturn in a ditch.

The school bus, containing eight children, was on its way from Springfield, Va., to the Annandale School, with H. B. Gray, who also acts as janitor of the Annandale School, driving. The accident happened some distance from the old Springfield School, on the Annandale-Springfield-Accotink road.

According to the statement of those on the bus, they were proceeding at a slow speed when there was a loud report in front. The bus swerved to the right and crashed into the ditch. The driver was knocked unconscious. Leonard Downs, a 17-year-old school boy, kicked out the windshield and assisted the others out of the bus. A Mr. Terry, living nearby, hurried to the scene to help. The injured were taken to the Alexandria Hospital by Mr. Terry.

There they were given treatment by Dr. M. D. Delaney for the following injuries: Elizabeth Simms, 16, injured about the kidneys; Ernest Lyles, 18, cuts about the head; Rosetta Ayers, 15, cuts on knee; Leonard Downs, 17; Irene Downs, 15, and Merry Merryman, 15, bruises about the body, and H. B. Gray, the driver, bruises. All were released from the hospital after treatment except Miss Simms. All were pupils of the Annandale and the Lee-Jackson High School, and lived in the Franconia-Springfield neighborhood.

Police reports state that a front tire blew off the rim, causing the accident.

Ellicott, of Baltimore, newly appointed county health officer. The presidents of the various parent-teacher bodies also were introduced.

THE THEATER LAST NIGHT

"THE GOOD FAIRY." Gilbert Miller presents Helen Hayes in a comedy in three acts and epilogue by Ferenc Molnar. English text by Jane Hinton; settings by Joseph Urban. Staged by Mr. Miller.

THE CAST.

The Head Waiter ..... Paul McGrath
Underwaiter ..... Salo Douday
Konrad ..... Evelyn Roberts
Lu ..... Helen Hayes
Dr. Metz ..... Douglas Wood
Dr. Sporum ..... Walter Connolly
Karoline ..... Ruth Hammond
Law Clerk ..... Jack Lynds

By NELSON B. BELL.

Herr Molnar in his impudent biography of a pert movie usher who naively denominates herself "an unemployed glowworm who guides people to their proper places with her little flashlight," has contributed to a waning season one of the year's most delightfully dedecorous comedies, for the vivacious enactment of which Mr. Gilbert Miller has assembled a small but select cast of distinguished players.

Brilliant wit and subtle humor flash from the lines of this sparkling fantasy like stars from a bursting rocket and with scarcely less explosive effect. So keyed was last night's audience to the many hair-trigger speeches of the three acts that the fall of the final curtain was saluted by a bombardment of applause that occasioned many curtain calls for the entire ensemble and still more for Miss Helen Hayes, the particular star of a triumphant evening.

Any attempted resume of the movement of "The Good Fairy" would, perforce, fail dismally to convey even the slightest suggestion of the deftly contrived uses Molnar has made of lines and situations which in less skillful hands would have been merely objectionably risque. His central figure is an untutored little siren whose self-appointed function in the world is to bring happiness, good luck and prosperity to others—with a modicum of the good things of life for herself. By a miracle of creative genius she is a blood sister of Kiki and of Marie Odile at one and the same time! Not only sought, but relentlessly pursued by men of position and great wealth, she brings herself finally to accept the delusion that she is willing to barter her alluring fascinations for a few of life's simpler luxuries—only to conclude her ingenuous inquiry into the facts of life with the handsome but impecunious headwaiter who has been among her more humble adorers.

In the meantime she has brought great joy and deep despair to a simple legal fellow from whom she has manufactured an impromptu, but vitally necessary, husband by the convenient expedient of quick reference to the telephone directory.

It is all richly imaginative, delicately woven of such gossamer stuff as dreams and our smartest stage confections are made of and played with a disarming candor that adds tremendous zest to a fragile tale which after all, is far more innocuous than it is immoral, or even immodest.

Helen Hayes, by a mercurial play of mood and manner, realizes every complexity of a many-sided nature that the author would have us believe to be that of a slip of a working girl. Never has she been more superlatively suited in a character etched in the lighter tones of the theater yet, withal, not without its profounder aspects. Her performance was a brilliant fulfillment of every promise of a young girlhood prophetic of great achievement.

In the role of the poverty-stricken lawyer, into whose life Lu brings such an amazing, albeit fleeting realization of all the youthful aspirations of a signal failure in his profession at 48, Walter Connolly offers one of the truly inspired comedy character studies of this or any other year, not entirely untinged by an occasional overtone of pathos.

Paul McGrath, Douglas Wood and Ruth Hammond are among the others who contribute in largest measure to an extraordinary well-balanced cast. Evelyn Roberts, in the role of the susceptible capitalist, falls short only in such rapidity of speech that many of his lines are indistinguishable even to those sitting down front.

It was indeed a good fairy that brought "The Good Fairy" to leave such delightful recollections of the closing weeks of a season that has been short, but by no means inglorious.

BOND INCREASE RULE SERVED ON DUNCAN

Requires Accused Arlington County Clerk to Appear in Court April 18.

Personal service was made on William H. Duncan, clerk of the Court of Arlington County, by Sheriff Howard B. Fields last night, of the rule issued by Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the circuit court, issued last week against Duncan requiring him to appear in the circuit court Monday, April 18, and show cause why his bond as clerk should not be increased.

Reasons given by Sheriff Fields why the rule was not served prior to last night was that Duncan resides in the City of Alexandria and until last night was not located within the limits of the county.

At the time of Duncan's arrest on March 28, on a charge of larceny of State funds, it was asserted by State Auditor T. Coleman Andrews that the audit of Duncan's books showed apparent shortage of approximately $15,000. His bond as clerk is but $8,000.

It could not be ascertained from officials of the First National Bank of Alexandria whether or not a deposit by Duncan was made yesterday in accordance with an order of the court, issued on Saturday, requiring him to deposit the sum of $7,815.

The second order by the court requires Duncan to deposit the sum of $7,815 in the First National Bank of Alexandria. This money was placed with Duncan to pay Mrs. Virginia Van Every for land condemned for the Lee boulevard and was being held pending an appeal to the State Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

ALTHOUGH promotion of "The Wet Parade," opening at the Columbia on Friday, has been the primary object of the gentlemanly space-grabbers who have descended upon the Capital under the leadership of "Bill" Ferguson, of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's home office in New York, and Norman Pyle, formerly in charge of advertising and publicity for the loewcal Loew enterprises, there has been a deal of chin-wagging, also, anent the tremendous pay roll M-G-M has shouldered in the production of Vicki Baum's "Grand Hotel," in which practically every star on the lot has been cast in a role of more or less importance.

This is not such a courageous gesture as might at first be suspected, although, at that, it is fairly indicative of plenty of fortitude of viscera—if you know what I mean. The fact of the matter is, the salary roll is about the only exaggerated expense to which M-G-M will be put in the screen adaptation of the dramatized novel that made such a tremendous hit on the stage. You may, or may not, recall that the stage production of "Grand Hotel" was a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer enterprise which that company quietly, but very efficiently, financed.

The stage play of "Grand Hotel" ran for weeks on end in New York and has been comparably successful as a touring road attraction. It probably has a large total on the credit side of the ledger.

Thus it comes about that M-G-M, in making a picture of its fabulous stage show, had nothing much to do but assemble a cast. It already owned the rights and that resultant ledger balance, written in black ink, as opposed to the red that has been so prevalent elsewhere of late. So what the dickens and why not?

If this had not been the case, I harbor a purely personal and unauthenticated notion that no such galaxy of stars as Greta Garbo, John and Lionel Barrymore, Joan Crawford, Lewis S. Stone, Wallace Beery and all the others who appear before the cameras and microphones in this stellar constellation ever would have been considered for the Vicki Baum flicker.

When a distinguished actor sits in a motion picture theater almost to the minute of his own curtain time, chuckling at the humorous whimsicalities of the subject being projected upon the screen, and then leaves only with the greatest reluctance, it may be taken as a fair earnest that the picture he is looking at has something.

By merest happenstance, I sat in the adjoining loge chair to Sydney Greenstreet's at the Earle Saturday night, and was so enabled to watch him almost as much as I did the picture—which, by the way, I had seen before at a private preview. The ample Mr. Greenstreet was obviously having the time of his life, although he gave the floor staff a bit of anxiety by striking matches now and again to look at his watch. It was very apparently his major regret that he was scheduled to appear in the second act of "Olivia Bows to Mrs. Grundy," at the Belasco, instead of making his first entrance in the third.

Well, as I have remarked before, that is the sort of picture "One Hour With You" really is!

That splash of warm weather on Sunday fooled some of the boys no little. For instance, it sent the management of RKO-Keith's Theater scurrying about through the subterranean passages and over the mile or two of pipes of the refrigeration plant, to be sure it would be in working order when the thermometer hit 90 degrees yesterday—heh, heh! Not to mention ho, ho!

Speaking of casts, as we were, about two blocks back, it seems that the combined Radio-Pathe studios are going off the deep end with their production of "State's Attorney," starring John Barrymore.

"State's Attorney" is one of several notable pictures underlined for the local RKO-Keith house during weeks that to all intents and purposes immediately impend—Dolores Del Rio and Joel McCrea in "The Bird of Paradise," Ann Harding in "Westward Passage" and Richard Dix in "Roar of the Dragon," to name only a few.

But to get back to that cast engaged to support the youngest of the Barrymores in "State's Attorney," here is the parade of names: William (Stage) Boyd, Jill Esmond, Mary Duncan, Oscar Apfel, Raoul Roulien, Ralph Ince, Frederick Burton, Leon Waycoff, recently seen in "Murders in the Rue Morgue," in case you had as much difficulty recalling where as I did, and Helen Twelvetrees.

Quite an entry list, although as yet the post positions are not disclosed.

Col. Stoopnagle and Budd, the radio favorites appearing in person this week on the stage of the Fox, are taking time out this afternoon to entertain the disabled veterans at Walter Reed Hospital. The boys rate this pair among the best-liked of the personalities of the air.

Plans have virtually been completed, by the way, for the second annual flower show to be held in the lobby of the Fox Theater the week beginning April 15.

The show this season is expected to be even more impressive than the one held last spring. Already all available space has been taken over by local florists, whose displays will include rock gardens, bridal creations and other forms of horticultural wizardry in which all known species of flowers are used.

The exhibit is being sponsored jointly by the theater, the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission and the District of Columbia Committee on Employment.

Five years ago an obscure young man by the name of Rudy Vallee played a week's engagement with a band known as the "Yale Collegians" at Loew's Palace Theater.

While it will probably ruin Miss Isabelle M. Parks' entire day, because, as the original 100 per cent Rudy fan, she didn't know he was here, that same young saxophone tooter hunted up his old friend Angie Ratto, manager of the Palace, Sunday evening and together they dug through a lot of old, musty files down in the cellar, so Lehigh's little brother could copy the records of that week, June 26 to July 2, $45 per week salary and all!

Mrs. Vallee and Mrs. L. G. Moore, of the Hotel Shoreham, accompanied the famous conductor, who didn't know a croon from a yodel when he played the house 'way back yonder, and all viewed Jean Harlow's personal appearance from out front.

And now then, about that interview. Don't be silly. Certainly she wrote it herself. Or if she didn't, I'm being taken for a ride in the same trap right along with you!

Clever as a Chinese, this Jean Harlow—and I wouldn't fool you.

NATS' 18-HIT ATTACK TROUNCES LOOKOUTS, 15 TO 8

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 4.

THE home-coming of the Nats next Thursday is destined to deposit in Washington two new found heroes upon whom the Capital fans are likely to pour their unreserved adulation. I speak of Don Carlos Reynolds, the outfielder, and Prof. Monte Weaver, one of the pitching gentry. Washington fans can warm to Reynolds and Weaver with little effort. They are respectively the hardest-hitting right-handed outfielder and the winning pitcher so long sought by Manager Johnson and President Griffith and they have given every indication by their work in the exhibition games that the trust in them not only has not been misplaced, but has been understated.

Carl Reynolds and Monte Weaver are a couple of guys, who are destined to win a lot of ball games for the Nats this season by the sheer brilliance of their work, the one by the power that he will lend to the Nats' batting order and the other by the skill he possesses on the pitching mound. Manager Johnson is willing to stake his reputation on their success, but its hardly a gamble.

Washingtonians, who saw Don Carlos Reynolds perform with the White Sox and learned to respect his slugging ability, will see him at closer range this season with the Nats and will be looking at a natural hitter, with power enough in his 200 pounds to send the ball out of any part of the Washington Park with the exception of Deep Center Field.

They are destined to glory in Reynolds' line drives, because he is that sort of a hitter. When he connects, the ball goes on a line, for extra bases, unless it is hit directly at an outfielder. When he hits it on the ground, it is liable to skid past the infielders so quickly there will be no play.

All of his hits in the exhibition games have been of the line-drive type. He has been especially adept at slamming the ball safely on the hit-and-run play and with the White Sox earned a reputation as a demon hitter with men on bases. Batting behind Myer, Manush, West and Cronin in the Washington batting order, Reynolds is destined to have plenty of opportunity to display his slugging skill with men on bases.

Reynolds was off to a slow start with the Nats this spring, failing to connect safely in his early games, but Johnson was unworried by this item. It developed that Don Carlos was attacking the spring training ides smartly, merely adjusting his form at the plate and his batting eye until he was ready to sock the ball with his native power.

There was the item, too, of the erratic pitching the Nats faced against the rookies and the wild left-handers of the minor league clubs. In their first dozen games, Heinie Manush, Sammy West and Reynolds weren't taking many changes against these erratic pitchers up there at the plate. They weren't standing up there with the same determination they would show when the season got under way. A base hit wasn't worth the risk of getting hit on the bean by a wild pitch. They had won their jobs and didn't have to hit in the spring games.

Don Carlos is no drawback on the bases either. He brings a lot of speed to the Washington attack, and has proven that reports of his crude sliding ability is a myth. He stole 18 bases last season, more than any member of the Nats, and when he gets under way on the paths you can understand why he

Barry Faces Gallagher Tonight

Mohawk Fighter Is Held Favorite in Nursery Feature.

Irving and Finazzo to Clash; Four Other Bouts Booked.

By JACK ESPEY.

MARTY GALLAGHER and Reds Barry, a pair of native sons with mutual disrespect, drag their heavy artillery into Portner Arena tonight for the second Battle of the Potomac. The renewal of warfare that broke out last October at Fort Washington promises to pack the Alexandria house of slug to capacity. The shooting begins at 8:30.

All available information indicates it will be a furious melee for eight rounds, with few of the critics anticipating a knockout. Both men are durable, while neither is believed to pack sufficient dynamite in his glove to start the birdies singing. However, Dan Carroll, manager of Gallagher, foresees a kayo, with his protege vertical in the fourth or fifth round.

Barry, the loser in the first clash and the smaller of the pair, is strangely enough the favorite, his support being voiced not alone in his own Southeast section of Washington but in several other quarters as well. The reason for this apparently is based on reports that he is punching harder than ever before and that his physical condition is distinctly improved. He is conceded the edge in speed and defense.

Gallagher Reported In Shape.

Gallagher, too, is reported in excellent condition after two weeks of strenuous training in Boston under the critical eye of Dan Carroll. Marty announced upon arrival here yesterday that he will weigh 201 pounds for the bout. Barry, who appeared overweight six months ago, probably will scale 188.

The bout means more to Gallagher than simply the chance of repeating an earlier triumph, for unless he wins, or at least performs more impressively than against Natie Brown and Herman Weiner a couple of months ago, he will lose opportunities to secure future engagements at Portner's against such outstanding heavyweights as Babe Hunt and Salvatore Ruggirello. The latter, incidentally, was knocked out by Marty three years ago, but since that time has passed the Foggy Bottom Irishman in climbing the fistic ladder.

Irving to Meet Finazzo.

Five other bouts, including a pair of six-rounders, complete the bill. In the main preliminary Henry Irving, local middleweight, will seek to continue a come back at the expense of rugged Sam Finazzo, of Baltimore. The other six brings together Whitey Saylor, Birmingham, Ala., welter, and Sammy Braunstein, Navy Yard Marine, Saylor having replaced Ray Bowen, of this city, whom an eye infection prevented from meeting Braunstein for the District welterweight championship.

The fours list Roddy Davis, Washington lightweight, vs. George Esrick, Baltimore; Humpty Decola, Washington featherweight, vs. Young Groves, also of Washington, and Jack Quigley, local lightweight, vs. Bob Golsby, Fort Howard, Md.

BOXING BITS' SELECTIONS—Barry to defeat Gallagher, Finazzo to shade Irving, Braunstein to outpoint Saylor, Esrick to conquer Davis, Quigley to beat Golsby, and Young Groves to down Decola. (Batting .762.)

DUE BATTLE

MARTY GALLAGHER.

BOLLING MAT FEATURE TO WYCOFF

Fraley Is Beaten in 34 Minutes; Cordovano Wins.

PAT FRALEY, a colorful heavyweight wrestler with the imprint of Old Erin stamped indelibly upon his good natured features, last night walked away with the show as the Bolling Field Athletic Association crashed through with another of its weekly features.

Stacked up against popular Lee Wycoff in the evening's grand finale, Pat thrilled some 1,200 to the core before eventually being downed by a beautiful airplane spin in 32 minutes.

From the opening whistle Wycoff and Fraley mixed freely, bringing the crowd to its feet on several occasions with rousing fistic exchanges midway of the mat. Having all the better of the earlier going, the Irishman eventually weakened before Wycoff's determined tactics, being reduced to semigrogginess near the end when Wycoff scored with a succession of thunderous body slams.

Principals Given Hand.

Both principals were uproariously received as they filed to the dressing room.

Despite a substitution made necessary through the absence of Martin Piestina the supplementaries were of fairly sound caliber.

Sam Cordovano, former Georgetown University football sensation, used a body weight smash to upset Mario Giglio in 22 minutes. Sam, however, was extended to the limit by the picturesque Italian and frankly was none too impressive in victory.

Danny Winters, personal protege of Karl Pojello, was awarded the palm over Stanley Sitnowski when the latter was injured in a fall from the mat. The big Bostonian had given a good account of himself before a flying tackle blasted him to the concrete floor after nineteen minutes of stepping.

John Siejack and Joe Vargo tangled 30 minutes to a draw as did "Dutch" Green and "Bull" Garnon.

Siejack and Vargo exchanged punches in the locker room after their match.

Shikat and McCready Wrestle to Hour Draw

New York, April 4 (A.P.).—Earl McCready, of Canada, drew with Dick Shikat, of Philadelphia, after 1 hour 6 minutes and 10 seconds of their wrestling match at Madison Square Garden tonight. The bout was terminated at 11 p. m. as required by State law before either could gain a fall. McCready weighed 229 pounds; Shikat 218. A crowd of 6,500 persons saw the match.

John Maxos, 204, Greece, drew with George Kostonoras, 198, Chicago, in a 20-minute time limit match; Kritz Kley, 212, Germany, defeated Sandor Szabo, 205, Hungary, in 28:10 of a finish match with reversible body hold; Century Milstead, 210, former Yale University football star, defeated Antone Peterson, 225, Denmark, in 8:27 with a flying tackle and body hold; Leon Pinetski, 282, Poland, drew with Hans Steinke, 242, Germany, in a 20-minute time limit match; George Zaharias, 230, Greece, defeated Alex Abers, 210, Sweden, in 7:48, with a body slam and half nelson.

CONTINUE INQUIRY.

New York, April 4 (A.P.).—The American Powerboat Association will continue its investigation of the running of the Col. E. H. R. Green trophy outboard races at Miami Beach despite the action of the Florida Outboard Association in clearing American drivers, Charles F. Chapman, contest board chairman, said today.

Miss Orcutt Has 74 at Columbia

North-South Winner Here, Plays Informal Matches.

Six Women's Teams Score in Interclub Meet.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

MISS MAUREEN ORCUTT, who recently added to her numerous golf titles by annexing the North and South championship at Pinehurst, yesterday afternoon played in a friendly match on the course of the Columbia Country Club. The match was followed by an interested gallery of women players who had participated in a series of team matches on the course earlier in the day.

Miss Orcutt gave little or no evidence of her long and strenuous golfing experience in the South which came to a climax with eighteen holes at Pinehurst Sunday morning and then, with Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes as her host, motoring continuously from Pinehurst to this city. Neither would it have occurred to a casual observer that she was playing the Columbia course for the first time for she was out in 35, even par, and made the homeward journey in 39, her 74 strokes being four over par. Her card:

Out..... 4 4 5 3 4 3 4 3 5—35
In..... 5 4 5 3 5 5 3 4 5—39—74

The match yesterday afternoon was a fivesome with Miss Orcutt paired with George P. James and Albert R. Mackenzie against Mrs. Haynes, Middle Atlantic champion, and Fred McLeod, the Columbia professional.

Match Close Throughout.

The match was close throughout, Mrs. Haynes and McLeod being dormie 2 on the seventeenth tee. However, it ended all square, for James, driving the seventeenth green, scored a birdie 3, McLeod driving into the trap guarding the green and taking 4, while on the eighteenth hole James won with a par 4 after an approach which laid his ball dead to the cup.

Miss Orcutt's long game was the feature of her playing, although her approaches were remarkably accurate for one unacquainted with the course, and she did not have a single 3-putt green. She missed a short putt for a birdie 2 on the fourth, but negotiated a birdie 4 on the fifth with an 8-foot putt and then scored another birdie on the sixth by chipping into the cup from off the green. On the eighteenth hole she outdrove all of the other players. McLeod had the low score of the day, 35—35—70.

This morning at 10 o'clock Miss Orcutt will play the Chevy Chase course paired with McCook Dunlop against Mrs. McCain Smith and Robert T. Barnett, the Chevy Chase professional.

Army-Navy Team Wins.

The first of the interclub women's team matches was played yesterday on the course of the Columbia Club under ideal weather conditions and with 60 women golfers competing. Matches were played in four-ball fashion upon the Nassau system. The winning teams were Army-Navy, Indian Spring, Columbia, Chevy Chase and Congressional, as follows:

Washington, Mrs. Booker and Mrs Feiser, 0; Army-Navy, Mrs. Noyes and Mrs. Osborne, 3. Washington, Mrs. Sutton and Mrs. Stewart, 1; Army-Navy, Mrs. Hedrick and Mrs. Holtzman, 2. Washington, Mrs. Tschiffely and Mrs. Thacker, 0; Army-Navy, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Luscomb, 3. Washington, 8; Army-Navy, 1.

The matches of the second teams will be played this morning at the Manor Club, as follows: Columbia vs. Army-Navy, at 9:30; Congressional vs. Manor, 9:45; Washington vs. Beaver Dam, 10.

VILLAGERS MEET TONIGHT.

Ciro's Italian Village baseball team will hold an important meeting tonight at 8 o'clock, at the restaurant, Thirteenth and G streets northwest. All players are urged to attend.

Bob Boken, Blue third baseman, hit a home run, two triples, a double and a single in five times at bat. Rogell, Tiger shortstop, also hit a homer.

Wyatt, Detroit's starting pitcher, was hammered for fourteen hits and ten runs in six innings. Bridges finished. Bayne, for the Blues, was unsteady, but Thomas, who pitched the last five innings, limited Detroit to three hits.

The Dodgers took a two-run lead in the first three innings and seemed to be on their way to victory when Waite Hoyt relieved Clark in the sixth inning. The Millers immediately paired two of their five hits with an error by Slade to score two runs. Brooklyn made seven hits, two by Hack Wilson, off three Minneapolis pitchers.

Finnish Body Ired by Ban On Nurmi

Charge Star Runner Suspended Without Hearing.

Reinstatement Likely Before Olympics at Los Angeles.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, April 4 (A.P.).—Finnish athletic authorities were aroused today over the suspension of Paavo Nurmi, Finland's great runner, by the council of the Amateur Athletic Federation, meeting in Berlin, on charges of irregular expense accounts.

Nurmi was suspended by the council pending the result of an investigation by the Finnish Federation, which was asked to undertake such a probe by the international body.

The Finnish authorities charged, in effect, that Nurmi had been suspended by the international body without a hearing and without waiting to receive the report from Finland. They said the report was requested for late in April.

In a formal announcement tonight, the Finnish association expressed astonishment at the International Federation's "extraordinary if not offensive action," which, the statement asserted, was contrary to the federation's constitution. It was contended that the I. A. A. F. was not empowered to directly penalize an athlete.

Although remonstrating with the international body over its action, the association expressed its willingness to investigate the question of Nurmi's eligibility.

Nurmi Retains Speed.

The basis for the suspension was not officially disclosed, but was believed to involve charges of padded expense accounts for appearances by Nurmi in Poland, Italy and Germany. Such charges against Nurmi have been rumored for some time.

The international council is not scheduled to meet again until just before the Olympic games in Los Angeles, but there is little doubt that if the Finnish Federation gives Nurmi a clear bill of amateur health the international body will accept it without question. It always has been the procedure.

Although slowed up somewhat for the shorter distances, Nurmi is still the peer of the world's runners for 10,000 meters or beyond and would be the favorite for the Olympic marathon if he chooses to run the classic distance. He has indicated the 26-mile title is his goal for the coming Olympiad.

He remains the world's most colorful runner and probably the track's best drawing card. New York has never repeated scenes at the box office such as accompanied his tour of the United States in 1925, and the Olympics would lose much of their appeal if he were barred.

Gagnon Stopped By Paulino in 7th

New York, April 4 (A.P.).—Paulino Uzcudun, veteran Spanish heavyweight, knocked out Jack Gagnon, of Boston, in 2 minutes and 35 seconds of the seventh round of their ten-round bout at the St. Nicholas Arena here tonight. Paulino weighed 203 pounds, Gagnon 204.

The roly-poly New Englander, on the receiving end most of the evening went down for a count of nine early in the seventh round and came up just in time to take a left and a right that put him down for the full count.

Paulino fought a well-planned fight and, except for a few moments in the fifth round, never was in danger from the hard-punching Gagnon's attack.

The Spanish veteran won the first four rounds by wide margins and gave Gagnon a bad beating in the fifth round until near the close of that session when Gagnon landed two wallops that made the Spaniard a trifle more cautious.

CRONIN SENT TO CAPITAL TO REST

Special to The Washington Post.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 4.—Joe Cronin parted company with the Washington Ball Club tonight when he was ordered to proceed direct to the Capital to recuperate from an illness that was diagnosed as a sinus attack.

Cronin thus will miss the Nats' two games in Knoxville tomorrow and Wednesday and will arrive in Washington two days ahead of the team. He will be in uniform on Thursday when the Nats meet the Boston Braves in their first home appearance.

Lloyd Brown has been nominated to twirl tomorrow in the first game against Knoxville, which is a newcomer to the Southern Association this year. Brown has been one of the dependables of the exhibition season and his left hand is due to see much service, especially in the early games of the season, as a result of his reputation for effectiveness in the spring.

The minds of Catcher Howard Maple and Pitchers Mike Delaney, Bud Thomas and Johnny Boyle were relieved today when Manager Johnson announced there would be no more releases to the Chattanooga Club.

For Thomas, Boyle and Delaney, however, Johnson's pronouncement may mean only that he is casting about for a berth for them in a league of lower classification, as none are deemed ready yet for the majors. Maple's retention by the Nats is a tribute to the promise and aggressiveness that the stocky catcher has shown.

Sheriff Dave Harris absented himself from the team today when he was called home to Greensboro, N. C., by the serious illness of his sister.

After his turn on the mound tomorrow at Knoxville, it is probable that Lloyd Brown will return to Chattanooga for treatment of his pitching arm, which has bothered him since he bruised an elbow two weeks ago.

Bobby Burke, also ailing from a sore arm, may accompany Brown to Chattanooga, where Lee Jensen, trainer of the Lookouts, is a specialist in such matters and has the apparatus to apply heat treatments.

Princeton Grid Squad Reports to New Coach

Princeton, N. J., April 4 (U.P.).—Princeton's new football regime opened today as Nassau's new head coach, H. O. ("Fritz") Crisler and his assistants put a squad of 46 men through its first workout.

Thirty more Tiger gridders are expected to swell the squad within a week. The spring practice season will continue for six weeks. Passing, kicking and touch drills occupied most of the afternoon's practice.

Crisler wasted no time in putting his charges to work. With scrimmages planned two weeks hence, the new coaches must whip the squad into condition quickly. Seventeen letter men were included in the group which showed up for the opening drill.

Crisler, former director of athletics at the University of Minnesota, is the first nonalumnus coach to direct a Tiger Team. Crisler succeeded Al Wittmer.

Crowder, Hit Hard, Hurls Full Game

Crowder Tops Hitters With Triple and 4 Singles.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH (Sports Editor of The Post).

JOE ENGEL STADIUM, Chattanooga, Tenn., April 4.—Lynn Griffith changed his Washington uniform for the Chattanooga Club's regalia this afternoon on the heels of release by the Nats and saw his offerings bumped all over the lot by the Washington bats when they weren't kicked away by the Lookouts' defense.

Washington won the game, 15 to 8, the Nats' fourteenth victory in fifteen exhibition games this spring.

Alvin Crowder, unsettled by the fact that he made five hits in five appearances at the plate, one of which was a smashing triple, was no great shucks, either, out there on the mound today. He beat the Lookouts only by grace of the Nats' run total, for he was slammed for thirteen safeties.

Chattanooga matched the Nats, run for run, for five innings, and went into the sixth inning with the game deadlocked at 3-3, but this state of affairs against his erstwhile teammates was too much for Griffith and he exploded with a bang, allowing four runs on four hits.

Nats Make Their Hits Count.

The Nats were getting maximum production on base hits an afternoon, scoring two runs on three hits in the third, one run on one hit in the fourth, four runs on four hits in the sixth, five runs on three hits in the eighth, and three runs on three hits in the ninth. Of course, five bases on balls by Griffith and two errors by his teammates figured in, the run-making with great effect.

Chattanoogans, however, had a ready explanation for Griffith's ineffectiveness. It seems that Lefty Lynn, who has a lifetime batting average of .029, slammed a home run off Crowder in the fifth inning, and never recovered from his surprise. It was obvious when he went back to the mound and permitted the Nats to score four runs in the sixth.

Crowder did not look like the ace of the Nats' pitching staff out there on the mound in the ninth when the Lookouts put together five straight hits, two of them doubles, to score four runs before a man was out. He did, however, manage the distinction of being the first Washington pitcher to go the route, but it was due to Johnson's tolerance.

Nats Again Produce 18 Hits.

The Nats made eighteen base hits this afternoon for the second day in succession, showing remarkable stamina all afternoon by running out their blows against Griffith and Kirk Fullerton, who relieved him in the ninth.

Johnny Kerr, who was playing shortstop in lieu of Joe Cronin, again today was the only member of the Washington cast to go hitless. Crowder's five safeties won him the batting honors, but Buddy Myer and Sammy West each collected three. Joe Judge walked three times.

Two double plays, started by Travis and Kingdon, helped Lynn Griffith over the rough spots i nthe first and second innings.

Griffith's home run in the fifth was a line drive to center and the few hundred in the stands were prostrated with shock and glee.

Sarazen Tops Golf Pro Money Winners

Atlanta, Ga., April 4 (A.P.).—America's professional golfers divided some $83,000 in prize money during the 16 weeks of tournaments starting in December and ending with the North and South Open, at Pinehurst, N. C., last week.

Although Gene Sarazen, of New York, was again the high money winner with earnings of around $8,000, at least 25 golfers made enough in prizes to pay their expenses. More than 50 others hardly managed caddy fees out of their winnings but most of these were on the tour for experience and expected to pay their own way.

Fred Morrison won the biggest tournament prize of the year. The $15,000 Agua Caliente Open, and Sarazen captured the largest tournament money in the United States, the $10,000 Miami Biltmore-Coral Gables Open.

Macks Defeat Phils, 8-4; Bishop, Foxx Hit Homers

PHILADELPHIA, April 4 (A.P.).—The Athletics turned the tables on the Phillies today in the second game of the spring city series and won, 8 to 4, the same score by which the Phillies trimmed them on Saturday. The series now stands one victory each.

The American League champions used two veteran pitchers, Rube Walberg going five innings and Roy Mahaffey four. Edgar Holley pitched five innings for the Phils. His main trouble was wildness, issuing four passes in one inning, the second, to help the A.'s to a pair of unearned runs.

Reg Grabowski and Chet Nichols finished and held the A's fairly well, although Foxx hammered one of Grabowski's curves into the left field seats. Bishop had a homer in the fourth inning with Jimmy Dykes on base, and Foxx drove out another in the seventh.

The weather was cold and kept the fans huddled in their overcoats. The third game of the series will be played Wednesday at Shibe Park.

Lott Not to Compete On U. S. Cup Net Team

Philadelphia, April 4 (A.P.).—George M. Lott, jr., of Chicago, No. 2 in the national tennis rankings and runner-up in last year's national singles tournament, announced today he would not be a member of this year's Davis Cup Team.

In a telegram to a Philadelphia newspaper from Houston, Tex., where he won an invitation doubles championship yesterday with Ellsworth Vines, he said only: "I am retiring from Davis Cup competition this year for business reasons."

The Davis Cup selection committee is scheduled to announce late this week the makeup of the United States squad.

Columbia Students Call Strike to Aid Grid Critic

NEW YORK, April 4 (A.P.).—A strike of Columbia University students, to start Wednesday, was called for at a mass meeting held on the steps of the university library today in protest against the expulsion of Reed Harris, editor of the Spectator, student publication.

More than 1,000 students of Columbia College attended the meeting and scores of them remained after the meeting to enlist for picket duty on Wednesday when, according to the plans, all the university buildings will be picketed.

The protest meeting was directed by Bob F. Hall, president of the Social Problems Club, and John L. Donovan, a member of the club. A succession of students mounted the pedestal of the alma mater statue to address the crowd, a few of them upholding the action of Dean Herbert E. Hawkes in expelling Harris, although the majority denounced the expulsion of the editor.

Hall charged that the expulsion of Harris resulted as much from his editorial sponsorship of the student delegation which recently attempted to visit the Kentucky mine area, as from his attacks on commercialized football.

Two petitions demanding the reinstatement of the expelled editor were approved and students were assigned to circulate them. One is to be circulated among the student body and the other among faculty members.

Several of the speakers attacked Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the university. One, Gerald Dickler, a law student, said that the Spectator made only two mistakes during the year.

"One," he said, "was when it advocated the reelection of President Nicholas Murray Butler and the other when it favored giving the name of Butler Hall to the beautiful new building which is being erected."

MARLENE, AT 13 TO 1, GAME IN WINNING BOWIE FEATURE

Filly Jumps To Front At End

Brandon Rose Second, With Gloria Maris Third.

Aldershot, 11-1, Upsets Dope by Winning Fifth.

BY WALTER HAIGHT.

MARLENE, a little filly owned and operated by one A. Pelleteri, walked quietly to the post virtually unnoticed and proceeded to run a startling race to defeat a dozen other young turf misses seeking The Attractive purse, yesterday's feature race at Bowie.

Marlene Pays Off At 13 to 1.

Marlene's victory was popular in some circles, paying off at a rate close to 13-to-1. Brandon Rose and Gloria Maris were also overlooked in the wagering.

With sunny skies and a fast track assured, race fans to a number of about 10,000 witnessed the sport. The crowd, better than an average Monday, was in keeping with the high number of patrons the first two days of the meeting brought out.

Favorite players were off to a good start, when Shavings stepped down in the opener to be followed by Dunlin's Lad in the second. Calgary Kay, which accounted for the third, barely missed being a favorite, that doubtful honor going to Jaffa at the last minute.

A dozen 2-year-old maidens took the 4-furlong test in the opener, and Jockey Robertson made it five victories for the meeting by riding Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Shavings, the favorite, home ahead of Three Bees, from the Hal Price Headley string. Flora Canter, Bryon filly, grouped in the field, was third.

Half Saint broke on top, but Robertson rushed Shavings into the lead, never to be headed. Three Bees became a factor rounding the turn, and it was a two-horse race in the stretch, with Shavings gaining the decision by a neck margin. Flora Canter was coming fast at the end and beat out Half Saint for third.

Dunlin's Lad Wins Second By a Head.

Another Trueman-trained horse scored in the second race when Ral Parr's Dunlin's Lad took a head decision from Prometheus, with Paddock third. Sonny Workman, on Dunlin's Lad, fought a winning battle with H. Elston, on Prometheus, in the stretch. Paddock broke in front of the field and was closely followed by Dunlin's Lad, which went to the front at the far turn. Prometheus, far back going down the back stretch, circled on the outside of the field with a rush that left only Dunlin's Lad ahead. Elston worked hard, but just failed to get the broomstick gelding up.

Calgary Kay, Mrs. B. E. Chapman's 3-year-old gelding, took the third race easily from a field of ten platers. Fair Jack, Bedwell gelding, was second, with Jaffa third. The last-named took the lead from Calgary Kay soon after the start, but the ultimate winner regained command on the far turn and pulled away in the stretch, leaving Jaffa to battle it out for the place money with Fair Jack, which had been laying third all the way. Fair Jack won the struggle by a length. Calgary Kay had a margin of four lengths at the finish. The winner was ridden by J. Gilbert, sensational rider at Havana.

Aldershot Upsets Dope In the Fifth.

Aldershot, an 11-to-1 shot, provided an upset in the fifth race, taking the lead before the field reached the clubhouse turn and, hot-footing it home in front. Negopoli was second, a length and a half behind, with the popular Bubola third. Deedie, which had held second place for most of the journey, slid back to fourth when the pay-off came.

Hank Mills, who earned a reputation with his riding in Florida, seemed much at home on Aldershot, owned by F. A. Griffith, and gave the gelded son of Man o' War a hustling ride.

Bounding Deep, from the B. B. Stable, helped to make it a long stay at the barrier in the sixth race, but did not linger there when Starter Milton pressed the button. The old plater stepped on the gas and hustled home ahead of Fair Dawn and Skirt, winning by a two-length margin. Both Bounding Deep and Westy's Fox broke bridles before the field got away.

36-Hole Medal Play For Dixie Golf Event

Atlanta, Ga., April 4 (A.P.).—For the first time in the history of the Southern amateur golf championship, players this year will be required to enter a 36-hole qualifying round.

Lowry Arnold, of Atlanta, president of the association, announced today that the June tournament at the Birmingham, Ala., Country Club will be held under this arrangement.

The first 18 holes will be played on Tuesday with another 18 on Wednesday and the 32 low scorers will form the top flight. Two 18 holes of match play will be held on Thursday and Friday with a 36-hole final on Saturday in the first and second division, and 18-hole championship matches in the other flights.

Last year only 18 holes were necessary for qualification while single 18-hole match play contests were delayed until next to the last day when the quarter and semifinals were crowded into the same day.

SHAVINGS, away in the first flight and rushed hard to take early command, raced HALF SAINT into submission in the first three furlongs and, continuing courageously, outlasted THREE BEES under severe urging. Latter, forced to race on the outside of the pacemakers, responded stoutly when straightened into the home stretch and was wearing the winner down steadily. FLORA CANTER, racing forwardly, closed with good energy in the final drive. HALF SAINT had speed for three furlongs, but weakened after racing on the inside throughout. STRAPHANGER went evenly. FELICIANA showed a good test after losing ground. MADAME SNOB tired. MISS DELIGHT suffered much early interference.

DUNLIN'S LAD, having good early speed, moved into the lead shortly after the start, saved ground and, responding willingly to punishment when overtaken, came again in the final sixteenth to get up in the concluding strides. PROMETHEUS, shuffled back when the break came, entered contention rounding the turn when taken to the outside, went into a slight lead in the closing furlong, but hung near the finish. PADDOCK, a stout factor early, held on well when the final test came. ANCODA was unable to improve his position after securing racing room. MENELEK raced well under strong pressure. SUNEROS could not menace the leaders. DEXTRO was in tight quarters early. BRIGHT SEAS tired.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MARLENE, $27.50, $12.90, $9.20; BRANDON ROSE, $31.50, $19.30; GLORIA MARIS, $9.30.

MARLENE, outrun for the first three furlongs, went to the outside for racing room and, closing with belated speed, wore the leaders down in the final furlong and was gradually moving clear approaching the finish. FRANDON ROSE worked her way into contention with good speed and closed in game fashion for the final drive. GLORIA MARIS, a forward factor and saving ground the entire trip, outstayed MARCIANA. Latter raced BOSCOBEL into submission, swung wide into the home stretch, began tiring and was in very close quarters for the final drive. DELICACY broke slowly, settled in her stride after the opening furlong and came stoutly in the final drive. STEP SIS raced well. PREFER was never a factor. BOSCOBEL stopped suddenly.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 4:24. Off at 4:27½. Winner, F. A. Griffin's ch. g. (5), by Man o' War—Coronis. Trained by W. Mulholland. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49, 1:14 2-5, 1:41 2-5, 1:48 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ALDERSHOT, $24.10, $11.10, $5.90; NEGOPOLI, $6.00, $3.50; BUBOLA, $3.50.

ALDERSHOT, going in his best form, was rushed to the front going to the first turn, was kept out in the former part of the track while setting the pace and had enough in reserve to withstand NEGOPOLI when shaken up in the final drive. NEGOPOLI, restrained off the early pace, moved up stoutly midway of the turn, lost ground, but came determinedly when straightened into the home stretch. BUBOLA, a keen factor in the early racing, came with good courage to the end. DEEDIE forced a good pace for six furlongs and held on well thereafter. BATTY made a stout effort in the final half mile and finished gamely. STONE MARTIN, poorly ridden, was repeatedly blocked while kept in the softer footing next the inner rail. The others were outrun.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, driving. Went to post at 5:00. Off at 5:10½. Winner, B. B. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOUNDING DEEP, $10.50, $5.80, $4.90; FAIR DAWN, $7.00, $6.60; SKIRT, $5.00.

BOUNDING DEEP, allowed to settle in full stride, gained stoutly through the final half mile and, coming resolutely when steered to the outside, wore the leaders down inside the final furlong and drew out steadily. FAIR DAWN, rated close up, took command leaving the back stretch, but could not withstand the winner. SKIRT moved up determinedly when called on and closed with good speed. MY BETTY weakened after making repeated efforts in the first seven furlongs. CHOLLA was outrun early and could never reach contention when put to a drive. WESTY'S FOX went well for six furlongs. FRANCES COOPER was held safe. SINGLE HOPE tired badly after five furlongs. BUTTER JOHN lacked speed at all stages.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:38. Off at 5:39. Winner, H. C. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SISTER ZOE, $5.60, $4.10, $2.70; RUANE, $4.60, $3.20; MEANDER, $3.60.

SISTER ZOE, racing as if much the best, took an easy lead at once, raced reserved for six furlongs, opened up a commanding lead and was eased during the closing furlong. RUANE, taken in hand, was badly blocked when moving up leaving the back stretch, went to the outside when clear and closed stoutly. MEANDER, following close up early, was repeatedly sent into tight quarters. He held on well when securing clear passage. OVERLOOK, slow to begin, finished gamely. SPECTACULAR weakened badly in the final drive. RING ON raced gamely for six furlongs. BRIGHT COLORS stopped after five furlongs.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

Bowie Race Track.

Dear Al,

I still have my shirt, but I'm doing my own laundry. It was a beautiful day, the same mixture of mules and horses were pulling the track graders between races and a lot of people from good families gathered on the lawn. I understand they were cashing tickets back under the stands.

Your kind attention in today's seven races, Al. As Champ Pickens says, you can't tell what those country Jakes will do. Try these and quit picking up those discarded $50 tickets off the clubhouse floor.

The Valor, at 1 mile and 70 yards, finds a field of five named, and I'm taking ROYAL RUFFIN for mine. This Coventry gelding has an excellent chance in this field and should pay off in the neighborhood of 8 to 1. Lost a rider in the mud the last time out, but before that ran a corking race to beat Jaz Age. Raced into shape at Hialeah ROYAL RUFFIN is a ready horse, as works will attest. JOHN F did not run his race last Saturday, and should be second. GAY BIRD turned in a promising effort behind Frumper and Sergt. Donaldson, and I see the Wrack gelding third. COLOSSAL is classy, but has not been out since October.

FIRST RACE—NIMBLE PLAYER, coupled with KEGGY, is my choice in the baby race. This young lady is said to be fast and ready to win at the first asking. The tried LA CONTESSA probably will draw the chief betting and should be as good as second. STROLL ALONG, like NIMBLE PLAYER had the famous Strolling Player for a sire, and has stepped lively in trials.

SECOND RACE—AMERICANA may like the fast track better than the mud of opening day, although it was in the mud that this Zeigler colt ran second to Tick On at Saratoga. Clockers says this colt has speed. DON ROMIRO was prominent opening day in a field of this kind, and off that race must be considered here. GENERAL COURT has a chance here on his showing of Saturday.

THIRD RACE—KEITH is it, Capt. Jim Snodgrass told me this old-timer could beat Phar Lap just before he stopped out in front of his field to lead all the way the other day. I don't believe that. But I do believe that KEITH will be home first today, providing the veteran did not strain a ligament in that winning effort. SERIO will be up again, I understand, GARLIC was hardly extended in his Bowie victory, and another like that should put him close up on KEITH at the finish. EAGER PLAY is a problem. Had a bad fall last year.

FOURTH RACE—BRAVE AND BOLD to beat PHANTOM LEGION. Made Towee step to take a decision after fighting his way up opening day. Has shown high speed on all kinds of tracks. PHANTOM LEGION turned in a sweet race behind Air Pilot, but was an in-and-outer last year. WAR PLANE was a keen 2-year-old when put away last fall.

SIXTH RACE—WAR SAINT is highly recommended. Expect this one to hold WRACKELL safe. WAR SAINT has some class, a quality the rest of the field lacks. WRACKELL turned in a game effort in his race here and can not be discarded. STAR LASSIE has a chance on winter races. If these don't suit, try LADY BEINVILLE. She'll win in Maryland.

SEVENTH RACE—BLACK PATRICIA scored several times at New Orleans and seems in a spot to do it here. At least second in her last five starts. BLACK PATRICIA shipped well and was scratched the other day with a race like this in mind. NEALON KAY should improve off first effort here. BRASS MONKEY, backed down the last time, should be third.

Few Derby Hopes In Drill at Downs

Louisville, Ky., April 4 (U.P.).—Although weather and track conditions were most favorable, few Kentucky Derby candidates were out for exercise this morning at Churchhill Downs.

Albert Sabath's two eligibles, Manners and I Say, worked five furlongs, as did Robert M. Eastman's Cathop. Manners turned in the best time, 1:3 3-5, while his stablemate, a Dis Done filly that is a half sister to Top Flight worked one second slower. Cathop was timed in 1:05 breezing.

Faber, Caraway and Grube, Jolley; Tinsley and Moss.

Cincinnati, April 4 (U.P.).—The Reds practiced on their own park today for the first time this year and drew a gallery of 1,200 fans who turned out to see the new team Dan Howley has assembled for 1932.

Babe Herman, Wally Gilbert, and Ernie Lombardi, the three players Howley obtained in a recent trade with Brooklyn, attracted most attention. Benny Frey will be Cincinnati's starting hurler against the Yankees here tomorrow.

Quigley Will Pitch For Federal Unionists

Ken Quigley, right-handed pitching star at Bolling Field, has joined the Federal Employe Unionists and will see action Sunday when the club engages in its second training tilt of the current campaign. Mentor Earle Moser is signing players right and left in an effort to strengthen the nine for the impending Departmental and Capital City League pennant chases.

Teams in possession of home fields are invited to engage the Unionists Sunday, and may reach Moser at Metropolitan 0359 between 10 a. m. and 5 p. m.

Baltimore Mermen In Meet Here Tonight

The A. A. U. swimming team champions of the local and South Atlantic sectors will clash tonight at 8 o'clock when the Ambassador Swimming Club entertains the Baltimore Y. M. C. A. tankmen at the hotel pool.

The locals expect their hardest test of the indoor season, since the Y. M. C. A. outfit is made up of Baltimore's outstanding natators. The Ambassadors have a splendid team this year, lead by Max Rote, John Broaddus, Phil

12 TEAMS ARE SEEKING LEAGUE BERTH

Capital City Unlimiteds Forming

Sixteen Teams May Line up Before Entries Close.

Franchise Fee of $20 in League Sponsored by Post.

TWELVE teams were represented at the first meeting of the unlimited division of The Post's Capital City League held last night in the playground department office at the District Building. Six of the clubs are entirely new to the league, while one competed in the senior division last year. The turnout leads league officials to believe that at least sixteen teams will strive for the city championship and the gold baseball offered by The Post.

The teams represented and their managers are as follows: Franc Jewelers (seniors last season), R. H. Thrink; Bernizer Construction Co., Dewey Lowe; Union Printers, Ed. Lowery; City Cab, S. C. Howard; Navy Communications, Stephen D. Haines; Congress Heights, E. G. Beagle, jr.; Columbia Heights, Charley Edwards; Ciro's Italian Villagers, Tony Burruto; Federal Storage Co., Ed Morris; St. Joseph's A. C., Frank Cinotti; Federal Employe Unionists, J. Earle Moser, and a team yet to be named, managed by "Snitz" Nau.

Franchise Fee Set At $20.

The revision in the rules, adopted by the directors of the loop last month, provoked a lively discussion last night. The reduction of the player limit from eighteen to fifteen players was especially denounced, although there were some teams in favor of the measure. The franchise fee was set at $20, the same as last year, and the American League ball was adopted as official for the league.

As several additional entrants are expected no opening date was set, although the teams were divided on the only two dates suggested, May 8, and May 15. It was thought best to postpone action on this matter and on arranging the schedule until the next meeting which will be held Wednesday, April 13.

The entry of the Union Printers, City Cab, and Bernizer Construction Co. in the series may lead to the entry of other teams which ordinarily play only week-day baseball. "Snitz" Nau will have intact the Olmstead Grill nine of last year, which copped the senior championship, for the unlimited race, while the Federal Storage Club is a combination of the Chevy Chase Grays and Takoma Tigers of last year.

No Set-ups Among Entries.

All of the above mentioned clubs are strong, but there is not a single team entered which can be termed a set-up. As the division lines up there is going to be a scramble for the pennant with the issue in doubt, until the last game has been disposed of. The senior teams will meet tomorrow night at the same office and at the same hour.

Wilson Leads 125 In Pinehurst Golf

Pinehurst, N. C., April 4 (A.P.).—Forbes K. Wilson, 22 years old, who just a week ago returned from Chile where he was employed as a mining engineer, led a field of 125 golfers here today in the first 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying round of the men's North and South amateur golf tournament.

His total of 76 was good enough to bring him in ahead of others who found the combination of high winds and treacherous traps of the championship course too difficult.

Wilson's score of 5 over par gave him a 1-stroke lead over John D. Champman, of Greenwich, Conn., United States senior champion, and Chandler Harper, of Virginia Beach, Va., former Old Dominion champion.

Two strokes farther back, with 79's, were S. W. Noyes, jr., of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., captain of the Yale Golf Team, and Alan Smith, of Asheville, N. C., University of North Carolina sophomore.

No others were able to better 80, although the field included such stars as J. B. Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. Y.; Will Gunn, of Swarthmore, Pa., and Dick Wilson, of Southern Pines.

Forbes Wilson showed the effects of lack of practice. Since leaving Yale, where he was a star, he has played but little. He was erratic in his putting and several of his drives went wild. However, he was able to snare two birdies.

Volley Ball Tourney Starts April 16 at "Y"

The Y. M. C. A. will be the scene of a Bicentennial volley ball tournament beginning April 16 with many crack out-of-town teams in the running, including squads from Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, York, Reading, Wilkesboro, New York, Wilmington, Hagerstown, Baltimore and Richmond.

The same group of experts who have carried the "Y" colors all year will man the local team. They are C. J. Sample, J. G. Loehler, William Lansford, J. T. Huntt, Darrell Smith, James Stainier, Fred Mettleship, Clarence Hunter and W. C. Harrison.

The team won the interstate tournament late Saturday night by beating out Wilmington in the final match to win the second leg on the coveted trophy which is competed for annually by teams representing Hagerstown, Baltimore, Wilmington and Washington.

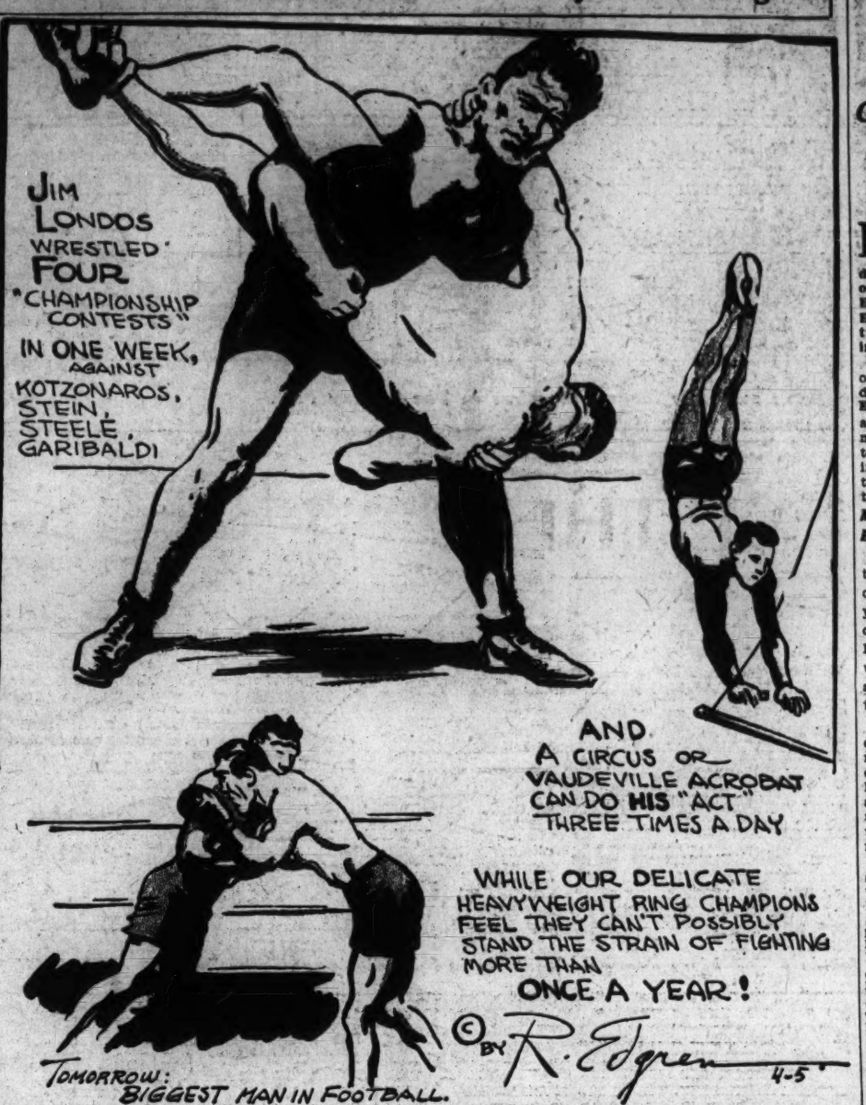
HURLS NO-HIT GAME.

Lexington, Va., April 4 (A.P.).—Lefty Sauerbrum, sophomore hurler of Washington and Lee, entered baseball's hall of fame here this afternoon and barely missed a spot in the place reserved for "perfect pitching" when he held Elon College, of North Carolina, hitless while his teammates were pounding out a 5-to-1 decision. Three errors and a base on balls and a hit batsman ruined what otherwise would have been a perfect contest. He fanned twelve men.

MIRACLES OF SPORTS. —By Robert Edgren



MT. RAINIER PROSPECTS BRIGHT

All 11 Lettermen of 1931 Are Out for Berths on Nine.

MOUNT RAINIER, Md., April 4.—With all 11 letter winners of last season's squad at hand, along with 23 new candidates of more or less promise, Mount Rainier High School's baseball squad, under direction of Coach Perry Wilkinson, is well advanced and its outlook for a successful season is decidedly bright.

The big object of the team will be to win the Prince Georges County High School championship, now held by Hyattsville High. A Mount Rainier team has yet to win a county title in any sport, the school having been established only a year ago last September.

Mathias Brothers Battery Again on Job.

Last season's principal battery, comprising the Mathias brothers, Foster, pitcher, and Bob, catcher, again is on the job, and the other letter winners available are Charles Callow, first baseman; Bill Brady, second baseman; Bill Barnard, shortstop; Charles Rocker, third baseman, and Perry Boswell, Bob Emery, and Bob Bellman, outfielders. Paul Ziegler and Gus Chakalakis, reserves who saw considerable action in 1931, also are at hand.

2 Virginia Boxers Enter Title Meet

Gentry and Goldstein to Seek College Crowns This Week.

Charlottesville, Va., April 4.—Many Virginia boxing fans may go this week to Pennsylvania State College, where two of the best of the Cavalier boxers are competing in the national collegiate tryouts for the Olympic ring team.

Fenton Gentry, of Chattanooga, Tenn., heavyweight, captain of the 1932 team and former Southern Conference light heavyweight champion, and Robert Goldstein, of Washington, D. C., lightweight, captain-elect for 1933 and twice Southern Conference featherweight champion, are the two Virginia entries.

Virginia's student and alumni supporters have confidence in the ability of both these men to go far in the tourney, if not to finish first in both their weights. Each of them has had enough tournament competition to know how to take care of himself in the strenuous series of matches that are ahead.

Gentry has been bothered a bit by a bad finger, injured in the conference tournament several weeks ago. But he is no longer troubled by it, and is in tip-top condition.

DUNDEE BEATS OAKEY.

Hitting —The— Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

THE NATIONAL tournament is for the majority of local bowlers, but the headaches and memories of picked spare breaks lingers on. It was a great tournament while it lasted. With no thought of excusing the local pinspillers for their showing at Norfolk (they did not do so badly after all, but they could have done better), it seems to us they were the victims of an extraordinary number of unfavorable breaks.

Set-ups they would have made with no difficulty on local alleys were missed in wholesale lots Saturday and Sunday. A single pin, missed in the first box of his third game, cost Maxie Rosenberg a national championship. A few of them missed by Bess Hoffman cost her and Eddie Keith a chance for the mixed doubles crown.

Francis Stan, industrious correspondent of the Star, romped home ahead of a large field to cop the newspaper championship. He rolled 319, or about 50 pins more than he usually gets. Ben McAlwee finished second with 278 and the other bowler who was in the aforementioned field found that there were too many for him to accomplish anything. Stan was rewarded with a beautifully designed medal, made of cardboard, on which was engraved, in crayon, touching lines, such as "Rest in Peace," "Gone But Not Gorgotten," "From the Boys," and last but not least, "He Struck to the End." The medal was so large it was necessary to fold it to get it into his stateroom.

In the hustle and bustle of frequent journeys from the alley to the hotel, and the subsequent last minute rush for the 5:45, the folks lost quite a number of their possessions. Perhaps the most valuable, and at the same time the oddest loss reported was that of a voice. Owner please return to Audrey Costello. No questions asked.

Staubly's 152 and 405 earned an extra slice of cake in the General Counsel loop at Lucky Strike. The Browns were feeling anything but blue and packed away the team honors with a game of 559 and set of 1,510.

Old "King" Cole felt it high time to hike the individual set mark for the season in the Typothetae League up a bit last night and forthwith put his royal idea into action. A 419 score resulted. The big game of the three had a pair of 5's after the 100. His teammates on the Maxwell Jones quintet, rolled the second highest team set of the year, 1,753, which included a 642 game. Lucky Strike was the scene of the dastardly deeds.

The best individual game and set rolled in the Eastern Star Ladies League at Convention Hall, 137 and 333, were credited to Miss Hughes. The Mount Pleasant quintet garnered the team game prize with its 549, and Washington Centennial No. 1 took the set laurels with a total of 1,490.

Lund's 126 and Dabbins' 324 accounted for the individual scoring honors in the Odd Fellow's loop at Convention Hall. Eastern clamped down on the team prizes with 522 and 1,532.

George Rosseau smashed the all-time game for the Men's Agriculture League at Columbia when he sent 177 of Lonnie Krauss' choicest pins tumbling into the pit. We are sorry to report that his next two games were not quite so good, thus his set score was a paltry 407. Well, we know lots of men who would like to have a 400 set. Horticulture took the team game money with 582, and the set cash went to Grain, with its 1,636.

The East Washington Church League put on its annual doubles tournament at Convention Hall last night and Wayne Koontz, and his partner, Joe Murray, finished on top with a combined score of 1,186. Koontz rolled a 577 set, and Murray went him two better for 579. Jorman and Reid finished second by virtue of their 1,182 total; 613 of the pns were bowled over by Jorman, but Reid was able to muster but 549. Archie Hughes and Holtzdaw rolled into third place with 1,127. Hughes had 564 and his partner 523. Fourth place went to Walter Schnellings, who scored 546, and Rasterry, who had 539, or a total of 1,125.

It was Kapneck night in the Merchants League at the Hall. Mike himself had a 146 game and 361 set, and his team a 577 game and 1,661 total for the three.

In the ladies' division of the same circuit, Miss James had high set, 321. Miss Fleharty's 114 game took the prize in its class. Interdivision was by far and away the best of the teams, with a 471 game and 1,328 set.

3 D. C. GOLF PAIRS TIED AT TOP

Houghton-Fitzgerald, Shoreys, Hunters Lead Field.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 4.—Three teams from the Washington district finished tied for first prize in the regular event of the Middle Atlantic Professional Golfers Association tournament today at the Rolling Road Golf Club. Of the three teams, two were family combinations, the Shorey brothers and the Hunter father-and-son pair. The winning score was 72.

Al Houghton, pro, and Maury Fitzgerald, of the Kenwood Club, were first to post a card with the winning 72. Next in line were Mel Shorey and John Shorey, pro and amateur brothers, respectively, from the East Potomac Park public links in Washington, who had identical cards of 35-37. The last team to finish was that of J. Monro Hunter, sr., and J. Monro Hunter, jr., of Bethesda, and they carded 37-35 to get their 72 total.

Two Baltimore Teams Tie For Fourth.

Two local teams were tied for the next position, with 73. They were Charley Betschler and John Voneiff, of Rodgers Forge, and Glenn Spencer and Bill English of Maryland Country Club.

After the tournament the Middle Atlantic Association held a meeting, but did not take action upon any important subject. The scores:

Al Houghton and Maury Fitzgerald, Kenwood, 35, 37—72; Mel Shorey and John Shorey, East Potomac Park, 35, 37—72; J. Munro Hunter, sr., and J. Munro Hunter, jr., Bethesda, 37, 35—72; Glenn Spencer and Bill English, Maryland C. C., 35, 38—73; Charley Betschler and John Voneiff, Rodgers Forge, 36, 37—73; Carroll T. MacMaster and Dave Crook, Rolling Road, 37, 37—74; Bob Barnett and Bob Stead, Chevy Chase, 36, 38—74; John Flattery, Allview, and D. H. Harvey, jr., Indian Spring, 40, 38—78; Warner Mather and Jimmy Armacost, Woodholme, no card.

Bill Williams Named Drake Athletic Head

Des Moines, Iowa, April 4 (A.P.).—Evan O. "Billy" Williams, director of athletics at South High School, Minneapolis, today was named as athletic director and head football and basket ball coach at Drake University.

Williams succeeds Ossie Solem as athletic director and football coach and William G. Boelter as basket ball mentor. The selection was announced by President D. W. Morehouse after approval by the university executive committee. His contract is to run for one year.

Dr. Morehouse said that an announcement as to who will be appointed director of the Drake relays would be made later.

EASTERN IN VICTORY IN OPENER

Charlotte Hall Nine Bows, 7-6; Moore Tops Hitters.

EASTERN HIGH, four times champion of the D. C. scholastic baseball world, commenced its diamond season with a 7-6 victory over Charlotte Hall yesterday at Eastern Field. Virtually the entire Eastern squad was given an opportunity to display baseball wares during the eight-inning tussle.

Charlotte Hall, showing the effects of having played several games to date, was a stubborn foe, outhitting Eastern, 14 to 9, but nullified this advantage by leaving seven of its men stranded on the bags. The visitors folded up badly in the last two innings when Dick Lanahan, best of the local schoolboy moundsmen, cut them down with six strikeouts.

Moore Leads at Bat.

It was not only the first game of the season for Eastern but its first opportunity to play as a team this year. The hitting was consequently disappointing, except in the case of Bill Moore, all-high first baseman, who rifled out a single, a double and a home run in four appearances at the plate.

Hale and Cleary carried the brunt of the Eastern pitching, and were nicked liberally. Gonzaga High's contributions to the Eastern club, Dickie Fitzgerald, Joe and Carly Mills and Francis Cleary, looked good, but the general impression gained from the win is that Eastern will carry no great punch at the bat this year.

Today the high school boys play a couple of games. The feature will be the Business-Gonzaga game, on the Monument Grounds. Western plays St. Alban's, at St. Alban's.

NEW WORKMANSHIP REQUIREMENTS.

The House has voted a tax on stock market transactions and firearms, thereby making the position of traders pretty difficult.

With a tax on matches life is going to be more costly for the fellow who is always letting his pipe go out.

Now that former President Coolidge has had to pay $2,500 for talking, there can be no further doubt that we are living in a new era.

It happened at the exhibition of a new low-priced automobile. The lecturer beside the open-faced chassis was telling all about the car. "Any more questions?" he asked. "Anything else anybody would like to know?"

"There's one thing that's bothering me," chirped a worried-looking spectator in a thin voice.

"What is it?"

"Where'll I get the $500?"

Vaporized Zinc Is Used In New Electric Light

Detroit, Mich., April 4 (A.P.).—A new kind of red electric arc light made with vaporized zinc was shown for the first time here tonight at a meeting of the Illuminating Engineering Society.

The hot zinc vapor acts as the negative electrical pole in this lamp. Its advantage lies in lowering the resistance which characterizes the ordinary "cold" electrodes. The lamp was exhibited during a lecture by Dr. Harvey C. Rentschler, director of research of the Westinghouse Lamp Co.

Markets and Business in Review and Outlook

By Lawrence Sullivan

DOUBTLESS it would be a great thing for the country if, after two years and a half of disastrous economic dislocation, the United States now should launch upon the Honorable Wright Patman's suggested policy of "reflation."

"We want cash to pay the bonus certificates by issuing new currency," Statesman Patman remarked on Saturday, with his wonted disregard of the elemental rules of precise diction. "We favor a moderate reflation and there is ample gold to back the currency needed to cash the certificates."

Obviously, the scheme explains itself. But for the benefit of those who might wish to understand the more subtle ramifications of reflation Mr. Patman outlined the theory in all its incredible details.

"I am in favor of reflation of the currency and favor paying the balance due on these certificates, $2,200,000,000, by issuing United States notes, legal currency, which will be good for all debts, public and private.

"This would put money into every nook and cranny of the Nation. It would give purchasing power to consumers and there must be reflation before we can break this depression."

* * * *

MORE light on the beneficent influences of reflation will be given this breathless world on April 11, when the House ways and means committee begins hearings on the cash-to-carry program of the principal veterans' organizations. As the foremost advocate of immediate payment of the bonus certificates Mr. Patman will be one of the first persons to be heard by the committee.

Meanwhile, private advices from the gayer precincts of New York's wicked financial district report a rapidly developing movement among powerful interests to make the Honorable Mr. Patman president of the Fresh Air Taxicab Co. of America, Incorporated.

Proxies already are being gathered, and while there are some ugly rumors that friends of Andrew H. Brown, the incumbent, will offer stubborn resistance to placing a Texas Democrat in charge, it is believed that Patman's legions eventually will get the Fresh Air.

Amos 'n Andy are standing shoulder to shoulder against Patman's audacious assault upon their citadel of ridiculous pomposity, our informal advices continue, and if worst comes to worst they will enlist the unequivocal support of Will Rogers, Eddie Cantor and Bugs Baer.

* * * *

MOREOVER, it is reliably reported from the Amos 'n Andy camp that all the Brown supporters will March down Pennsylvania avenue next Monday carrying banners reading:

"Pepsodent Patman shall not pass our President."

* * * *

ON Capitol Hill it is a matter of public record that since the present Congress assembled last December members of both Houses have introduced bills embodying no less than seventeen specific schemes of elaboration or liberalization of veterans' allowances. The total cost of one complete set of these schemes—without counting duplicates presented by different members—would be approximately $5,637,000,000 during the next five years.

Mr. Patman's own bill calls for $2,500,000,000 as a starter. Senator Kenneth D. McKellar, of Tennessee, has called for $300,000,000 in various bills sponsored by the veterans. Leader LaGuardia has introduced a measure calling for an estimated $70,000,000.

Duplicates, or slight modifications, of these come-and-get-it bills have been presented in the House by various statesmen, including among others Representatives Almon, Brunner, Cartwright, Collins, Condon, Evans, Hastings, Kelly and Ragon.

* * * *

ASKED to comment on the outlook for additional pensions, bonuses, doles and annuities for veterans in the present session of Congress, President Andrew J. Brown summarized the new Fresh Air policy with striking clarity and vigor. He said in part: "Eight million * * * seventeen million * * * four billion * * * nineteen billion * * *"

BROKERS TRIM SAILS AWAITING NEW TRADE

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER.

New York, April 4 (A.P.).—Wall street's stock brokerage community believes it is now thoroughly deflated financially, but wonders how far it should go in reducing its mechanical trading facilities.

Many commission houses which are hanging on to expensive offices and extensive wire systems are not earning their overhead costs. Equipment was expanded in 1929 to take care of 5,000,000-share days. More recently, trading has been running around 1,000,000 shares.

Despite this shrinkage, stock exchange firms maintain some 1,300 branch offices, a reduction of only about 350 from the peak days of 1929.

Financially, brokers have cleaned house. Their borrowings amount to less than 2 per cent of the total value of listed stocks, as against an average of more than 9 per cent during 1928 and 1929. Firms that were unable to clean house have quit. On the whole, Wall street is confident an extraordinarily liquid condition prevails.

Commission houses have effected sweeping economies. Office forces have been reduced and salaries have been slashed. But the effort of maintaining skeleton organizations to be ready for a fresh flood of business when, as and if it returns, is proving painful. Firms are combining their wire services. Further economies, such as combining transfer and claiming businesses in joint offices, are being discussed.

The larger firms find themselves worse off than the smaller ones. Despite several mergers and dissolutions, many new firms have been formed, so there has been little change in the number of such exchange houses. New firms that have rented small quarters and have small overheads are not finding the waiting for better times so arduous, but big firms feel they should at least keep up appearances, to retain their customers.

The most encouraging aspect of the situation is, that if further mergers and dissolutions of firms become necessary, they are now generally in such a liquid condition that the problem presents no serious difficulties.

ALLEGHANY UTILITY EARNS $2,942,574

Paid-In Surplus Now Totals $19,388,430; Net Assets, $231,186,784.

Cleveland, April 4 (A.P.).—The Alleghany Corporation in its annual report for 1931 today listed net income at $2,942,574.78, earned surplus at $4,548,722.50, and paid-in surplus account at $19,388,430.36.

Assets, including $226,975,040.53 in investments at cost, were shown as $231,186,784.80. Loss from sale of securities was $11,683,764.70.

The report added that since January 1,046,200 shares of Pere Marquette Railway Co. common stock were sold to the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co. at $11 a share. The corporation also optioned to the Chesapeake & Ohio 215,000 shares of Erie Railroad Co. common stock and 167,300 shares of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad (Nickle Plate) common stock at $13.25 a share.

Wall Street Still Battles Shadow of Taxation Fear

Bankers and Brokers Hail Hoover's Plan to Cut $300,000,000 From Budget; London and Europe Cautious on Debt Statements.

New York, April 4 (A.P.).—The Wall street banking and brokerage community returned from its week-end rest period in a more cheerful mood than when it laid down its work last Saturday. Nevertheless, the new plans for raising Federal taxes continued to cast a shadow over sentiment as expressed in the usual investment advices to security buyers.

Washington reports that President Hoover would recommend a $300,000,000 cut in the Federal budget were well received, not only because of the savings in expenses that such a program would effect, but equally important, it was held, would be the beneficial effect it might have as a check on plans to make further inroads into the Treasury.

International bankers looked with interest on the conferences of European national leaders at London, but would not permit themselves to become overcheerful about the prospects of speeding up the solution of reparations and international debt problems.

As the new week began security taxes remained the chief topic of discussion in brokerage circles, with immediate interest shifting to what the Senate would do to the House bill.

Despite the absence of encouraging business statistics, there appears to be a strengthening undertone of confidence among leading bankers who are in close touch with financial institutions throughout the country. The banking situation, they say, has improved so noticeably that they believe danger of a crisis in that direction has definitely passed.

It has not been more than a month since the number of bank closings was large enough to cause any concern, and reports from various sections are stressing quiet and steady improvement.

What little cheer could be found in Wall street was attributable largely to the early reports of the public attendance at the special automobile displays opened late last week throughout the country by General Motors and the Ford Motor Co.

Automobile production as estimated for the latest week, shows a fair gain, largely attributable to Ford, and some authorities are predicting a sharp pickup for the month of April, which should be immediately felt by steel and related industries.

Weekly advices issued by some of the leading investment advisory services at the start of the week continued to caution security buyers to keep funds liquid pending further clarification of the Federal taxation situation. In some quarters, too, it was suggested that first-quarter earnings reports, to appear in large numbers during the next six weeks, would be disappointing. On the other hand, some observers felt that a convincing sign of improvement in business might bring a marked change in sentiment. The more hopeful quarters feel that the importance of the improvement in the banking situation is being overlooked.

Commercial insolvencies in March, as compiled by R. G. Dun & Co., numbered 2,951, with $93,760,311 of indebtedness. The number of failures was 8 per cent greater than in February and 13.3 per cent larger than in March, 1931.

WHEAT PRICES GAIN AS SUPPLY DECLINES

Domestic Stock Decreased 5,386,000 Bushels; Corn Closes Higher.

Chicago, April 4 (A.P.).—Impelled by an unexpected shrinkage of the United States visible supply total and by distressing expansion of drought area, wheat prices shot upward anew today.

A reduction of 5,836,000 bushels in the domestic visible stock of wheat during the last week was shown to be the heaviest weekly reduction on record since 1890, except for the week ended May 10 and in the war period, 1916-19. Urgent need of rain throughout the entire United States hard winter wheat belt was indicated, and there were also advices of serious deficiency of subsoil moisture over a large part of the spring wheat region of this country and Canada.

Wheat closed nervous, ⅜ to 1¾ cents above Saturday's finish; corn unchanged to ¼ cent higher; oats ⅛ to ⅜ cent up, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents off.

It was estimated that fully two weeks of growing weather would be required before a large part of the crop would be tall enough to protect the soil from dust drifting.

Late Rally Retrieves Stocks From Final Record Lows

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Mon.	Sat.
Number of advances	120	73
Number of declines	385	361
Stocks unchanged	200	151
Total issues traded	705	585

Stocks.

Rails resumed the decline in the opening trade, but news from Washington that Congress would not interfere with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation inspired a late rally. The 90-stock average, however, closed at a new 1932 low.

Bonds.

New lows also were registered for the rail and utility averages, but the 20 selected industrials stopped two-tenths of a point above the previous low.

Curb.

Stocks and bonds on the curb were weak and the trade small, with fractional sags general throughout the list.

Wheat.

Cotton.

The opening was steady and unchanged, but a late rally developed following the upturn in wheat, the better tone on the stock market and stronger Liverpool demand.

Average Closing Net Prices Are Losses, But Some Issues Gain.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, April 4 (A.P.).—Stocks bobbed up with a last-hour rally today, although until that improvement set in they had held out little encouragement for even a technical recovery.

With rails badly battered by fresh selling during the morning and early afternoon, the entire market dragged deeper into new low ground, only to regain ground sharply when short covering in the carriers was extended to other groups.

Final prices, as measured by the 90-stock composite, averaged lower, but rails actually showed a small net gain and modest advances appeared in a liberal assortment of industrials and utilities, including U. S. Steel and American Telephone.

The turn coincided with publication of Washington advices to the effect that Reconstruction Finance Corporation policy was definitely against allowing major railroad receiverships to occur and that the Senate's preoccupation with revenue matters would delay consideration of the proposal to remove rail loans from the jurisdiction of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Hoover Message.

Other factors which may have influenced sentiment were President Hoover's economy message and a strong advance in wheat.

The first four hours saw most of the market's leaders in new low ground. U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas and American Can at their worst were off 1 to more than 3 points, but still above the old minimums, and, with the exception of Can, they closed unchanged to a fraction higher.

Santa Fe Railroad, with a dividend meeting tomorrow, reacted 3¾ points, to 57½, rallying to 61½ for a small net advance.

Union Pacific dropped more than 3 points, to 63¼, but closed at 66, down only half a point.

Norfolk & Western, breaking par for the first time in the bear market, finished at an even 100, where it was down 4 net.

General Electric and General Motors sagged to new minimums and failed to make complete recovery.

National Biscuit was noticeably weak and there was considerable selling of Western Union, Loew's and Auburn. The last dropped 6 points to 55¼, cutting the loss later to 1¾. Sales for the day totaled 1,804,450 shares.

Liquidation on Curb.

The turnover of 260,000 shares exceeded that of the last full session by about 20,000 shares. More active issues were inclined to improve in the late trading in sympathy with a covering movement on the big board.

Utilities, in particular, received better support in spots. Electric Bond & Share common closed a fraction higher, and the 5 per cent preferred recovered 3½ points.

Commonwealth Edison touched a new low at 78½, then rallied to close at 80, up ¼, net.

Niagara Hudson sold off ¼ to 8, a new minimum, and the Standard Power & Light issues were depressed, the common dropping 4 points to a new low at 10.

A little pressure appeared in the oils. Gulf sold off about a point, then recovered partially; Standard of Indiana yielded a fraction and Humble declind about a point. The recent upturn in crude prices, some observers say, needs to be confirmed by higher gasoline prices.

AUTO EARNINGS SEEN INCREASING IN JUNE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Some betterment in earnings in the automobile industry is not unlikely in the June quarter, the April resume of the business outlook just completed by Standard Statistics Co., of New York, predicts. It states it is unlikely, however, that material improvement in the apparel trade will be witnessed during the near future.

Discussing automobile parts, the summary states that earnings for the first half of 1932 probably will fall substantially short of the returns for the corresponding period of last year. With regard to tires, it announces that a favorable level of profits must await at least partial clarification of present uneconomic trade practices.

Dealing with the building industry, the company's statisticians say that an extended period of credit readjustment must be completed before the industry will be on a basis permitting definite recovery. They find that both sales and profits of food companies, as a group, are being sustained at levels which are equaled in few other industries.

Moderately reduced earnings for shoe producers are indicated for the first half of the year. Some improvement in drug and medicine sales has been registered recently. Advertising profits for the second quarter will show little relative improvement in any division. Alleviation of the difficulties facing the radio industry is not in immediate prospect. For the railroads, improvement in traffic and earnings will be a slow process. Seasonal retail trade gains may be expected during the spring and early summer months, but gross sales will continue well below 1931 records.

Concerning theaters, the survey concludes that important future earnings improvement must await large scale reemployment of labor. Revenues of electric power companies probably will show further declines in the second quarter as compared with 1931 period. Sales of manufactured gas may be expected to remain fairly close to 1931 levels, but natural gas will be more seriously affected by industrial quiet. Moderate declines in profits of telegraph companies may be expected despite their sound position. Profits of telegraph and cable companies can show no substantial recovery in advance of general business improvement.

BOND MARKET SINKS TO NEW LOW LEVELS

By VICTOR EUBANK.

New York, April 4 (A.P.).—Notwithstanding a sharp rally of second-grade railway liens in the last few minutes of today's trading, the bond market was unable to pull itself out of the depths, and the average for 60 corporate securities lost seven-tenths of a point for another new 1932 low.

Issues of Nickel Plate had slumped more than 10 points, and loans of Baltimore & Ohio, Missouri Pacific, Frisco, St. Louis Southwestern and others were running close seconds, when a financial news ticker dispatch from Washington told that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation did not intend to permit any major railway receiverships as long as it retained its present authority apparently stemmed the selling.

At the same time it was reported that the Couzens bill to restrict the corporation in making loans to the carriers would not come up for consideration for some time.

The speculative carriers reflected this news by substantial rebounds. All of the Missouri Pacifics came back to close from 2 to 3 points higher on the day; the heavily traded Nickel Plate 6s for a net loss of only 2½ points; the Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1960 for a gain of 1¼; the Frisco 4s and 4½s for similar advances, and the St. Louis Southwestern Consolidated 4s for a net decline of 2¾ points.

Recoveries in bonds of other roads, however, were not so enthusiastic. Even Atchisons were off around 2½ points and Rock Island general 4s finished with a loss of 10 points. Recoveries, nevertheless, were recorded by some bonds of Chesapeake Corporation, Rock Island, Chicago & Northwestern, Allegheny Corporation, St. Paul, Erie and New York Central.

The utilities and industrials were generally soft. Liens of Colombia Gas & Electric, International Telephone, Postal Telegraph, Western Union, Detroit Edison, Paramount Publix, Loew's, Paramount-Famous-Lasky, Gulf States Steel, Remington Rand and various oil companies gave ground. American Telephone and Consolidated Gas bonds were steady.

The foreign department was easy, with the exception of the Argentines, most of which were up from 1 to 6 points.

Sales totaled $10,121,000, par value.

COTTON ADVANCES ON DEMAND REVIVAL

May Contracts Rise to 6.31 From 6.13; Liverpool Market Inactive.

New York, April 4 (A.P.).—Reports of a continued steady spot situation in the South, relatively steady Liverpool cables and the firmer ruling of grain were reflected by advances in cotton today.

The demand was not active or aggressive, but contracts appeared to be relatively scarce, following recent liquidation, and prices worked up from 6.13 to 6.31 for May contracts, or about 20 points above the low level of last week, on trade buying and covering. May closed at 6.29, with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 15 to 16 points. Closing quotations were within a point or two of the best for the day.

Reports from the South said there was not much business doing in the spot markets, but that the basis was generally firm.

Houses with Western and Wall street connections were among the buyers on the afternoon advance, and New Orleans also was credited with some buying here.

Liverpool cables reported an inactive market with covering on the easier sterling, but said the demand for cotton cloths and yarns was unimportant.

Exports today were 34,543 bales, making 6,970,000 bales so far this season.

DR. BALLOU DESCRIBES CHANGES IN EDUCATION

Says Training of Today Seeks Upbuilding of Character for Citizenship.

With doubt and confusion prevalent in the United States, survival of this country depends on the generation of children now in school and how they are taught, Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d declared last night at the fiftieth birthday celebration of the Grant School in West Washington, which was named after his grandfather, the Civil War general.

Citing excerpts from his forebear's letters in which he expressed opinions on the Nation and its future, Col. Grant declared that one of the outstanding characteristics of the general was his determination to do any job assigned to him, regardless of any lack of confidence in his ability to perform the assignment.

"This willingness to face difficulties and see them through is one of the great needs in the country today," he said. "We have lost the habit of doing this because we have learned, in past years, to get things too easily."

Type of Building Minor.

Col. Grant declared that it will devolve on the generation now in school to decide upon which is right and wrong in the future of this country, and it will be their task, he added, to settle the future crisis of the Nation. Every public and private school, he said, should be a school of good citizenship.

Discussing the Grant School and its age, Col. Grant pointed out that the type of the building of a school is not as important as what is taught in it. Reminding the large audience that packed the small corridor of the school that many of the greatest men of the country were products of small town schools, the speaker said that it should be the inspiration of the teachers of the Grant to realize that they may be educating a future Washington, Lincoln or Grant. Another compensation, he pointed out, is the future development of the community in which the school is situated.

That modern schools are endeavoring to carry out the needs mentioned by Col. Grant was shown by Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, who said that the point of view of education has changed from being selfish and individualistic to a cooperative and social undertaking in which character training is being stressed in developing children into good citizens, fitted for future work in a democracy.

Others Making Addresses.

Last night's celebration also marked the 110th anniversary of Gen. Grant's birth. Mrs. Joseph N. Saunders, president of the District Congress of Parents and Teachers Associations, presided, and brief addresses were made by Miss Viola Offutt, principal of the Grant School; F. A. Woodward, principal of the Gordon Junior High School and a teacher 32 years ago at the Grant; Fred C. Embrey, of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants; Robert L. Haycock, assistant superintendent of schools, and Henry C. Draper, supervising principal over the Grant School.

Mrs. Margaret Grissett, president of the Grant Parent-Teacher Association, sang two solos, and a minuet was given by students of the sixth and eighth grades. Mrs. Bert M. Manley, vice president of the Grant Parent-Teacher Association, was in charge of the celebration.

CELEBRATING GOLDEN JUBILEE

Grant School celebrated its golden jubilee last night at the school with exercises under auspices of the Parent-Teachers Association. Yesterday was also the one hundred and tenth anniversary of the birth of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, in whose honor the school was named. Northwestern U. Alumni Assemble

Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern University, addressed the "Purple" Alumni here last night at a banquet in his honor at the Kennedy-Warren, on the new educational "experiment in precocity" now being conducted on the university's campus at Evanston, Ill.

Judge Isaac R. Hitt, a member of the Washington Northwestern University Alumni Club, gave a short address in which he gave a history of the club, which was organized here 31 years ago.

The experiment in precocity, which has attracted world-wide attention, is a study of genius, and the specimens are boys and girls of precocious intellectual tendencies, sent to the university from high schools to join a freshman class to take a special course of study under careful, statistical supervision.

Old Man With Whiskers Sought on Arson Charge

A shabbily dressed white man about 60 years old, with whiskers and a moustache, is wanted on a charge of arson in connection with a small fire in a vacant store at 909 Seventh street northwest yesterday afternoon.

According to police this man has been seen entering and leaving the store and it is their belief that he has been living there. He was seen leaving the scene shortly before the fire was discovered. A notice has been broadcast for his arrest.

Citizens' Group Favors Stage Acting by Minors

A bill allowing the appearance of minors on the stages of the District of Columbia was approved last night by the Cathedral Heights-Cleveland Park Citizens Association, but the provision which gives the Board of Education supervision over plays in which children appear was strongly opposed.

The association urged that a traffic light be placed at Connecticut avenue and Macomb street and opposed the installation of meters on taxicabs and any change in the present zone system.

BOWMAN TO BATTLE FOR SAFE CAR STOPS

Wants to Know Why P. U. C. Can Not Enforce Loading Platform Order.

Representative Frank L. Bowman (Republican), West Virginia, will carry his fight for street car loading zones that are "safe" in fact as well as name, to the Public Utilities Commission, he said yesterday.

The West Virginia member of the House District committee said he wanted to know "why" the commission was unable to enforce its order requiring the local traction companies to build raised loading platforms.

Mr. Bowman started an inquiry into the situation after two colored boys were run down by a motorist in one of the zones defined only by white paint several weeks ago.

Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer said his department could not build raised platforms because of prohibition in the District bill against expenditure of public funds for the purpose.

Chairman Clarence Cannon, of the House District appropriations subcommittee, was approached. He refused to remove the ban, holding it up to the street car companies to construct the platforms. Learning the commission had ordered them to do so, and they had not complied, Representative Cannon said he intended to ask why it was the commission had not enforced its order. He is a member of the District utilities subcommittee which Thursday night will report favorably to the District committee on the proposed traction merger.

Chamber Indorses Taxicab Regulation

Committee Opposes Interference With P. U. C. by Congress.

Indorsement of taxicab regulation by the District Public Utilities Commission, and opposition to any efforts by Congress to restrict or curtail the present powers of the commission, was voiced by the transportation committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon meeting yesterday at the Raleigh Hotel.

This action was taken after a report was heard from Allen V deFord, chairman of the subcommittee on taxicab regulation. The traffic mana-block plan, referred to a subcommittee, headed by H. M. Starling for study, will be submitted to the District committee on employment for such action as it may deem proper, it was decided.

Highlands Citizens Back Library Extensoin Plan

Members of the Washington Highlands Citizens Association last night in dorsed the proposed Public Library extension program at their meeting in the auditorium of Congress Heights School.

The secretary was authorized to send the association's thanks to the District Commissioners for the prompt construction of a guard rail along Livingstone road between Atlantic street and Nichols avenue. Two new members, Roy Clarke and Earl Nair, were admitted.

Democratic Victory Tea Will Be Held Tomorrow

The fourth Dollar Victory Tea, under auspices of members of the Democratic party, will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. John R. Williams, 1531 New Hampshire avenue northwest, from 4:30 to 6 o'clock.

A donkey party will be a feature of the afternoon's entertainment. The teas are held every Wednesday.

Girl, 3, Killed And Boy Hurt By Two Autos

A girl, 3 years old, was killed, and a boy only a year and a half older was seriously injured yesterday when they broke from the hands of guiding elders and ran into the paths of motor vehicles.

Barbara Martin, 3 years old, of 23 Bryant street northeast, was instantly killed yesterday morning, when she was run over by a heavy truck at North Capitol and Bryant streets.

The child was waiting to cross the street with her grandmother, Mrs. Marion Gozlin, of the Bryant street address, when she broke away from her and darted in front of the truck. Her spine was broken when the wheels of the truck passed over her. She was pronounced dead at Sibley Hospital.

According to Mrs. Gozlin, they were waiting for a street car and a truck to pass when Barbara broke away and ran out into the street almost underneath the truck. They were on their way to a grocery store. The driver of the truck, John F. Courtney, colored, 47, of 1606 Third street northwest, was released in custody of E. I. Dawson, of the District Government, which owns the truck.

Willis Umholtz, 4½ years old, had got past traffic on Third street southeast at A with his mother, Mrs. Adam A. Umholtz, of 313 East Capitol street, when he broke from her restraining hand and was struck by an automobile driven south on Third street by Joseph V. Quillan, 17 years old, of 314 B street southeast, son of Dr. Francis McQuillan. The child was taken to Casualty Hospital with serious internal injuries.

The driver had taken the car from in front of his father's house, intending to drive to an alley in the rear and wash it. He was charged with operating an automobile without a District permit and released in custody of his father.

Two Davises Accused By Capital Grand Jury

A fingerprint on a piece of glass yesterday led to the indictment of Henry Davis on a charge of breaking into the warehouse of the Wilkins Coffee Co., 525 Rhode Island avenue northeast, December 10, at which time $2,299.07 was taken from a safe that was rifled.

Another Davis, William, was also indicted for housebreaking. This one allegedly blew open two safes in the Hahn Shoe Store, Seventh and K streets northwest, on February 15, obtaining only some office papers for his trouble. Police said they did not know of any relationship between the two Davis men.

Ether Smoke Used By Liquor Runner

Police Pursuers Are Made Drowsy, but Arrest Is Effected.

An etherized smoke screen, the newest weapon to be used by rumrunners to evade pursuit by police, gave a rumrunner only temporary security from police early yesterday. Examination of the smoke apparatus, according to police, showed that its discharge contained 50 per cent ether.

Motorcycle Policemen K. P. Greenlow and M. G. Randall, chased a speeding car near Monroe and First street northwest. The smoke was released. The policemen were temporarily blinded and made drowsy by the fumes. A radio scout car took up the chase and was also forced to abandon pursuit.

Detective George C. Deyoe, acting on "inside information," found the rum running car in a garage near Ontario road and Florida avenue. Two colored men, who were unloading alleged liquor, fled. Deyoe arrested Elmo M. Johnson, colored, 29 years old, of 1014 Columbia road, who was charged with possession of whisky, possession of a smoke screen and carrying a concealed weapon.

Wolter Goes to Maryland Farm After Ending Fast

Foresaking his tiny room on the third floor of the Salvation Army Hotel at 119 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, Dr. Frederic F. Wolter, who for 33 days refrained from eating as a gesture against unemployment conditions, yesterday packed his belongings and set out for the wide-open spaces of a produce farm in nearby Maryland.

Dr. Wolter, holder of a number of university degrees, was persuaded by members of the Seventh Day Adventist's Church to conclude his fast and come to their colony. It has not been learned what was offered him, but during his hunger strike he declared he would not eat again until presented with "suitable employment" or guaranteed an annual income of $600.

The doctor broke his fast last Saturday after several mysterious visits by a woman member of the Adventist's Church. He left the hotel yesterday in her company. It is understood he was taken to a farm near Takoma Park, Md.

A strict vegetarian, Dr. Wolter often expressed the desire to own a small farm where he could spend the rest of his life in study.

FIGHT IS DUE TODAY OVER GASOLINE TAX

Senate Committee to Open Hearings on Mapes Bill to Increase Levy.

Washington civic groups today are expected to throw the combined force of their strength against the proposed 2-cent increase in local gasoline levies, at hearings before the Senate District committee, opening at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The Mapes gasoline tax bill is the second of five measures revising the local system of taxation to be taken up by the Senate committee, which last week disposed of estate tax hearings without bringing the bill to a vote.

Today's opposition is expected to develop principally from the ranks of organized motorists. Friday the committee will pass on to the proposed tax on automobiles by weight, a second measure that has roused the motorists' ire.

All of the bills have been analyzed and revised by the Bureau of Efficiency, which now is at work on the last of the measures, a local income tax bill, and a bill to abolish the 60-40 Federal fiscal relationship basis, now part of the substantive law.

The showdown on the $4,000,000 tax program probably will come at the close of the hearings, as Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the committee, has said he will not call for a vote until the issue has been taken up as a whole. Many organized local civic groups have indicated they do not wish to be heard until the Mapes program is taken up as a unit.

Address of Suspect Erroneously Printed

The address of Francis Mulvey, alias Roy Holt, 26 years old, who has been charged with assault with intent to kill as a result of an attack on a headquarters detective, was erroneously given in The Post Monday as 1115 B street southeast.

The man used two addresses when he gave his name at the time of being booked. One was 1020 B street southeast and the other was 236 H street northeast. The Post regrets the error.

Mail Fraud Indictment.

Joseph C. Millar was indicted yesterday by the District grand jury for alleged use of the mails to defraud. Millar, who is said to run a supply business at 471 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, entered into various contracts, through the mails, to purchase goods by false statements, the indictment charged.

GAS-HOLDER HEARING CONTINUED AS FIGHT DEVELOPS OVER SITE

Citizens' Groups and Institutions Protest Selection of Murphy Tract.

FURTHER STUDY ASKED OF AVAILABLE PROPERTY

Company's Chief Engineer Is Heckled at Meeting as He Explains Plans.

After hearing a score or more of protests from neighborhood citizens' associations and property owners against the proposal of the Washington Gas Light Co. to erect a gas holder on the Murphy tract, in the Northeast section, the Public Utilities Commission late yesterday continued the public hearing until April 27 to allow time for a further and more widespread study of other possible sites.

The National Capital Park and Planning Commission, which approved the disputed site after a survey, was asked by the utilities body to make a further study of the Terra Cotta area and any other suitable sites, if any, and report its findings to the District commission before the hearing is resumed.

A storm of protests from a half dozen citizens' associations, representatives of the Catholic institutions and residents of the extreme Northeast section greeted the gas company's explanation of its plan yesterday. Charges that property values would be seriously impaired, that the holder would be unsightly, that malodorous fumes would constitute a nuisance and that the plant would be a hazard were hurled throughout the day's hearing.

Engineer Continuously Heckled.

Walter M. Russell, chief engineer of the gas company, who explained the company's plans with photographs and lantern slides to make the gas holder as inoffensive to the eye as possible and as safe, was heckled continuously throughout his testimony.

William McK. Clayton, of the Brightwood Citizens Association, suggested that the holder be located across the District line in a sparsely settled section of Maryland, but George A. G. Wood, president of the gas company, and Mr. Russell both contended that such a proposal could not be considered, as the gas was to be distributed solely in the District. Both officials stated that it would be dangerous for the gas company to go through another winter without the additional reserve supply.

William M. Deviny, representing Catholic University and the Catholic Sisters College, and John Zabel, representing the Sisters of the Good Shepherd and Franciscan Monastery, said that the property of the Catholic institutions would be seriously damaged by the presence of the gas holder. They added that it would interfere with the plans of the agencies to beautify the area with parks and other buildings.

Internal Controversy Threatened.

Delegates to the citizens' association threatened to engage in a controversy among themselves at one stage of the hearing regarding the preference of the Murphy tract, which is near Ridge road and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, over the Terra Cotta area. It was then that Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman, proposed that all such comparative discussions be postponed until more data could be obtained.

J. Nolan, jr., of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission staff, explained that the park body approved the Murphy tract as "as good a way as any out" of the problem. He will make the additional studies, unless the planning commission objects.

Among the citizens' associations who protested against the Murphy tract location were the Chillum Heights, the Petworth, the Manor Park, the Brightwood, the Michigan Park and the Takoma Park, of District of Columbia.

During the morning Mr. Russell said that the holder would cost between $600,000 and $1,000,000 to construct, would be 155 feet high, and would contain 10,000,00 cubic feet of gas.

DISTRICT SIGN LAW MAY BAR PICKETING

Corporation Counsel Holds Act Prohibits Carrying of Strikers' Banners.

The newly enacted District sign regulation, adopted last year with the primary aim of removing billboards and objectionable signs, contains a clause which is interpreted as prohibiting strike picketing, it was revealed yesterday when Corporation Counsel William W. Bride submitted an opinion on the subject to the District Commissioners.

Answering an inquiry by Marx Lewis, attorney for the local fur workers' union, the corporation counsel upheld Roland M. Brennan, chief clerk of the Engineer Department, that Section 16, of the sign act, would "prohibit the carrying of banners on public space under the control of the Commissioners."

Section 16 reads: "That no advertising sign or banner shall be carried or transported on or over any public space. The provisions of this section shall not be held to apply to signs displayed on vehicles and advertising the bona fide business of the owner."

In all probability a public hearing will be held on the matter. Mr. Bride suggested such procedure, and Mr. Lewis said the labor group certainly would demand such a hearing, as he believed it was never the intention of Congress to prevent peaceful picketing when it adopted the sign act.

$4,000 Is Advanced In Orchestra Fund

Seven Match Conductor's $500 in Symphony's $75,000 Goal.

Another step toward the National Symphony Association's goal of a $75,000 guarantee fund was taken when Conductor Hans Kindler's offer of $500 was immediately matched by seven music patrons of the Capital.

Kindler's offer was announced at the women's committee meeting, called yesterday by Mrs. Tracy Dows, chairman, at the home of Mrs. Edwin B. Parker, 2001 Twenty-fourth street. The conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra volunteered $500 provided 20 other persons would give a like amount. Committee members are confident his offer can be completely covered.

A fund of $75,000, the committee's aim, would assure for Washington a season of 24 concerts for the season of 1932-33.

About 50 prominent local women attended yesterday's meeting. Plans for the completion of the symphony association's guarantee list were discussed.

Motorman Cleared In Fatal Accident

Grand Jury Investigating Fireman's Death Declines to Indict Jones.

A refusal to indict Clarence Jones, 38 years old, motorman on the Washington Railway & Electric Co., was reported by the grand jury yesterday after investigating the crash between a fire engine and Jones' street car at Eleventh and P streets northwest February 18. Maurice C. Corbett, a fireman, of 1113 Seventh street, was killed.

The grand jury also returned an ignoramus in the case of Ernest Meile, 30 years old, and John Charles Price, 35 years old, in connection with a charge of conspiring to kill Fire Chief George Watson.

The grand jury found that there was no basis for sustaining such charges against the two men. The report acquits them of any culpability.

PRESBYTERIAN FETE RESERVATIONS RISE

Original Plans for Dinner on April 13 Enlarged by Commissioners.

An increasing demand for reservations for a dinner to be held in the Mayflower Hotel on April 13 as the Presbyterian contribution to the Bicentennial celebration last night forced a meeting of the National Capital Presbyterian Commission to consider enlarged seating arrangements for the affair.

Requests for places at the dinner have been received from almost every section of the Nation. The original estimate of 400 guests will be greatly exceeded, according to present indications.

Mrs. Thomas W. Lockwood, jr., is selecting a committee of hostesses to assist in receiving Mrs. Benjamin Harrison and other women guests.

Among the hostesses are Mrs. Hutchison I. Cone, Mrs. Perry S. Heath, Mrs. Daniel L. Borden, Mrs. Willard H. Bronson, Mrs. Wilson Compton and others.

Before the dinner, wreaths will be placed at the foot of the Washington Monument and beside the statue of the Rev. John Witherspoon, Presbyterian signer of the Declaration of Independence, by a delegation headed by the Rev. John C. Palmer, chairman of the board of trustees of the National Presbyterian Church.

Episodes from various phases of colonial history in which Presbyterians were leaders will be enacted as features of the dinner program.

Forest Hills Fights Auto Weight Levy

Association Does Not Object to Substitute for Mapes Proposal.

The automobile weight tax provision of the Mapes bill was strongly disapproved by the Forest Hills Citizens Association meeting at the Ben W. Murch School last night, but the association said it would not object to the substitute offered by the Bureau of Efficiency. The resolution contained a proviso, however, that under the substitute there would be no objection to a 1-cent gas tax increase if the special assessment law for street widening is repealed and proceeds of the gas tax is applied exclusively to highway purposes.

Herbert L. Willett, jr., assistant director of the Community Chest, outlined the work of the District committee on unemployment. The association received ten new members.

Youth Is Seriously Hurt In Fall From Porch Rail

Leroy Gas, 19 years old, of 1270 Morse street northeast, fell from a railing on the front porch of his home to the ground yesterday afternoon.

He was removed to Casualty Hospital in their ambulance and treated for a possible fractured skull. His condition is undetermined.

Capital Traffic Accidents Fewer But More Deadly

Nine persons were killed in automobile accidents during March this year, which is equal to the combined fatalities for March in 1930 and 1931, when four and five were killed. While the fatalities increased, the number of persons injured and the number of accidents reported decreased.

A report of Inspector L. I. H. Edwards shows there were 268 persons injured last month, as compared with 305 in 1930 and 288 in 1931. In March there were 440 accidents, involving only property damage, as compared with 467 in 1930 and 530 in 1931.

During the month 5,546 persons were arrested for violations of the traffic regulations. The causes of the greatest number of arrests were miscellaneous parking, which caused 1,286 arrests. This is exclusive of 925 arrests made for overtime parking.

Speed law violations caused the arrest of 463 drivers, while disobedience of an official sign caused the arrest of 934. Other regulations which caused the arrest of numerous motorists are: Parking abreast, 279 arrests; passing a signal, 202 arrests, and parking between 8 a. m. and 9:30 a. m., 189 arrests.
